

Courtroom action on Watergate to intensify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Courtroom activity connected to the Watergate scandal is expected to quicken during the first months of the New Year.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has indicated that the Watergate grand juries are ready to consider indictments "in a substantial number of major involvements" this month and next.

The conspiracy-perjury trial of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and two others in the Vesco campaign contribution case is scheduled to begin this month in New York.

The sentencing of Egil Krogh Jr., head of the White House plumbers, is expected in a number of weeks. Krogh has pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The two Watergate grand juries in Washington — soon to be joined by a third — have been probing the break-in of Democratic party headquarters and the subsequent cover-up, as well as illegal campaign contributions, the ITT and milk-fund cases, the Howard Hughes $100,000 contribution and dirty campaign tactics.

Jaworski said in a statement Monday: "Although investigations in various areas within the special prosecutor's jurisdiction are continuing, including the review of White House files, the presentation of evidence to the grand juries has progressed to the point that in January and February these bodies will be prepared to consider the matter of returning indictments in a substantial number of major involvements."

It is known that targets of the grand juries in their various probes include

such former Nixon aides and intimates as Mitchell, Maurice H. Stans, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Herbert W. Kalmbach and Charles W. Colson.

Ehrlichman, David R. Young and convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy also have pleaded innocent to state indictments in Los Angeles in connection with the rifling of files of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

In addition to Krogh, sentencing also is pending in the cases of three former White House or re-election committee aides who pleaded guilty to one count each of obstructing justice in return for giving testimony against others.

They are John W. Dean III, the former presidential counsel who said Nixon knew of the cover-up; Jeb S. Magruder, deputy director of the re-election committee who admitted knowing of break-in plans and committing perjury; and Frederick C. LaRue, a go-between in payoffs to the Watergate defendants.

Appeals are pending in the cases of all seven men who either were convicted of the Watergate break-in after trial or who pleaded guilty and then tried to withdraw the plea.

The U.S. Court of Appeals has ordered that E. Howard Hunt Jr., sentenced to a minimum of 2½ years, and Bernard L. Barker, sentenced to 1½ years, be freed pending outcome of their appeal. Three other men will have hearings by the parole board next Monday.

To date, eight corporations and one officer in each have pleaded guilty to making illegal campaign contributions. One other firm and its chairman have pleaded innocent and will go to trial.

Polar Bears take a dip

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Swimmers and water skiers frolicked Tuesday in Lake Michigan beach, marking Milwaukee's especially rugged method of welcoming the new year.

The air temperature was one degree below zero, the water temperature about 34 degrees, and the estimated wind-chill factor dipping to 30 degrees below zero.

The beach outing, witnessed by several hundred persons wearing thick winter garments, involved about 12 swimmers under auspices of the Polar Bear Club.

Saying they were inspired by the lightly-clad club bathers, Darryl Rindall and Glen Tomczyk donned somewhat-insulating wetsuits and went water skiing.

"I figured if I waited until warmer weather, there might not be any gasoline left to operate my boat," Rindall said.

The club outing began in Milwaukee about 40 years ago, and is duplicated at other Lake Michigan cities, notably Sheboygan.

Newcomers to the Milwaukee dip were as young as 15. Veterans include Dean Seitz and Garth Gaskey, who said they have been at it for 20 years and come equipped with stories a' most as old.

"It is good for you," Seitz said. "I've had colds and hangovers, and this has always cured it."

"One time Garth went in with a 102 fever, and it broke the fever," he added.

Joey Sutter, credited with having initiated the tradition, expressed delight with the sharp, 15 mile-an-hour wind.

"We fell in and got real wet, and when we stood up it felt like we were cut in half. Terrific," he said.

Asked how he warms up after the icy dip, Sutter said his doctor advised him to "add some brandy to the water in my blood."

About a dozen persons also participated in Sheboygan, with hundreds of spectators watching.

A Sheboygan participant completed his swim with a dash of heresy: "Next year we're going to do it in August."

Strike closes schools

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. (AP) — Post-holiday resumption of school today was postponed after teachers announced late Tuesday they would strike in the absence of a contract settlement.

Bargainers met for about three hours Tuesday in hope of avoiding a walkout by the Wisconsin Rapids Education Association, which last conducted a work stoppage in 1971.

Storms, cold numb nation's midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A growing winter storm surged into the central Plains and mid Mississippi Valley today where zero and subzero temperatures numbed residents for a third straight day.

Appleton's temperatures ranged Tuesday from minus 12 to zero.

Heavy-snow warnings were issued from Arizona to Kansas and heavy-snow watches extended into Missouri and Iowa. As much as 4 inches of snow was expected today and tonight.

The cold wave over the midcontinent lingered at record-breaking lows in many places. It was 25 below at Eau Claire, Wis., before dawn and below freezing at Dallas.

Up to 16 inches of snow blanketed the southern Rockies in Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado on Tuesday. An avalanche warning was extended to all mountain areas in the northern two-thirds of Colorado above 9,500 feet. More than 180 avalanches have been reported since Friday.

Rain and drizzle dampened areas of the Gulf coast and the central Atlantic coastal states.

Wichita, Kan., police found the frozen body of a man in the back seat of a car Tuesday. Authorities said the victim apparently was placed there by companions who had been drinking with him at a New Year's Eve party and could not get him home. Temperature readings in Wichita dipped to -2 early Tuesday.

Most Kansas City schools were closed today because of transportation and heating problems.

Members of the Bald Eagle Water Ski Club of the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., area were forced to give up an honored New Year's Day tradition. They were unable to water ski on the Mississippi River because they couldn't find any open water.

A Jan. 1 record low of -30 was registered at Minneapolis-St. Paul early Tuesday, and today's "warming trend" was expected to fall between -12 and 4 above zero.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -25 at Eau Claire, Wis., to 75 at Homestead Air Force Base in Florida.

Some other reports: Anchorage 16 cloudy, Atlanta 37 cloudy, Boston 34 partly cloudy, Chicago 1 clear, Cincinnati 9 clear, Cleveland 6 cloudy, Dallas 31 cloudy, Denver 1 light snow, Detroit 2 clear, Honolulu 76 clear, Indianapolis 3 cloudy, Kansas City 3 light snow, Los Angeles 45 clear, Louisville 16 partly cloudy, Miami 73 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul -19 clear, Nashville 22 clear, New York 29 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 30 clear, Phoenix 49 cloudy, Pittsburgh 19 light snow.

Sergeant fires into tearoom

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A South Korean army sergeant shot up a tea room in Taegu Tuesday night, seized about 30 hostages and still was holding off 200 police and military policemen Wednesday afternoon, the Defense Ministry said.

Two men were killed and two others wounded in the initial outburst of shooting, the ministry said. Taegu is 150 miles southeast of Seoul.

Police said the sergeant was Cho Hyo-suk of the 6th Military Police Battalion in Taegu and that he was armed with a carbine and about 120 rounds of ammunition.

His brother and sister and his superior officers were at the scene trying to persuade him to release his hostages.

Bridge pursuit

New York City police cautiously edge close to a man identified as Jim Weber on the suspension cables of New York's Brooklyn bridge. Police said the man evaded them for more than an hour, clambering about on the bridge shouting, "You can't help me." Police finally persuaded the man to allow himself to be helped to the ground. He was then hospitalized for a mental examination. (AP Wirephoto)

Nixon owes big debt to oil firms, Aspin says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials and major stockholders of 178 oil companies gave nearly $5 million to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, according to a study by Rep. Les Aspin.

The Wisconsin Democrat said Tuesday that the contributions make it impossible for Nixon to deal effectively with the energy crisis.

The 58-page study lists contributions to Nixon's campaign totaling $4,981,840 from 413 oil company directors, senior officials and principal stockholders.

Aspin said this does not include contributions of $268,700 from the Rockefeller family — which he said owns 1 per cent of Exxon stock — or $505,000 from executives of 10 major petrochemical firms. These donations would bring the total to about $5.7 million, or roughly 10 per cent of the total contributions to the Nixon campaign, said Aspin.

"It is now clear why the administration attitude has been so consistently anticonsumer and pro-big oil — the oil companies financed a big chunk of the President's last campaign," Aspin said in a statement accompanying the study. Three large oil companies on the list —

Gulf, Phillips and Ashland — have admitted illegally donating a total of $300,000 in corporate funds to the campaign, Aspin noted. These donations were later returned.

"The big oil companies have Mr. Nixon in a double hammerlock," said Aspin. "After their massive contributions, there is little he can do to control them."

Spray deodorant may be link in girl's death

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Spray deodorant was being considered Tuesday by investigators seeking the cause of the death of a teen-age girl.

Amy Holt, 14, was found dead Monday in her bedroom where her family said she had been preparing to go to a cousin's party.

A can of spray deodorant was found near the girl's body. The Milwaukee County medical examiner's office said cause of death was not immediately known, and that tests were underway to determine if the victim had inhaled spray.

Aspin said the major contributions came from executives and stockholders of these firms:

Gulf Oil Co., $1.18 million; Amerada Hess Corp., $261,956; Getty Oil Co., $179,292; Standard Oil of Calif., $166,000; Sun Oil Co., $157,798; Pan Ocean Oil Corp., $137,036; Phillips Petroleum Co., $137,000; Exxon, $127,747; the Williams Companies, $117,586; Shaleen Natural Resources, $104,000; and Ashland Oil Inc., $103,500.

Aspin released his study amid these other energy-related developments:

A high-ranking energy official said that the price of gasoline, heating oil and diesel fuel may rise by as much as 10 cents a gallon by March 1. And, said Charles R. Owens, deputy of the Federal Energy Office, there is no reason to believe these prices will level off after March 1.

The energy office said it is investigating reports that Sun Oil Co. set grossly inflated prices for heating oil to two large customers. The probe, said an office spokesman, follows complaints from the customers: Northeast Petroleum of Boston and Northville Industries of Melville, N.Y.

Israeli coalition forming

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir's Labor party and its traditional ally, the National Religious party, today began the maneuvering necessary to put together a new coalition government for Israel.

Although the soldiers' ballots from the cease-fire lines were still to be tallied, unofficial returns from Monday's general election indicated Mrs. Meir might be able to line up 69 members of the 120-member Knesset, the Israeli parliament, for a majority of 18.

This would include 50 Laborites, 11 members of the National Religious party, 5 Independent Liberals and 3 members of ultra-orthodox religious parties affiliated with the Labor alignment.

The leader of the National Religious party, Michael Hazani, said he would insist on formation of a "national unity government," meaning inclusion of the Laborites' chief opposition, the right-wing Likud bloc, which demands that Israel retain all Arab territory captured in the 1967 war.

However, Labor leaders view this demand by Hazani as a bargaining ploy only. They were confident that he would abandon it in exchange for their agreement to stronger religious legislation.

In the returns from the civilian balloting, the Laborites got 41.9 per cent of the vote, the socialists' smallest showing in Israel's 25 years as a state. The big gain was made by Likud, led by Menachem Begin, which got 27.1 per cent of the vote and was in line for 39 seats, a gain of seven.

The right-wing gains may force the government to hold on to some of the captured Arab territories it was prepared to relinquish in the Arab-Israeli peace negotiations in Geneva.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres said it would take Mrs. Meir and her associates a "little bit of time and a great deal of bargaining" to put together a new majority in the Knesset.

IRS to look at Nixon's tax returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday it is re-examining President Nixon's income tax returns for the past several years.

The IRS said representatives of President Nixon are cooperating fully in the probe and had authorized disclosure of the action.

The IRS did not disclose the reason for its probe.

The agency said it has arranged to exchange information on the President's tax returns with the congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which has agreed, at Nixon's request, to review the chief executive's tax returns for the years since he entered the White House in 1969.

The President's attorneys have estimated Nixon could owe as much as $267,000 in back taxes if the deductions he claimed are disallowed.

The IRS did not say for what years would be covered by the review. But there has been controversy over the President's returns for 1970, 1971 and 1972.

The President paid total taxes for these three years of less than $8,000.

Nixon's brother paid for 'doing nothing,' his wife says

ALDERWOOD MANOR, Wash. (AP) — President Nixon's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Nixon, says while her husband is "off being paid to do nothing" she has to teach school and raise two children.

"While he's off being paid to do nothing, I'm here alone. I'm trying to teach school and I've got two kids and let me tell you, it's tough," she told newsmen checking reports her husband was paid a $21,000 consultant's fee to find out where the Nixon family wants a presidential library built.

Leonard Firestone, head of a tax-exempt foundation formed by friends of the President to build the library, confirmed Monday in Los Angeles that Edward Nixon was a paid consultant.

Edward Nixon, 42, lives in Alderwood Manor, a Seattle suburb. He could not be reached for comment.

"An invasion of privacy" is how Mrs. Nixon described the story of her husband's consultant fee. She held out a hammer and said she felt "like taking this thing and knocking down our newspaper boxes so I won't have to read some of the things they write."

She said the foundation paid her husband $1,500 a month for 14 months beginning in December 1970. She said the foundation, of which her husband is a trustee, "folded in August."

But Firestone, the tire and rubber magnate, said the foundation still exists.

Firestone said that Edward Nixon viewed six potential library sites and recommended that the final choice come from three in Orange County, Calif.

A career Navy officer before settling with his family in the Seattle area in 1960, Edward Nixon held a staff supervisory position with Pacific Northwest Bell.

When his brother was elected President in 1968, Edward Nixon was offered a post as head of the Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska, but he turned down the $30,000 post. He said he wanted to avoid charges of nepotism.

A year later he assumed a more active role in public affairs, winning election as Republican state committeeman for Snohomish County. Later he was named a trustee of the Nixon foundation.

The President's brother recently became a partner in the Seattle Kings, a group contesting for rights to an National Hockey League franchise in Seattle.

The payments to Edward Nixon came to light in a foundation report to the California state registry of charitable trusts, which scrutinizes the finances of tax-exempt foundations.

1973 ends in uncertainty

By DEBORAH M. RANKIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolstered by strong demand for goods and services, American business started off 1973 on the upbeat. But it ended the year on an uncertain note after the boom began to weaken and the Arabs halted U.S. oil shipments.

The energy situation remained the major variable as U.S. corporations looked ahead to 1974. But the oil shortage seemed certain to send shock waves through all sectors of the business community, particularly those industries which depend on it as a raw material or a vital energy source.

Economists remained generally optimistic about the business outlook for the coming year, however. They anticipated that 1973 after tax profits would soar to nearly $80 billion, or 25 to 30 per cent better than the year before, despite a slight dip from record first-half levels. Analysts said that any backsliding in 1974 would still leave earnings at a respectably high mark.

"Even if profits are down 5 to 10 per cent next year, they'll nevertheless be relatively high," said Robert E. Lewis, an economist with First National City Bank. "If you go up 25 per cent one year and come down 5 per cent the next, you're still 20 per cent ahead of where you were before."

The handful of companies that seemed likely to benefit from the oil crunch were those in the energy field, such as petroleum and coal producers, because of the government's avowed determination to make the country self-sufficient in energy. Other likely gainers were railroad operations and home-oriented industries such as supermarkets and hobby shops.

The larger group of businesses that began to feel the pinch of the oil cuts included the auto industry, the airlines, travel and recreation operators, chemicals and plastics producers. The construction industry, already squeezed by a shortage of mortgage funds that followed 1973's sharp jump in interest rates, was another casualty. Housing starts dipped to a three-year low in the fall.

Developments on Wall Street reflected the country's general uneasiness over its economic future. Stock market averages plunged to three-year bottoms after the Arab oil cuts, and member firms of the New York Stock Exchange registered an aggregate loss for the first eight months of the year. But higher trading volume in the fall, coupled with a hike in commission rates, held out the possibility that Big Board firms could finish the year in the black.

Fuel-related layoffs in all industries threatened to mount. Airlines officials predicted that half the industry's 300,000 workers would be furloughed by mid-1974 if the federal government lets its severe cuts in fuel allocations stand.

A study by the management consulting firm Arthur D. Little Inc. on plastics industry alone estimated 1.6 million jobs could be lost because of the "domino effect" of shutdowns in this important industry.

One big employer, General Motors Corp., temporarily placed 137,000 workers on the inactive list because of selected plant closings. This symbolized

Charges filed against Madison man, 18, after shooting incident

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Steven Dietert, 18, of Madison, has been charged with being a party to attempted first degree murder in connection with the wounding of a Madison policeman, Dane County Dist. Atty. Humphrey Lynch said.

Police said Monday that officers surprised Dietert and David Daniels, 23, of Madison, during a burglary Sunday night.

Patrolman Douglas Gavinski, 30, shot and killed Daniels after Daniels shot and wounded the officer, police said.

A 17-year-old Rock County juvenile was also being held in connection with the incident, Lynch said.

Lynch said a preliminary examination for Dietert, also charged with burglary, was scheduled Jan. 7. His bond was set at $35,000.

the dilemma of the auto industry, hit by a sales slump at the same time the public began to clamor for small cars which the industry was not prepared to produce in big numbers.

In a surprise move the government freed the industry from price controls, figuring the sales decline would help restrain any major price boosts by the automakers.

The devaluation of the dollar, coupled with the decline of stock market prices, made American companies increasingly attractive to foreign investors in 1973. Direct foreign investment in this country rose to unprecedented levels.

Among the numerous U.S. companies which drew overseas interest were the Gimbel's department store chain, purchased by British American Tobacco; Texasgulf Inc., a major mining company in which a corporation owned by the Canadian government acquired a large minority interest, and Amstar Aluminum Co., bought by Mitsui & Co. in a $125 million deal that marked the largest single investment made in the United States by a Japanese firm.

Business relations between the United States and the Soviet Union warmed up as political détente became an economic reality. Occidental Petroleum Corp. and the Russians worked out an $8 billion natural gas agreement; PepsiCo completed arrangements to bottle 72 million bottles of soft drink annually in the Soviet Union, and Chase Manhattan Bank opened the first branch of a U.S. bank in Moscow in half a century.

The year was also marked by vigorous antitrust actions waged by both the federal government and private business against some of the nation's largest corporations, including International Business Machines Corp.

The giant computer maker managed to dispose of one of the suits in a $112 million out-of-court settlement with Control Data Corp. In return, Control Data agreed to destroy a valuable computer index to crucial pieces of evidence against IBM gathered during the course of pretrial inquiries. Both the Justice Department and the Telex Corp., which had antitrust suits pending against IBM, maintained the destruction violated a court order that called for the preservation of vital evidence.

Telex eventually won a stunning victory over IBM when a federal judge ruled IBM had monopolized the market for peripheral computer equipment and awarded Telex $259.5 million in damages. Although IBM appealed the ruling and won a $21.9 million industrial espionage suit against Telex, the decision opened the door for four other private antitrust suits against it. The largest of these, filed by financially troubled Memorex, sought $3 billion in damages. And the sweeping government case was scheduled to come to trial in October, 1974 after five years of delay.

The Justice Department also filed antitrust charges against the nation's two biggest tiremakers, Goodyear and Firestone. It accused them of separate but similar illegal acts to quash competition.

The year was also one in which the government forced some giant corporations to make salary "reparations" to employees it claimed had suffered discrimination in their jobs.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

was ordered to pay $15 million in back wages to some 15,000 women and minority group men and to confer $33 million in raises on 35,000 other employees. And Detroit Edison Co. was told to pay $4 million in damages to black workers allegedly victimized by its racial policies.

Some spectacular business scandals also occurred in 1973, including the alleged fraud at Equity Funding of America Corp. Government indictments charged 22 former employees of the California conglomerate with creating some $2 billion in bogus life insurance by rigging computer printouts. The prosecution also claimed they systematically falsified financial data to inflate the value of the company's stock.

Another major scandal was the collapse of the U.S. National Bank of San Diego, the largest bank failure in American history. Federal examiners claimed the collapse stemmed from some $300 million in questionable loans authorized by the bank's former chairman, C. Arnold Smith.

Washington may hold key to Hanoi moves

WASHINGTON—The response to the next two months of severe but still localized Communist attacks in Vietnam, by the South Vietnamese army (ARVN) in the field and by the U.S. government in Washington, will probably determine whether Hanoi orders a full-scale spring offensive in 1974 that would create still another Indochinese bloodbath.

Expert opinion high in the government here foresees a continuation of what the Communists now call "strategic attacks" (they used to be "high points") with no general offensive before March 1. Whether Hanoi attempts the conquest of South Vietnam after that, these experts believe, depends on whether ARVN repels these "strategic attacks" and whether Saigon gets full political, economic and moral backing from Washington.

Fear abandonment by Congress
There is today more confidence in ARVN's steadfastness than Washington's. The shocking support in Congress for a deadly cutoff of oil to Vietnam (though finally killed in conference) suggests a tendency to abandon the Saigon regime at the first sign of trouble. President Nixon's commitment is undoubted, but his ability to maintain support is obviously eroded.

In fact, serious students of Vietnam long have felt the country's future depends on a Watergate-weakened Mr. Nixon. They believe the possibility he might respond to a Communist general offensive with renewed U.S. bombing in defiance of congressional prohibitions remains a major deterrent against Hanoi.

This deterrent was strengthened somewhat last month when the Nixon administration, responding to stepped-up Communist operations, dispatched two aircraft carriers to the Gulf of Tonkin and sent reconnaissance planes over North Vietnam.

At the same time, the ARVN performed well in the recent "strategic attack" on Kien Duc in the central highlands. U.S. experts gave South Vietnamese jet aircraft fairly high marks in supporting the infantry and knocking out some Communist tanks.

Expect heaviest attacks
More of the same is expected the next two months with the heaviest "strategic attacks" in Tay Ninh and Binh Duong provinces northwest of Saigon on the Cambodian border and in the central highlands around Pleiku and Kontum. U.S. officials are confident that ARVN can throw back these assaults and hope Congress will not interfere with the U.S. residual presence in the form of aircraft carriers and reconnaissance flights.

Many other factors besides the U.S. reaction, of course, will determine Hanoi's course. Analysts here believe one faction in the Hanoi politburo gives "building socialism" in North Vietnam a much higher priority than military conquest in South Vietnam. Moreover, some high officials in Hanoi mistakenly believe the South can be communized by political means. Polish and Hungarian members of the International Control Commission report privately that old-timers in Hanoi simply cannot bring themselves to accept the control over the South by President Nguyen Van Thieu's government.

If the hawks in Hanoi win out and a general offensive is launched next spring, it will surpass even the bloody campaign of 1972. Some 180,000 well equipped North Vietnamese and Vietcong troops are now in South Vietnam. If and when a general offensive gets the green light, another 65,000 reserves will be infiltrated from the North. Armor and artillery supplied by the Soviet Union far overshadow the formidable Communist invasion force of 1972.

As in 1972, a massive assault would be made along the demilitarized zone (DMZ) against crack ARVN units in the northern part of South Vietnam. But the main assault is expected in the politically crucial Saigon area. Three divisions of North Vietnamese regulars—the 5th, 7th and 9th—moved into this area months ago and, apart from darting back across the border to Cambodia occasionally, have never left.

Chances of survival are poor
In the view of military experts here, hopes of the Saigon regime may depend on its willingness to quickly bring down troops from the DMZ, sacrificing almost all the northern part of the country in exchange for protecting Saigon. Even then, with no U.S. air support available, South Vietnamese chances of survival are barely even.

If Communist aggression should destroy South Vietnam, few tears would drop in a Washington weary of world burdens and uninterested in old commitments. But would Richard M. Nixon sit by and watch his "peace with honor" in Vietnam be destroyed by Communist arms?

Some level-headed officials do not think so. They suggest that Mr. Nixon, tottering on the brink of impeachment, will push himself over the precipice by ordering U.S. airpower to fight off the Communist onslaught. Or, perhaps, they just hope Hanoi will so much fear this possible reaction from Mr. Nixon that it will spare bloody Vietnam from yet more tragedy.

Today in history

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 2, the second day of 1974. There are 363 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1942, the Japanese captured the Philippine capital, Manila, 26 days after the Pacific War began.

On this date — In 1492, the Spaniards took Granada from the Moors.

In 1788, Georgia became the fourth state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

In 1900, the open door policy in China was announced by U.S. Secretary of State John Hay.

In 1905, the Russians surrendered the Manchurian city of Port Arthur to the Japanese.

In 1960, Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Ten years ago: agreement was reported on the first sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union.

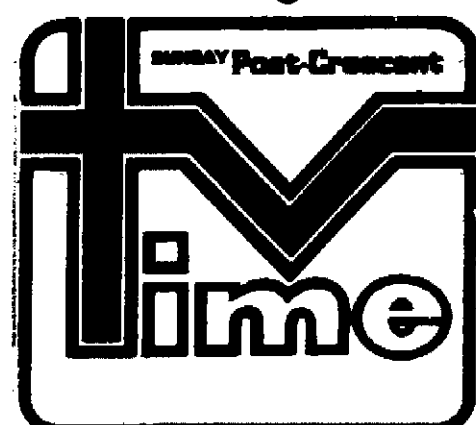

Five years ago: a Greek jetliner bound from the island of Crete to Athens was hijacked and forced to land in Cairo, Egypt.

One year ago: the U.S. Defense Department acknowledged that a hospital in Hanoi had been damaged during American bombing raids in December. Today's birthday: Opera singer Renata Tebaldi is 51. Singer Roger Miller is 38.

Thought for today: It takes two to make a bargain — an English proverb.

HELP-MATE

HELP-MATE is a reader-action service to help all persons with consumer problems similar to those published in the column.

It is designed as a last resort for people who have exhausted other available means to obtain suitable action or information.

Letters of potentially broad interest are selected and edited from those received by this newspaper and other sources.

If you need information or assistance involving a widely used product or service, write to HELP-MATE, in care of The Post-Crescent.

The Post-Crescent will forward the letters to Consumer News, Inc., Washington, D. C. which will attempt to secure an answer to the problem.

Please provide all pertinent information, including COPIES (not originals) of key documents such as sales slips, warranties and letters.

HELP-MATE cannot return any material submitted, so please do not include stamps or return envelopes. But each letter will be considered in determining topics for investigation and action.

15 MINUTE AUTO REPAIR COSTS $20
I had minor repairs made on the air conditioning of my 1972 Chevrolet Impala and was charged $20.25 for labor even though the job took only 15 minutes. That comes to over $90 an hour. Do they have a right to charge a fee like that, or is there a ceiling on this type of work? I would like to know who makes over $90 an hour in a garage?

E. W.
Chevrolet says you were charged correctly on the flat-rate basis, and the dealer's flat-rate book says the service performed on your air conditioner can be expected to require 1½ hours. The charge was based on the hourly rate of $13.50 an hour. The flat rate for 1½ hours is charged whether the repair takes 15 minutes or three hours, according to a Chevy spokesman. A portion of the hourly charge goes to the mechanic, a portion to the dealer. So the mechanic can profit by beating the scheduled time. If the repair is not proper, the spokesman says, it must be corrected on the mechanic's own time.

Each car manufacturer writes its own flat-rate book, and the spokesman says some dealers will let the customer see the book. Independent garages use a similar flat-rate schedule developed by the Chilton Co. of Radnor, Pa.

A paperback, "How to Get Your Car Repaired Without Getting Gyped," by Margaret B. Carlson, advises looking for a garage that pays its mechanics a straight salary rather than through the flat-rate system on the premise that a salaried mechanic will be less likely to cut corners to beat the rate book. If you use flat-rate garage, ask to see the book, she recommends. If there is a discrepancy between the actual labor charge and the flat-rate book, she concludes, you have a good case for small claims court. But she does not have any suggestion for recourse in your type of case.

SEARS SQUEEZES PICTURE OUT OF 'LEMON' TV.

I purchased a Sears color TV (Model 4066) in 1969. After 11 months, it broke down and for the next 14 months they worked on it over 20 times. I asked for a loaner to no avail. All this time I was paying for a cable hook-up.

I wrote to the president of Sears, and the local store manager called and said they would see that the set was fixed. After that it ran for six months, then the same old trouble. Now I have disconnected it from the cable. I just couldn't face going through the same thing again. This seems to be a lemon and I'll appreciate anything you can do to help.

M. D.
A Sears service man has cleaned your television's tuner and adjusted the brightness at no cost to you. You report that the set is operating well.

THAT'S LIFE, SAYS TIME WITH 25% REFUND

A few years ago I agreed to buy five years of Life magazine at the newsstand price from Family Publications Service, and I was told I would receive four one-year subscriptions to other magazines free. We received the free subscriptions, and all the Life issues until Life ceased last December. At that time we were entitled to 13 more months of the magazine.

I wrote Time-Life, and they said I would have to deal with FPS. FPS sent me a mailing offering me another magazine. I wrote them saying I didn't want another magazine. I asked for $38, or 56 weeks of Life at the 50 cents newsstand price I paid. I have never heard from them.

M. J.
H. J. Connolly of FPS said you have been sent a check for $9.96, which represents the full subscription value of the unserved portion of Life. You are not being paid at the newsstand price because another representative of FPS said the salesman should not have told you you were getting the other magazines free. By paying the "newsstand price" for Life, she said, you were actually paying for the other magazines. In a 1971 consent order with the Federal Trade Commission, Time and its subsidiary FPS agreed to stop misrepresenting that any subscriptions were free or at special or reduced rates. Since your purchase occurred before the agreement, FPS was not in violation in your case.

WHERE TO SHOP FOR SHOPPER'S GUIDES

I have heard that Herbert Denenberg, the Pennsylvania insurance commissioner, has published some very useful consumer guidebooks. A friend of mine wrote to his office in Harrisburg requesting ones comparing automobile insurance and hospital costs, but he has not received any reply after several months. I understand that Denenberg's life insurance booklets compare companies by name on policy costs. Do you know whether these publications can be obtained by the general public?

A. R.
Denenberg has published a total of ten so-called "Shopper's Guides," but his office has run out of funds to distribute them outside the state of Pennsylvania. A Denenberg aid says the ones on auto insurance and hospital costs apply only to Pennsylvania situations. Several others, however, apply to all states and are available only from Consumer Insurance, 813 National Press Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20004. They include "Shopper's Guides" on straight (cash value) life insurance, on term life insurance, on surgery and how to avoid it, on dentistry (how to pick a good dentist) and on mobile home insurance. A new second edition on straight life insurance discloses comparative policy costs for nearly 100 companies. The mobile guide sells for 50 cents, others for $1 each, postpaid. Royalties go to Denenberg's office. Single copies are free to Pennsylvania residents.

Bulgaria cuts flow of narcotics

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP)—Officials here claim the alertness of Bulgarian customs agents has cut the flow of drugs from the Middle East to the West or driven the traffic to alternate routes.

Bulgaria is "the neck in the hour glass" of the land smuggling route, said Todor Tzvetov, 35-year-old chief of the narcotics section in the Bulgarian customs department.

He claimed Bulgaria has made more seizures of narcotics than all other European countries put together.

In 1970 Bulgarians seized about 2,000 kilos of drugs, both hashish and opium-based. In 1971 they seized 5,000 kilos including a huge haul of 371 kilos of morphine base worth a potential $50 million when sold on the street as heroin. A kilo is about 2.2 pounds.

In 1972, despite chilly, formal relations between the two countries, Bulgaria allowed American customs agents to train 50 of the 600 Bulgarian border customs agents in techniques against drug smuggling. That year the Bulgarians seized 2,180 kilos.

This year there have been only 900 kilos grabbed in 77 seizures; only three involving hard drugs.

Tzvetov charged the lower amount is due to smugglers avoiding the land route through Bulgaria, or shipping smaller amounts with more carriers, often using body belts, making detection difficult. Also increased drug enforcement in Europe and the United States, has decreased demand, he said.

"They are getting frightened to come through Bulgaria," Tzvetov said. American customs agents, with whom he maintains regular contact, have quoted smugglers caught in West Germany as saying "once we pass the Bulgarian border, we feel our work is done."

Most of the smugglers caught in Bulgaria are from among the million or more Turks transiting the country each year on their way to and from jobs in West Europe.

"We find hashish buried in melons or lumps of white cheese, or in liquid form in olive oil cans," Tzvetov said.

He claimed all drugs seized were in transit and that Bulgaria has no problem among its own 8.5 million population. This was backed up by non-Bulgarian sources.

One informed source said there are 197 patients in Bulgaria's drug rehabilitation program, mostly hospital workers with access to medicinal drugs. Only a handful of students at Sofia University are believed to use hashish.

"This is a remarkable thing because Bulgaria is a legal grower and exporter of opium for medicine and the kemp plant, from which hashish is derived grows all over the place," the source said.

"No one likes a drink more than a Bulgarian," said one official pouring a glass of one of the country's numerous varieties of plum, grape and apple brandy for a visitor. "It helps us overcome our natural self-restraint. But when it comes to drugs we are squares."

Two executives face Soviet firing squad for theft from plant

MOSCOW (AP) —The Soviet government has executed two executives of a fruit juice factory in Azerbaijan for grand larceny.

The Baku Worker, the newspaper of the Communist party in the Soviet republic on the Caspian Sea, said the men who died before a firing squad were Teimur Faradze Akhmedov, director of the Georchaykz fruit juice plant, and his bookkeeper, Zaman Mirza Khakimov.

The report said they were bosses of a gang that operated in the plant. It gave no details of their operations but said they had criminal records for "thefts of state property."

A director of another fruit juice plant in Azerbaijan and his deputy were executed in 1972 for pocketing "hundreds of thousands of rubles" appropriated for the purchase of fruit and making juice out of sugar, water and citric acid.

Playboy just not kosher for Israeli army troops

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli president's wife thought Playboy magazine with its illustrious centerfold would be good for the morale of Israeli soldiers.

But Mrs. Ephraim Katzir's efforts to send 3,000 copies of Playboy to the troops at the front ran into rough waters. The deputy education minister of the Orthodox National party objected to the army. Then the Union of Immigrant Rabbis from Western countries appealed for the halt of the project.

The Playboys were canceled, and Mrs. Katzir was unavailable for comment.

Tiger year foretells busy times

BY KAY TATEISHI
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) —For most of Asia, 1974, the Year of the Tiger, is likely to mean 12 months of spirited activity.

For the tiger is generally held in esteem by Asians as the king of beasts even though he comes third in the 12-animal oriental zodiac, said to have had its origin when the animals hurried to the bedside of the dying Buddha centuries ago.

The first to arrive was the rat. But the rat used a bit of a ruse by hitching a ride on the ox's back and jumping off as the ox was about to enter Buddha's house. The ox was second. Then came the tiger, with the others arriving in this order: rabbit, dragon, serpent, horse, sheep, monkey, rooster, dog and boar.

All countries of Asia, except Japan and Korea, observe the new year according to the lunar calendar.

This year the lunar new year occurs on Jan. 23. In Vietnam it is known as Tet.

Although the Japanese adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1873, they still cling to customs and traditions of the past represented in the 12-animal zodiac imported from China in 861.

Thus for the Japanese, the Year of the Tiger starts Tuesday.

What each animal in the oriental zodiac symbolizes is similar throughout Asia and the animal signs, according to Asian soothsayers and fortune tellers, influence the year and the character of individuals. People born in tiger years are reputedly endowed with strong character, courage and will.

But there are signs that 1974 will be an year of austerity and liable to bring upheavals. Thus, warning signals suggesting caution are being hoisted by fortune tellers.

For Japan the Year of the Tiger will be a crucial period. The Japanese will be making every effort to keep the tiger under control to deal with the economic confusion that hit Japan in the latter part of 1973, which saw the oil crisis, skyrocketing prices, shortages of commodity goods and environmental hazards.

The tiger, known as "tora" to the Japanese, will replace the ox, or bull.

Japanese soothsayers say the bull is traditionally noted for being patient, sturdy and faithful, although with an eccentric and bigoted streak. The prognosticators describe people born in the tiger year as short-tempered, sensitive and liable to come to conflict with older people or higher authorities. Tiger people are often described as people who, although courageous, can be headstrong, selfish and mean — with narrow minds and suspicious of others. Despite this the Japanese insist that the tiger is generally regarded as a zodiac symbol of good omen.

More recent tiger years have been 1890, 1902, 1914, 1926, 1938, 1950 and 1962.

Some well known Westerners born in the Year of the Tiger include Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, Academy Award winning actor Sir Alec Guinness, Actresses Dorothy Lamour, Patricia Neal, Marie Schell, Natalie Wood and Jane Wyman, and ex-heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis.

Some others are Sen. Edmund Muskie, Authors John Hersey and Katherine Anne Porter, contralto Marian Anderson, Henry Cabot Lodge, Charles A. Lindbergh, Playboy publisher Hugh Hefner, and American generals Creighton W. Abrams Jr. and William C. Westmoreland.

Will wedding bells ring for Charles, Lady Jane?

SANDRINGHAM, England (AP) — Lady Jane Wellesley's visit with the royal family for New Year's has revived gossip that she and Prince Charles are in love.

Thousands of romance-hungry Britons ignored gasoline shortages Sunday to drive to this Norfolk County village for a glimpse of the heir to the British throne and his 22-year-old friend, the daughter of the Duke of Wellington.

Police estimated that at least 8,000 visitors watched the prince and Lady Jane, who has denied rumors of romance, arrive for morning service at the village church.

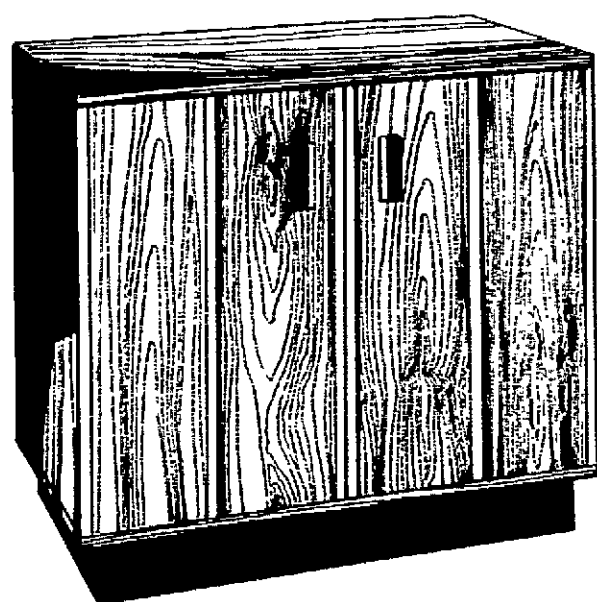

Charles leaves Wednesday for six months of naval duty in the Far East.

Other problems put ecology in background

BY MEL ELLIS

It will likely take some great catastrophe to make the people of this country and the world as urgently aware as is necessary to reverse such environmental problems as could lead to global suicide.

Many think it will. At least such is the opinion of many of those scientists as have been labeled as the ecological prophets of doom.

These doomsday scientists, not long ago, held the center of the world stage, but gradually then, the high cost of living, crime in the streets, drugs, corruption in government. . . a host of more immediately pressing problems pushed world environmental concerns into the dim and shadowy corners of the human consciousness.

Gradually then too, because none (or not many) died from air pollution; because hardly any were poisoned by polluted water; because no atomic energy plant leaked lethal radiation. . . the public and even high government officials, began to pooh-pooh the scientists.

Who said the population bomb would explode to leave a world ravaged of its resources? Who said one-third of London might sometime be wiped out as pollutants robbed its air of oxygen? Who said supersonic planes might some day eat away the atmospheric shield so lethal rays from the sun might leave the world a barren rock?

Yes, who did say those things? Even I couldn't remember and had to go to the bookshelf to remind myself that not too long ago many of us were reading books on how to survive in a world in which the oceans no longer had the capability of purifying mankind's shores.

What is happening is purely and almost superbly human. It is the hard brick story of "first things first," a story best illustrated by the old Indian fighter who took time out during the heat of battle to make breakfast, "because if I don't eat this morning, I will not have the strength to fight tonight."

If that is an over-simplification of a very human weakness (or strength) consider the plight of our flooded cities last spring. Can you imagine what kind of impact a journalistic anti-littering campaign might have had on people whose homes were floating away.

That this, in the final analysis, is a somewhat sad state of affairs cannot be denied. An environmental crisis cannot be as easily prevented or corrected, as for instance, a political crisis. Even the drug problem, crime in the streets, and the high cost of living are all more possibly corrected than the gradual deterioration of a planet from a bewildering multitude of abuses.

Still, as my Old Man always used to say, "a dog isn't going to worry about slow death from a belly full of worms when he's got to scratch a flea that's biting him."

Well, and so it is, and we've cooled our good earth enthusiasm to such a degree that a recent Gallup poll indicates that for 62 per cent of the U.S. population, the most pressing problem was high prices, while a mere 9 per cent considered pollution as the most important problem facing the country.

Of course the Gallup poll does not always reflect the deep down gut feelings of the majority. Very often irritations of the moment sway those interviewed. This was reflected by the Watergate Hearings when suddenly one of every adult in four polled expressed the hope that no son of his would ever become involved in politics.

Gasoline shortages, a wintertime energy crisis, a batch of contaminated canned goods . . . all are reflected in politicking, and sometimes then, the good earth crusade comes in for a good deal more consideration.

But soon the public loses interest and Cerebral palsy board chooses new officers

The board of directors of United Cerebral Palsy of Northeastern Wisconsin has elected James R. Coleman of Green Bay to serve as president for a one-year term.

Residents of this area re-elected to the board include Mr. and Mrs. Leland Schroeder and Mrs. Inez Getschow, all of Appleton, and Mrs. Jean Meads of Hortonville. Newly elected members are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fries, Combined Locks.

The organization provides therapy programs, equipment and information for cerebral palsied persons and their families in a 15-county area.

the environmental problems are back on the shoulders of those dedicated few who have been carrying the burden all along.

When the cold, hard list of the facts is reviewed, it is obvious that we have hardly made a start on many of our environmental problems.

So maybe, as West German's 1972 Nobel laureate in literature, Heinrich Boll, put it. "The perfect scene of law and order is in the cemetery." (We assume he was speaking symbolically as well as literally, and that it is in the nature of man to be something of a fool.)

Still we also can't forget such honored, if old and hackneyed cliches, as remind us that constant vigilance is the price of self preservation.

Will we have to suffer a catastrophe to avoid global suicide? I don't know. Nor (at this point in time) do I believe that anyone else does either.

AROUND THE WORLD

Stockholm — As everywhere, the debate over the safety of nuclear reactors has been intense in Sweden, the country which has more nuclear energy per capita than any in the world.

Frankfurt — According to a pollution research institute here, West Germany harbors more than 120 million rats, and the rat population is growing as the result of more and larger dumps.

Paris — One area in which the Socialist countries have an advantage over the individual enterprise economies is in land-use planning.

Seoul — South Korea is launching a ten-year afforestation program in which it intends to plant more than 2 billion trees on about 2.4 million acres at a cost of $225.6 million.

Tokyo — Land prices in and around major Japanese cities jumped 31 per cent last year. Residential land prices went even higher reaching an advance of 36 per cent in the Tokyo area.

Police & fire beat

Two persons were treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for injuries they received in a two-car accident near Richmond and Washington streets just before midnight Tuesday.

One driver, Larry J. Lehner, 22, 709 Eighth St., Menasha, received a head bump, while a passenger, Sue Shephardson, 18, 214 Tyler St., Neenah, sustained head, jaw and knee bruises and a cut eyelid. Both were released after treatment.

Police said Lehner was driving south on Richmond and struck the rear of the second car, parked at the curb unoccupied and owned by Kenneth B. Kozlowski, 1923 N. Clark St. Lehner told police his vision was impaired by a frosted windshield.

Thomas Theisen, 1037 W. Winnebago St., reported the theft of a camera and case from his car outside a N. Appleton Street tavern Tuesday night.

Police said there were no signs of forced entry into the vehicle and that the stolen items were valued at $57.

No damage estimate was given from an automobile vandalism incident, reported Tuesday to police by Joseph M. DeBrue, 227 S. Fidelis St.

He told police someone took a sharp object and slashed the headliner in the back seat and also put chicken bones on the air cleaner of his 1974 station wagon. He was uncertain as to the time and place of the incident.

Firemen were called to the Ralph Murphy residence, 215 1/2 E. College Ave., to extinguish a fire on two top burners of an electric stove, about 2 a.m. Tuesday.

The fire was put out with baking soda and the firemen unplugged the stove.

Municipal accord urged for mass transit solution

BY FRANK CHURCH

Post-Crescent staff writer

An East Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission report has led the chairman of the Appleton Transit Commission to conclude that contracts between municipalities might be the "most likely and feasible" way to provide regional bus service in the Fox Cities.

But transit commission chairman Robert E. Bodoh said today that any kind of regional system "is highly problematical at this point" because of several other matters confronting the local bus system that must be cleared up before it can explore the chances for the regional system.

Among those items:

—Negotiation of a contract between the commission and Fox River Bus Lines, Inc., the parent firm of Appleton City Transit, Inc., which operates the buses that run the city routes and are subsidized by the city.

The commission will begin meeting to negotiate the 1974 contract with the bus company next week. The city did not have a contract with the firm throughout 1973, despite the nearly $100,000 in subsidies it paid to the private bus line.

Bodoh said he hopes the commission and bus company come to terms on a contract before the end of the month.

—Final negotiation of a contract with the state Department of Transportation for state mass transit aids for 1974.

DOT transit planner Planner John Hartz has already indicated that the city is likely to get the $96,389 it has applied for in state subsidies for next year. That would cover over one-half of the anticipated $180,771 in expected Appleton City Transit, Inc., operating deficits.

Hartz said today that he still expected the city's application to be approved without much, if any, change. But he said final approval will probably not come before the end of January.

Bodoh had at one time hoped that government leaders from Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh and Appleton could meet soon after the first of the year to further explore the possibilities for a regional mass transit system.

The commission itself had begun preliminary explorations several weeks ago, when it sent a letter to Neenah and Menasha officials to see if they would be interested in discussing bus service contracts with the Appleton operation for those two cities.

The idea has been given further impetus by the growing gasoline shortage. The Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce has headed an effort to pinpoint the needs for inter-urban bus service in the Fox Cities and getting the current private bus operations in Appleton, Kaukauna and Oshkosh to provide it.

David Stringham, an East-Central planner, reviewed four possible regional bus system arrangements in the study he did of legal operations.

A metropolitan transit authority, despite being allowed under state statute 66.94, is an unlikely alternative because it is not provided with taxing authority to help finance its operations. This, Stringham reported, probably explains "why it has never been used by any county" in the state.

A metro transit authority would have to provide both operating and capital expenditure financing out of revenues, "a task virtually impossible in this period of higher operating costs," said Stringham.

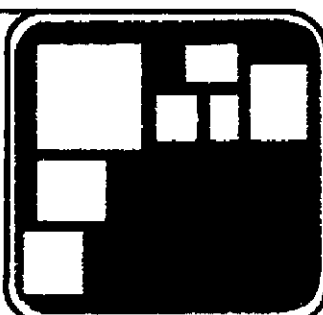

Joint municipal transit commissions, however, would have financing from member municipalities and would also possess the other necessary powers to operate a regional transit system.

There are three operations options for such an arrangement, Stringham said: A joint commission made up of governing bodies of any city, county or village, a joint commission composed of county governing bodies and a joint

Energy crisis concerns Valley tourist industry

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN

Post-Crescent staff writer

The energy crisis — or at least the uncertainty of future energy supplies — is touching the Fox Valley area and northern Wisconsin, which needs tourism for its livelihood.

William Brault, past president of Heritage Country, a 15-county northeastern Wisconsin group promoting tourism, said the decline in tourist traffic to the northeastern part of the state has been noticed for several months.

"There very definitely is a decline in the driving to this area," he said. "Unfortunately, some areas don't realize the importance of this (tourist) industry to northeastern Wisconsin."

Brault said Heritage and other multicounty tourist organizations in Wisconsin were planning to jointly ask the state to match local funds in promoting local residents' use of area tourist and recreation facilities.

Meanwhile, persons in the recreation business are holding their breath. A spot check of snowmobile dealers in the Fox Cities indicated their sales haven't been hurt by the possibility of the gasoline shortage or rationing, although they admitted they were concerned.

However, one dealer said sales were down not only in his outlet but among his fellow dealers in the area. "Sales are down because nobody knows where we're going, nobody knows which direction we're going in (on gasoline supplies)," he said.

He said the possibility of rationing was causing the most concern and agreed that if rationing came on the scene in the spring, outboard motor and boat sales undoubtedly would be hurt severely. That is the heavy sales period for outboard motors.

There has been a state and federal expression of concern about the tourist and recreation industry. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., wrote a letter to energy chief William Simon, warning that a total ban on fuel for motorboats and other recreation vehicles "would be extremely inequitable and catastrophic for a major national industry."

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey has advocated federal aid to northern Wisconsin tourist-related businesses, and the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission reportedly has earmarked $1 million in such aid to needy areas in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Also, the state Department of Natural Resources Vacation and Travel Service Bureau, is directing its money into promoting package recreation trips to recreation facilities in any part of Wisconsin. Using public transportation is part of the package.

Eugene Roark, bureau director, said DNR efforts weren't directed only at northern Wisconsin, but would be available for any area which had a need. The advertising has been in the Chicago area.

The impact of the threatened energy crisis and the closed stations on Sundays hasn't been measured yet, Roark said, but the DNR also was working to develop tools to come up with an accurate evaluation. He said the "greatest danger of all" at this time was the psychological effect on people to stay home.

Brault said Heritage Country's prime effort will be printing a complete guide to facilities in the 15-county area, including lodging, eating places and things to do. These will be distributed to households in northeastern Wisconsin.

The intent will be to try to offset some of the anticipated decline in travel to the area, he said. Heritage and the other tourist associations are seeking about $100,000 from the state to match $100,000 in local funds.

Heritage's proposed budget for the project would be $23,000. "If we don't get the money, we're in trouble," Brault said.

The potential is there, he said, noting there are about 780,000 people in the area, including Brown, Kewaunee, Outagamie, Door, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Shawano, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Calumet, Green, Green Lake, Waushara and Waupaca counties.

Motels will be asked to contribute for the local share, he said.

Brault said the Heritage promotion also will encourage one-tank-of-gasoline mini-vacation weekends.

Roark said the state would continue its assistance into the warm weather season when lake recreation comes on the scene.

Nine start '74 seeking Outagamie board seats

Eight incumbent Outagamie County supervisors and one newcomer have started out the new year by taking out nomination papers to seek election to the county board in April.

Today is the first day candidates may circulate nomination papers for the spring election. Deadline for filing papers is 5 p.m. Jan. 29. Supervisory candidates need between 100 and 200 signatures on their papers.

The newcomer is Mrs. Diane Cusatis, 40, 1908 N. Racine St., Appleton, who will be seeking election from District 14. The incumbent supervisor from that district, Richard Jahneke, does not plan to seek re-election.

Mrs. Cusatis will be making her first try for public office. She has five children and is chairman of the Information and Referral Center of Outagamie County and is active in the Volunteers in Probation program. She also is president of Church Women United of Outagamie County.

Incumbents taking out papers include Rose Schroeder, District 1; Barbara Steger, District 5; Harold Miller, District 9; George Driessen, District 10; Alphonse Lewandowski, District 11; George Kroes, 31; Marvin Babbitt, District 40, and Joseph Kasperek, District 41.

Mrs. Schroeder, 224 E. Washington St., Appleton, who has been retired for a number of years, will be seeking her fourth term on the board.

Mrs. Steger, 55, 744 W. Spencer St., Appleton, a housewife, will be seeking her fifth term on the board.

Harold Miller, 74, retired construction superintendent for the Wisconsin Telephone Company, also will be seeking his fifth term.

George Driessen, 312 E. Calumet St., Appleton, a retired city street employee, will be seeking his third term.

Al Lewandowski, 74, 34 Johnson Court, retired, will be seeking his second full term on the board. He was appointed to the board in 1969, lost in the 1970 election and then won election in 1972.

George Kroes, 63, route 1, Kaukauna, a farmer, will be seeking his tenth term on the board.

Marvin Babbitt, 71, 520 W. Main St., Seymour, a retired plumbing contractor, is seeking his ninth term on the board.

Joseph Kasperek, 60, route 1, Black Creek, will be seeking his third term on the board.

Dealers unsure of supplies

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent staff writer

A combination of the cold weather and the lack of gasoline apparently caused people to stay near their homes for the new year holiday.

More Fox Cities area gasoline service stations were closed over the long weekend than normal as December gasoline allotments ran low and motorists were more cautious than normal as a result.

Stations that were open and that were providing road service were swamped, however, as the first subzero period of the winter resulted in hundreds of calls from motorists whose cars would not start.

Most station operators were still in the dark today as to how much gasoline they would be getting this month. "We know we will be cut at least the same per cent we were cut in December," said Robert Malchow, treasurer of the Retail Gasoline Dealers Association of Wisconsin.

Clarence "Butch" VanderPutten, president of the Fox Cities Retail Gasoline Dealers Association, said most dealers started getting their January allotments on Dec. 30 and 31. "It's left up to the individual dealer whether he wants to start using his allotment before the month begins. That's why many stations locked up over the weekend."

He said he heard of only two or three stations that had to close because they pumped their tanks dry.

The big problem, he said, is that no one knows yet how much gasoline he will get this month.

VanderPutten also reported being swamped with service calls. And, he said, the burden on stations with service trucks has been heavier with the number of stations that have closed.

A spokesman at the State Patrol District 3 headquarters in Fond du Lac said traffic over the holiday was "quite a bit lighter than normal." He said one of the patrolmen reported at mid morning Tuesday that he had never seen U.S. 41 as dead as it was then.

There were very few service stations open, he reported. "We had many queries from people wanting to know where they could get gasoline," he said. But there were very few cars stranded for lack of fuel. "People either didn't venture out or they were well prepared," he added.

He noted that there were the usual number of stalled vehicles as the result of mechanical breakdowns from the cold weather.

Several service station operators also reported that people appear to be taking the gasoline shortage seriously and are driving less.

Juno fined after entering plea of no contest

BY BILL KNUTSON

Post-Crescent staff writer

CHILTON — Retired Calumet County Police Capt. Victor Juno of Brillion was fined $500 and costs and was placed on two years' probation to the state Department of Health and Social Services this morning after he pleaded no contest to one felony count of misconduct in public office.

Grant C. Johnson, a state assistant attorney general and acting Calumet County district attorney in the Juno case, was unsuccessful in getting Green Lake County Judge David C. Willis to impose a 30-day jail sentence on Juno.

Juno, 56, took $500 of parking fine money from his traffic department for his own use, according to the state Department of Justice.

"He knew it was a crime when he converted that first dollar to his own use," Johnson remarked. Juno violated his public trust as a police officer, Johnson continued.

But Juno felt he had suffered enough, he told the court.

Over the last 15 months, Juno explained, he has been subjected to harassment, threatening telephone calls, ridicule and a barrage of publicity.

Besides, he lost the industrial security job he had been assured. He began work on an assembly line in a Brillion plant about two weeks ago.

Juno, who had been with the traffic patrol 28 years, retired last Nov. 9, about a week after he was charged.

He knew he did wrong, Juno told Judge Willis, and he was "glad it's over." He also told Willis he was happy to be away from law enforcement.

His attorney, Don R. Herrling of Appleton, in arguing against imposition of a jail term, observed that Juno has been penalized severely by the publicity given his case.

He also told of having received letters from several Calumet County board members praising Juno's service to the county.

Juno also has done a good job as county highway safety coordinator, Herrling explained. Juno still holds that nonpaying position.

And, Herrling continued, Juno is married and the father of four children, one of them still at home.

Willis, who was appointed after local judges disqualified themselves, reprimanded Juno but refused to levy a jail term.

He conceded that "the public probably won't be satisfied with the sentence."

Before pleading no contest, Juno waived a preliminary hearing. He faced a maximum penalty of $500 or a year in prison or both.

The court might be willing to terminate probation after one year, Willis indicated.

Juno was charged by the state Department of Justice in mid-November, a year after a routine state audit turned up a $1,485.31 shortage in the county traffic police parking ticket and accident report sales accounts.

On Nov. 17, 1972, Juno, whose office had charge of the funds in those accounts under an accounting and bookkeeping system that has since been revised, turned $1,485.31 over to the county treasurer.

A major portion of the payment consisted of 10 $100 bills.

The state charged that between Jan. 1, 1968, and November, 1972, Juno kept $500 of $756 in county parking violation fines for his own use.

State agents said the $500 in question had been deposited in a local bank.

Calumet County officials, including Dist. Atty. Franklin Schmieder and members of the county board's protection of persons and property committee, had insisted after the shortages

Girls lead race for 1974 baby

Girls made a strong showing in the unofficial "first baby of the year" contest in the Fox Cities. In fact, it was four out of four, the medical records of the four hospitals indicate.

Carey Lynn Sturm, making her appearance at 12:44 a.m. Jan. 1 at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, led the list of candidates for the honor.

She is the daughter and firstborn of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sturm, 708 1/2 N. Bateman St., Appleton.

"We had expected a boy, but it didn't make any difference at all," Mrs. Sturm said this morning. "We got a few blue things but most were in-between colors, just in case," she added.

The "just in case" came true and when Carey Lynn goes home this weekend, she will occupy a yellow nursery.

Other Fox Cities hospitals and their first newborns of 1974 were:

—Appleton Memorial, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Luezwitz, route 1, Marion, 6:41 p.m. Tuesday.

—Theda Clark Memorial, Neenah, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Sawall, route 2, Fremont, 12:14 a.m. today.

—Kaukauna Community, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Koehnke, 604 Park St., Combined Locks, 12:15 p.m. Tuesday.

China military leaders changed

TOKYO (AP) — China's Communist rulers have begun 1974 with a reshuffle of military commanders apparently designed to weaken the power bases of possible challenges to Mao Tse-tung.

The changes, involving 11 of the country's 13 military regions, were disclosed today by Hsinhua, Peking's official news agency, in an article on New Year's military reunions.

Most of the changes were shifts of officers from one command to another. There were few dismissals.

Since the death and disgrace in 1971 of Mao's designated heir, Defense Minister Lin Biao, the preponderance of the military at the apex of the Peking power pyramid has dwindled. But the army has clung to influence and position in the provinces.

In August, during the 10th congress of the Chinese Communist party, Mao tightened his control on the party structure by placing old associates and party veterans in key posts. Now he appears to have surrounded doubtful and possibly troublesome regional military commanders with older and more trustworthy men.

Because of the secretiveness enveloping all political and military moves in China, it was impossible to say whether the shakeup resulted from a threat now to Mao, the 80-year-old chairman of the Communist party, or was made to forestall any future threat.

There were few outright dismissals in the shakeup, which looked more like a game of musical chairs than an effort to purge the provincial officer ranks.

The most significant change was the appointment of Li Tehsheng, a Mao loyalist and one of the five vice chairmen of the party central committee, to command the Shenyang area of Manchuria. A frontier region facing an estimated million Soviet troops, it is one of the most critical military commands in China.

Li replaced Chen Hsi-lien, who takes command of the Peking military region. There he will be under the watchful eye of the central leadership. Peking has been without a military commander since Cheng Wei-shan dropped out of sight during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution.

Another significant swap was the transfer of Hsu Shih-yu, 67, a member of the party Politburo. He was moved from Nanking, where he has been a leading figure since 1957, to Canton. Ting Sheng, the 61-year-old Canton commander, went to Nanking.

In Sinkiang, another critical area on the Soviet border, veteran Maoist Yang Yung, 73, takes over from Lung Shu-chin, who appears to have been left out of the new lineup. Lung had been in Sinkiang since 1968.

The only two regions not mentioned were Tibet and Inner Mongolia.

Nixon signs speed bill

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon signed into law today a measure aimed at forcing the 50 states to adopt energy-saving speed limits of 55 miles per hour.

Nixon also signed another major bill setting up machinery for reorganizing seven bankrupt Northeastern railroads with federal loan guarantees of $1.5 billion and subsidies of more than $500 million.

Under the speed limit law, states will lose all federal highway funds unless they adopt 55-mile limits within 60 days.

Nixon said in a statement:

"I have been gratified and encouraged by the number of states which have already voluntarily reduced their speed limits in accordance with my request... estimates indicate that we can save nearly 200,000 barrels of fuel a day by observing a national limit of 55 miles per hour."

In another statement, Nixon said he considered some of the rail subsidies to be higher than they should be. However, he termed the reorganization law "an important turning point in the history of America's railroad industry" and commended Congress "for passing such responsible legislation."

The railroad bill sets up a new United States Railway Association, a nonprofit government corporation, to borrow the $1.5 billion to set up a new rail network under a privately operated Consolidated Rail Corp.

The bankrupt railroads are the Penn Central, Central of New Jersey, Lehigh Valley, Reading, Erie Lackawanna, Boston and Maine, and Ann Arbor.

'Lemon' Pinto beaten to death by irate owner

PICO RIVERA, Calif. (AP) — An Anaheim man, with the help of about 50 other persons, has beaten his horseless carriage to death on Ford Motor Co. property.

"I had to do it," puffed Roger T. Sweitzer, after he and members of the Outraged Consumers Action Committee pounded Sweitzer's 1972 Pinto automobile into little more than a pile of scrap Tuesday. They used hammers, axes, crowbars and clubs.

The committee is a loosely organized group of Southern California car owners formed by the owner of a Lincoln Continental who burned his car in protest here two years ago.

Sweitzer said a wide variety of mechanical problems began popping up in the car almost from the first day he brought it home.

"It's been dying by inches ever since I got it," Sweitzer said. "I would rather put it out of its misery and kill it before it kills me or someone else."

The beating took place on the grounds of Ford's assembly plant here.

"I have been trying to get the company to either fix that car or give me another one since the day after I got it, but the only satisfaction I ever got —until today —was when a Ford representative asked me, 'What do you want for $3,000?'" Sweitzer said.

In a letter to the customer service division of Ford Marketing Corp. in Dearborn, Mich., he wrote, "I am now at the end of the road, or I should say my Pinto is since it will not perform in any manner remotely related to that of an automobile. In fact, it's so bad my insurance company has canceled the coverage on it."

About 40 minutes after the dismantling began, sheriff's deputies ordered the Pinto-pounders to disperse.

Sweitzer, who charged each person $1 a swing, plans to use the money he collected to help pay for his new mode of transportation, a bicycle.

Teen crashes at rail crossing she feared

OWEN, Wis. (AP) — Barbara Laube had considered the railroad crossing near her rural home hazardous enough to warrant a campaign for automatic warning signals.

The 17-year-old girl was driving home from church Tuesday with her younger brother and three sisters when her car was struck by a freight train at the crossing.

Ann, 10, and Joanne, 7, were killed. Barbara, 12-year-old Mary Kay and 15-year-old Dale were injured.

Clark County authorities said Barbara worked last summer on a 4-H Club project to get automatic signals installed at the crossing. They were not put in.

Ohio mechanic to remove car pollution filters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The gasoline shortage has spawned a new kind of enterprise in Ohio.

Daniel J. Furey of Columbus says he will go into business this month removing emission control devices from automobiles.

"It's hard to justify devices to decrease air pollution which burn more gasoline," he said. Furey hopes to get the company, called Fuel Savers, Inc., in operation by late January or early February.

Furey, a mechanical engineer, said his attorney, Robert VanHeyde told him the procedure is legal.

Furey estimated 7 to 20 per cent of a car's fuel goes to feed emission control equipment, or about $2 for every tankful for some motorists.

He said a well-tuned car without emission controls causes no more pollution than an out-of-tune car with the latest antipollution equipment.

Furey claims that after 10,000 miles the extra gas consumed by emission control equipment causes residue build-ups which actually negate the effect of the controls.

Furey said he will charge two rates for the conversion and tune-up, $49.95 for cars with early pollution control systems and $99 for the latest models.

Under current federal law, installation of emission control devices is required, and manufacturers and dealers are forbidden to tamper with them.

But VanHeyde said he could find nothing in U.S. Environmental Protection Agency regulations prohibiting a vehicle's owner from modifying his own equipment.

"If you want to take it (antipollution equipment) off your own car, it's perfectly legal to do so," VanHeyde said.

The EPA warned, however, that sloppy conversions can result in even greater waste of gasoline for late model cars.

"This is not a simple technique, and I personally would not want my car modified by a mechanic not completely familiar with the design principles of the emission control system," said Eric Stork, director of the EPA's emissions laboratory at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Race for Neenah mayor

NEENAH-MENASHA — Neenah City Council President Thomas Willarson today took out nomination papers for mayor, assuring that incumbent Roman Hauser will have opposition in the April 2 election.

Hauser, Willarson and Neenah Eighth Ward Ald. Don Colburn are the only Twin City candidates to take out nomination papers so far, although six incumbents in Menasha and two other aldermen in Neenah have already said they would run.

Two incumbent aldermen have announced that they will not seek re-election, Joseph Van Lieshout of Menasha's Third Ward, and Donald Otto of the Sixth Ward, Neenah.

Willarson, 37, has represented the Fifth Ward since 1970, when he defeated incumbent Ald. Anne Towne. As council president for the past two years, he has served on all the council's standing committees.

Both Hauser and Willarson felt it was too early to go out on a limb about key issues in the upcoming campaign. But Willarson confessed to being somewhat frustrated at the slow pace of decision-making at city hall: "There's some things we should be making decisions on instead of holding them in abeyance constantly."

Willarson cited planning for the Breezewood-Bell overpass and street extension, and for the slough interceptor, as two examples of "some things moving a little slowly."

"We sit back and wait two years for easements" on the interceptor, he said, while the costs of the project mount up. Willarson said the city needed long-range planning, to avoid the traffic problems at the Neenah West shopping area, for example. He said he wasn't sure whether the city needed the "separate bureaucracy" of a city department of development, but he did say better communication among present city hall departments, and cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, would help business development.

Hauser said he couldn't focus on specific issues at this time. "So many things are in the fire that are so time-consuming," he said. "The sewage disposal plant would certainly be a big one."

Willarson is the owner of Winchester Hills Golf Course, and is a native of Neenah and a graduate of Neenah High School. The family lives at 339 9th St., and he has five children ages 16 to 5. Calvin Zernicke, 671 Congress St., is the chairman of Willarson's campaign committee.

Hauser, 60, is completing his first four-year term as mayor. He was city clerk from 1941 to his election in 1970.

In Menasha, Mayor James Adams is unopposed so far in his bid for another two-year term. Adams and First Ward Ald. Raymond Zielinski, Second Ward Ald. Erwin Rocks, Fourth Ward Ald. Felix Ropella Jr., Fifth Ward Ald. Hugh Geibel, and Sixth Ward Ald. Robert La Count have said they would run again.

Ald. Erich Hintz, Fourth Ward, and Jeffery Smith, Tenth Ward, along with Colburn, said they would run again in Neenah. Second Ward Ald. Walter Loehning said last week that he was undecided on a fourth term.

Otto, 32, said today that his job and other personal reasons led to his decision not to run again, but that he enjoyed his one term in public office. "I really learned a lot about the city and I don't regret a minute of it," Otto said.

Smith, 31, said the sewage plant addition, the questions of building a new city hall and expanded sewer service to the Town of Neenah, and changing over city clerical duties to a data processing system were important issues for the council in 1974. The first term alderman said, "These items and many more like them will call for even a greater commitment of time for the position of alderman."

Bishop Alton returns

It was like coming home for Bishop and Mrs. Ralph Taylor Alton, center, Indianapolis. Alton, once pastor of First United Methodist Church, Appleton, returned last weekend to preach a New Year's sermon from his old

500 give their time to lead Boy Scouts

Nearly 500 people volunteer their time to Boy Scout activities in the Appleton area alone.

Volunteer service comes in positions as den mothers and den dads, scoutmasters and various assistants and as district or council members.

About 1,335 Cub Scouts organized into 30 cub packs and 890 Boy Scouts in 26 Scout troops as well as 186 Explorer Scouts all need the aid of volunteer adults, both male and female, to supervise, plan activities and control the quality and advancement of the programs.

There is no minimum time limit asked of adult volunteers and there is no particular volunteer structure, according to Dick Newton, the district executive of Boy Scouts in this area.

There is no formal screening for Boy Scout volunteer help except that the people should be interested in working with boys.

The Bay Lakes Council, which is headquartered in Menasha, covers a large territory from northeastern Wisconsin to the northern edge of Milwaukee. Boy Scouting is funded 60 per cent by United Fund contributions in the various communities in which scout activities are offered and by the Council. The remaining 40 per cent comes from dues collected from sustaining memberships.

Forms of service include work as den mothers or den dads for groups of 6 to 8 boys ranging in age from 8 to 10 years old. Dens meet weekly while the packs, or groups of dens, meet monthly.

Scout patrols for boys 11 years and older meet weekly but have no particular adult supervision except under the scoutmaster when they gather into troops. Scoutmaster and cubmaster are the only positions restricted to men only.

There are also 14 Explorer Posts in the Appleton area. Exploring involves senior high school young men and women in career exploration and special interest activities. There are 186 Explorers in this area.

Other volunteers, who are all required to be over 21 years old, may find service on councils or districts. In this capacity they may plan activities, provide for the organization and extension of various programs and control program quality.

Two cars, snowmobile plunge through ice

Four persons, including a young Neenah woman, escaped serious injury New Year's Day Tuesday, and early today when the vehicles they were riding in plunged into icy waters.

A snowmobile, whose driver was involved in one of the mishaps, sank in Lake Butte des Morts, however.

Donna Leibold, 22, 128 Ricker's Bay Road, was taken to Theda Clark Hospital for observation after the late model car she was driving plunged into Lake Winnebago after breaking through thin ice near the Neenah water plant, early today.

Authorities, who said the woman was provided with dry clothing by a Neenah couple before they arrived, said the front end of the car went under, after she drove out onto the ice.

Howard DeLap, 43, and Dennis Dunn,

15, both of Oshkosh, managed to crawl to shore Tuesday night after the car DeLap was driving plunged through the ice on Lake Winnebago, near Oshkosh. Neither was hospitalized. The car, its front end under water, was removed.

Martha Medley, 43, of Oshkosh, was treated and released for exposure at Mercy Medical Center Monday after being rescued from Lake Butte des Morts.

Police said she was snowmobiling with her husband, and both were on separate machines, when she broke through the ice about 150 yards off Ontario Street in the village of Butte des Morts.

She was rescued by the sheriff's department and Frank J. Londowski, who furnished a boat. The snowmobile was lost in about nine feet of water.

Health surveys are due in Calumet County

Saturday is the deadline for mailing the Calumet County survey of health needs, according to Mrs. Paul Ecker, Stockbridge, survey chairman.

The survey prepared by the Calumet County Health Resource Council was sent to 25 per cent of the county households several weeks ago. The information is important to the council in planning for future health needs in the county. Calumet was the first in the area to undertake the survey, supported by $250 voted for the project by the board of supervisors.

Returns from 33 per cent of the households receiving the survey have been sent to the Lake Winnebago area planning organization at Oshkosh, but more returns are necessary to get a clearer picture of the county's needs.

Residents are not asked to identify themselves for the survey but to give candid answers to questions which deal mainly with the type of health care facilities they used during the last two years, whether in Calumet or another county. The questions seek to determine whether the facilities were satisfactory or how they can be improved and the frequency at which household members visited doctors, dentists and specialists during the last two years.

A total of 1,935 surveys were mailed, Mrs. Ecker said. Of these, the Town of Harrison returned 70 of it 187; the cities of Appleton, 96 out of 271; Chilton, 85 out of 233; Brillion, 65 out of 206; Kiel, 5 out of 31; New Holstein, 75 out of 219; the towns of New Holstein, 14 out of 88; Brothertown, 30 out of 103; Rantoul, 17 out of 76; Stockbridge, 24 out of 88; Woodville, 20 out of 65, and Brillion, 29 out of 94.

Other returns show Village of Stockbridge residents returned 13 of 40; Hilbert 27 of 73 and Sherwood 10 of 25.

Other members of the survey committee are Mrs. Ezra Keuer and Mrs. Anton Rank, Brillion; Elmer Whitby, Brothertown; Robert Hipke, Mrs. Marcella Michels, Howard Schuch, Joseph Schumacher and Florence Woelfel, Chilton; Fred Middendorf, New Holstein, and Mrs. Vincent Gerner, Stockbridge.

Out of the freezer . . .

The Fox Cities may come out of the freezer and into the refrigerator soon as temperatures are expected to rise into the teens Thursday.

The U. S. Weather Service in Green Bay has predicted cloudy and not so cold temperatures tonight and a low around zero. There is a 40 per cent chance of light snow accumulating to one to two inches tonight.

Thursday should be mostly cloudy and a little warmer with a high near 15 above. There is a 30 per cent chance of occasional light snow.

Light southwesterly winds will be at 5 to 10 miles per hour tonight and Thursday.

Friday's outlook calls for variably cloudy skies and high in the teens.

In a 24-hour period ending at 9:30 a.m., the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. recorded a high of zero and a low of 11 below. No precipitation was recorded during this time.

At midmorning, the barometer was steady at 30.67 and winds were southwest at 4. The relative humidity and dew point were not available.

Sunset today at 4:26 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 7:29 a.m. Moonset tomorrow at 2:01 a.m. Full Moon on Jan. 8.

The planet Mars is the bright "star" near the moon tonight and tomorrow night. Mars will be in the evening sky this year until the beginning of September.

Points to check before traveling

If you plan a winter vacation, get your house in order.

Check the following points:
—Make sure your outside faucets are free of water. Most houses have valves for shutting off water to outside pipes, usually in the basement. After you have closed these inside valves, be sure the outside spigots are completely open. This keeps freezing water from bursting the pipes.

—Hire someone to clear your walks in the event of a heavy snow. Many cities have laws requiring the clearing of sidewalks, and you could escape a damage suit brought by someone's slipping on the sidewalk and injuring himself. Clean walks also suggest that the house is occupied and might thwart a potential burglary.

—Make sure your furnace is in good working condition. Your furniture also needs warmth, and could be seriously warped or otherwise damaged by a prolonged cold spell. Keep your thermostat set at about 60 degrees. This also can keep inside water pipes from freezing.

—Leave at least one window shade up in each room. Fire is more likely to strike in winter. If people passing can see in, a fire may be spotted sooner, reducing damage.

—Check with a dealer or repairman as to whether you should keep your refrigerator running. Some types of refrigerators, if left idle, can develop trouble which may mean a costly repair bill.

Art Buchwald Bidding farewell to grizzled '73

WASHINGTON—Grizzled old 1973 was putting the last things into his suitcase as young, bright-eyed 1974 stood nervously in the bedroom.

"Well," said old '73, as he stuffed a few more White House tapes into his bag, "that seems to be about it. The place is all yours. Here are the keys to the house. Oh, by the way, keep the thermostat down to 68 or you may run out of oil by March. You may run out of it anyway. I don't know what happened. When I moved in in January everything was going great, then suddenly in October the bottom fell out, and damned if we didn't have a worldwide energy crisis. 1972 didn't say a word to me about it."

"Yessir," said 1974.

"Now," said old '73, "here are the keys to the car. You can drive only 55 miles an hour and you're supposed to put only 10 gallons of gas in your tank a week. I'm glad I'm getting out, because that's going to be a drag."

"I'll do the best I can with what I've got," 74 said.

GEORGE!!

Listen, George!

Old '73 looked at '74 quizzically. "I'm sure you will. Care for a drink?"

"Thank you, sir," said '74, "but I don't drink."

Old '73 poured a double shot and drank it down neat. "You will before the month is out," he said. "If you don't drink you'll really go off your axis. Listen, when I took this job over from '72, he didn't tell me one damn thing. He just said 'It's all yours Buster, I'm getting out of here.' But I'm not that kind of a year. I'm going to level with you. You got lots of problems."

"I'm certain I can handle them," '74 said. "After all, I graduated from Harvard."

Old '73 poured himself another double shot. "Yeh. Well anyhow you can expect a lot of shortages. It's going to be hard to get plastics, steel, paper, glass and even plywood. There'll be worldwide unemployment and an unreal inflation. And to top it off, they'll probably impeach the President of the United States."

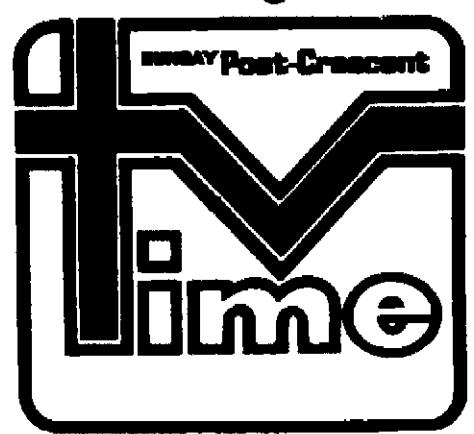

"If things were perfect there would be no challenge, would there?" '74 replied.

"You really are square," old '73 said as he took a swig from the bottle. "Well, suppose I told you I'm leaving you a little ole war in the Middle East to solve, and if you don't it could mean high noon for the Russkies and the Americans."

"I'm certain sane minds will prevail," '74 said.

Old '73 opened another bottle. "Boy, I must say you're a cool one. Anyway, Starting . . .

January 13!

I'm all burned out. It's time for me to be getting along. You're a nice kid. I like your style. Maybe we can get together sometime and you can let me know how you did."

"I'd like that, sir," '74 said. "Can I help you with your bag?"

"That would be mighty nice of you. I'm just going down to the bus station by myself."

"Okay, sir. Just hold on to my arm."

As they walked outside they saw a cheering crowd, and a band began playing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," followed by "Auld Lane Syno." Tears welled in old '73's eyes. "I'll be damned," he said, all choked up, "I didn't think anyone cared."

Next time, ride the horse

BARNESLEY, England (AP) — Helen Sides has paid a $12 fine for giving a pregnant Shetland pony a ride in her mother's small car.

Helen, 18, and her mother took out a front seat and converted their four-passenger Hillman Imp into a pony express when a horse trailer failed to arrive to take three-year-old, three-foot-high Cindy to the Sides farm.

The two women got the pony in one side, Mrs. Sides got in the back seat, and Helen drove slowly down the road.

"She seemed to be enjoying the ride when the police stopped us," Helen told the magistrate. "She stood perfectly still and just looked out of the back window."

The judge found her guilty of driving without reasonable consideration for other road users.

Singer Bing Crosby down with pleurisy

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Singer Bing Crosby is making a satisfactory recovery from pleurisy at Peninsula Hospital, a hospital spokesman says.

"We don't know when he'll be released," nursing supervisor Rawnie Gordon said Tuesday. "Of course everybody's hoping it'll be by Thursday," when the 33rd annual Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Championship opens in Pebble Beach.

Crosby, 69, reportedly spent much of the day Tuesday resting comfortably and watching televised football games.

He was admitted to the hospital Monday after developing back and chest pains that were diagnosed as pleurisy, an inflammation of the lung membranes.

Family butler Alan Fisher said Crosby was reluctant to be hospitalized but agreed to at the insistence of his wife, Kathryn, a former nurse.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
 King Coal once was THE American fuel. Today, this empire has yielded to the challenge of cheaper oil and natural gas.

Yet the greatest reserve of stored energy on the U.S. continent is in coal: three trillion tons of it.

That's enough for 5,000 years at the current U.S. consumption level of 600 million tons annually. Coal now provides 17 per cent of the nation's energy, ranking third in importance behind natural gas (38 per cent) and oil (45 per cent).

Fifty years ago, coal provided more than 50 per cent of the energy consumed in the United States.

Can coal production and use be developed in the next decade, now that the nation faces a major oil and gas shortage which might last for years?

The experts say yes—if industry and government are prepared to bankroll a crash program they compare in scope to the atom bomb's Manhattan Project.

The object of the crash program would be to raise coal utilization once again to 50 per cent of the nation's total energy consumption, with rigorous measures to limit environmental damage.

This would mean nearly tripling coal production to 1.5 billion tons a year by 1985. Most of the expanded production would be converted to synthetic gas and oil. But first researchers must find economic ways to carry out the conversion processes.

The estimated cost of the crash program: The industry says $15 billion or more just to triple coal production by 1985. Two to three billion more is needed for technological development, industry leaders say.

The government has made merely the initial move, increasing the federal budget for coal research $50 million in

Research is needed to achieve three major industry objectives.

One of these is to produce a gas of high heat value to supplement natural gas in the nation's pipelines. The second is to use a cheap "power gas" to replace much of the natural gas, raw coal and fuel oil now burned in electric power plants. The third is to produce a range of coal oil products, including gasoline.

Another problem is environmental pollution. The industry faces a tough challenge on strip mining, clean air and safety. Opposition to strip mining grows daily in Montana and other Western states with huge, untapped coal reserves. Farmers and ranchers are siding with environmentalists on the issue. They say the nation's food needs require that the land be saved for growing and grazing. The National Academy of Sciences claims there isn't enough water available in the Western coal areas to cool the electric generating plants that would operate near the mines.

The coal companies want to stretch the terms of the Clean Air Act to allow the burning of more high-sulfur coal during the next few years. The head of the Environmental Protection Agency, Russell Train, replies that technology to remove sulfur is available, and some devices are already in use.

Despite the problems, there seems little doubt that coal has a big future.

Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton said recently that coal "is our ace in the hole our most abundant resource."

And the assistant interior secretary, Steve Wakefield, told reporters, "There might have been a question a few weeks ago about whether the nation was going to turn to coal in a big way. After the Arab cutoff there is no longer any question: We have got to go on coal."

October, making it $165 million for the year.

Three coal gasification pilot plants have been built, partly with federal funds. Three more are under construction.

However, the administration has given top priority to development of the nuclear fission fast-breeder reactor. At the present slow pace of coal gasification funding, the first largescale demonstration plant will not be started until 1976.

Industry experts say the first commercial gasification plant will not appear until 1980, at the earliest. They say a reasonable goal is construction of 30 such plants by 1985, at a cost of $9 billion dollars. These plants would produce enough coal gas to substitute for 10 per cent of the natural gas now consumed.

Even generals barred from exclusive mess in Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Tuesday that one star general is barred from eating at the Secretary of the Air Force's mess at the Pentagon.

Only major generals and above and some senior civil servants can use the mess which offers a luncheon special for $1.50, Aspin said in a statement.

The Air Force spends more than $200,000 to operate a dining room so exclusive that 46 per cent of the Air Force generals in the Washington area are barred from eating there, he said.

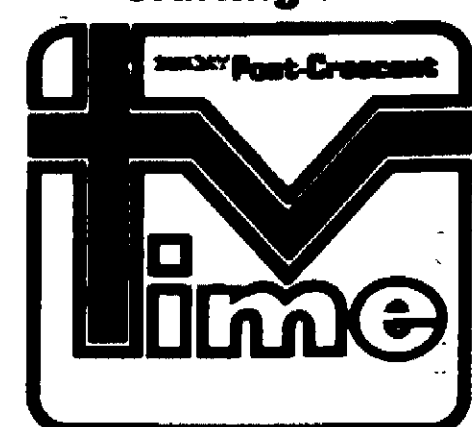

Aspin also said the mess is manned by 17 military personnel.

"There are already numerous cafeterias in the Pentagon operated by a private contractor," he said. "How in the world can the Air Force justify spending so much money on this high flung boondoggle."

Pentagon offices were closed for the holiday, and comment was not available immediately.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The voice of the working farmer may vanish from the state Board of Agriculture unless members receive a substantial per diem increase, says state Sen. Walter Chilsen, R-Wausau.

Chilsen, chairman of the Agriculture and Rural Development Committee, said he has sponsored legislation to boost the daily allowance from the present $10 to $50.

"I say it's an insult to the farmers of the state to pay our AG board members far less in per diem than most of the other state boards receive," Chilsen said in a statement.

Members of numerous other boards receive $25 daily allowances, while some get as much as $50.

21 climbers ready for Himalayas

By BINAZA GURUACHARYA
Associated Press Writer

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Eight countries have permission to send 21 mountaineering teams to test the Himalayas next spring, the highest total in a single climbing season since Nepal opened its peaks to foreigners in 1950.

Japan's mountain-climbing enthusiasts will supply nine of the teams, including the Himalayas' third all-woman expedition, the first since 1960.

Another highlight of the season will be a Spanish attempt on Mt. Everest, at 29,028 feet the world's tallest mountain. It is one of two expeditions from Spain.

The women, from the Jangfrau Alpine Club of Tokyo, plan to become the first of their sex to conquer a mountain of more than 26,246 feet, the killer peak Mt. Manaslu.

Manaslu was in 1972 the site of the Himalaya's worst mountaineering accident, when 10 Nepal sherpas, four Koreans and a Japanese cameraman died in an avalanche.

Female mountaineering in the Himalayas is a story of success and disaster.

The first all-woman group, led by Mrs. Claude Kogan of France, fell apart in the autumn of 1959 when an avalanche and blizzards killed two sherpas, Mrs. Kogan and another climber, Claudine van der Stratten. The team had been trying to climb 26,750-foot Mt. Chooyu.

A decade later, Japanese women scaled 24,787-foot Annapurna-III in midwest Nepal.

One woman, Miss Setsuko Watanabe of Japan, climbed to 26,246 feet with a successful expedition to Everest in 1970, but she did not make the summit.

If the Spaniards succeed, it will be the first time in history that Everest will have been negotiated successfully in three consecutive climbing seasons.

Until an Italian team and a Japanese group climbed it in the spring and autumn of 1973, Everest never had been climbed twice in one year.

The other Spanish team given permission by the Nepal Foreign Ministry to enter the Himalayas next spring is going to Annapurna-I, the first peak of more than 26,246 feet ever climbed.

In the first open season 24 years ago, Frenchmen Louis Lachenal and Maurice Herzog scaled the 26,545-foot mountain in what Herzog described as "a story of terrible adventure."

Other countries given permission to send climbing teams were South Korea, Britain, Italy, West Germany, Poland and Austria.

King Coal once was THE American fuel. Today, this empire has yielded to the challenge of cheaper oil and natural gas.

Yet the greatest reserve of stored energy on the U.S. continent is in coal: three trillion tons of it.

That's enough for 5,000 years at the current U.S. consumption level of 600 million tons annually. Coal now provides 17 per cent of the nation's energy, ranking third in importance behind natural gas (30 per cent) and oil (45 per cent).

Fifty years ago, coal provided more than 50 per cent of the energy consumed in the United States.

Can coal production and use be developed in the next decade, now that the nation faces a major oil and gas shortage which might last for years?

The experts say yes—if industry and government are prepared to bankroll a crash program they compare in scope to the atom bomb's Manhattan Project.

The object of the crash program would be to raise coal utilization once again to 50 per cent of the nation's total energy consumption, with rigorous measures to limit environmental damage.

This would mean nearly tripling coal production to 1.5 billion tons a year by 1985. Most of the expanded production would be converted to synthetic gas and oil. But first researchers must find economic ways to carry out the conversion processes.

The estimated cost of the crash program: The industry says $15 billion or more just to triple coal production by 1985. Two to three billion more is needed for technological development, industry leaders say.

The government has made merely the initial move, increasing the federal budget for coal research $50 million in

Research is needed to achieve three major industry objectives.

One of these is to produce a gas of high heat value to supplement natural gas in the nation's pipelines. The second is to use a cheap "power gas" to replace much of the natural gas, raw coal and fuel oil now burned in electric power plants. The third is to produce a range of coal oil products, including gasoline.

Another problem is environmental pollution. The industry faces a tough challenge on strip mining, clean air and safety. Opposition to strip mining grows daily in Montana and other Western states with huge, untapped coal reserves. Farmers and ranchers are siding with environmentalists on the issue. They say the nation's food needs require that the land be saved for growing and grazing. The National Academy of Sciences claims there isn't enough water available in the Western coal areas to cool the electric generating plants that would operate near the mines.

The coal companies want to stretch the terms of the Clean Air Act to allow the burning of more high-sulfur coal during the next few years. The head of the Environmental Protection Agency, Russell Train, replies that technology to remove sulfur is available, and some devices are already in use.

Despite the problems, there seems little doubt that coal has a big future.

Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton said recently that coal "is our ace in the hole, our most abundant resource."

And the assistant interior secretary, Steve Wakefield, told reporters, "There might have been a question a few weeks ago about whether the nation was going to turn to coal in a big way. After the Arab cutoff there is no longer any question: We have got to go on coal."

October, making it $165 million for the year.

Three coal gasification pilot plants have been built, partly with federal funds. Three more are under construction.

However, the administration has given top priority to development of the nuclear fission fast-breeder reactor. At the present slow pace of coal gasification funding, the first largescale demonstration plant will not be started until 1976.

Industry experts say the first commercial gasification plant will not appear until 1980, at the earliest. They say a reasonable goal is construction of 30 such plants by 1985, at a cost of $9 billion dollars. These plants would produce enough coal gas to substitute for 10 per cent of the natural gas now consumed.

Even generals barred from exclusive mess in Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Tuesday that one star general is barred from eating at the Secretary of the Air Force's mess at the Pentagon.

Only major generals and above and some senior civil servants can use the mess which offers a luncheon special for $1.50, Aspin said in a statement.

The Air Force spends more than $280,000 to operate a dining room so exclusive that 46 per cent of the Air Force generals in the Washington area are barred from eating there, he said.

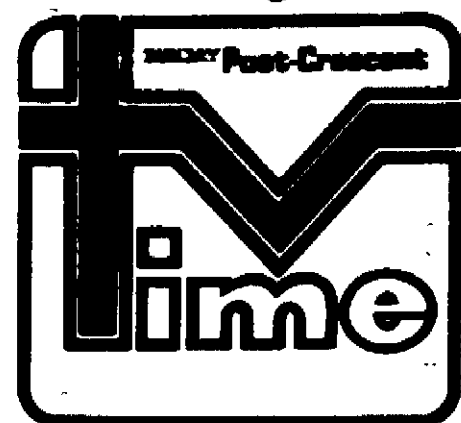

Aspin also said the mess is manned by 17 military personnel.

"There are already numerous cafeterias in the Pentagon operated by a private contractor," he said. "How in the world can the Air Force justify spending so much money on this high flung boondoggle?"

Pentagon offices were closed for the holiday, and comment was not available immediately.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The voice of the working farmer may vanish from the state Board of Agriculture unless members receive a substantial per diem increase, says state Sen. Walter Chilsen, R-Wausau.

Chilsen, chairman of the Agriculture and Rural Development Committee, said he has sponsored legislation to boost the daily allowance from the present $10 to $50.

"I say it's an insult to the farmers of the state to pay our AG board members far less in per diem than most of the other state boards receive," Chilsen said in a statement.

Members of numerous other boards receive $25 daily allowances, while some get as much as $50.

ready for Himalayas

By BINAZA GURUACHARYA
Associated Press Writer
KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Eight countries have permission to send 21 mountaineering teams to test the Himalayas next spring, the highest total in a single climbing season since Nepal opened its peaks to foreigners in 1950.
Japan's mountain-climbing enthusiasts will supply nine of the teams, including the Himalayas' third all-woman expedition, the first since 1980.
Another highlight of the season will be a Spanish attempt on Mt. Everest, at 29,028 feet the world's tallest mountain. It is one of two expeditions from Spain.
The women, from the Jangfrau Alpine Club of Tokyo, plan to become the first of their sex to conquer a mountain of more than 26,246 feet, the killer peak Mt. Manaslu.
Manaslu was in 1972 the site of the Himalaya's worst mountaineering accident, when 10 Nepal sherpas, four Koreans and a Japanese cameraman died in an avalanche.
Female mountaineering in the Himalayas is a story of success and disaster.
The first all-woman group, led by Mrs. Glaude Kogan of France, fell apart in the autumn of 1969 when an avalanche and blizzards killed two sherpas, Mrs. Kogan and another climber, Claudine van der Stratten. The team had been trying to climb 26,750-foot Mt. Chooyu.
A decade later, Japanese women scaled 24,787-foot Annapurna-III in midwest Nepal.
One woman, Miss Satsuko Watanabe of Japan, climbed to 26,246 feet with a successful expedition to Everest in 1970, but she did not make the summit.
If the Spaniards succeed, it will be the first time in history that Everest will have been negotiated successfully in three consecutive climbing seasons.
Until an Italian team and a Japanese group climbed it in the spring and autumn of 1973, Everest never had been climbed twice in one year.
The other Spanish team given permission by the Nepal Foreign Ministry to enter the Himalayas next spring is going to Annapurna-I, the first peak of more than 26,246 feet ever climbed.
In the first open season 24 years ago, Frenchmen Louis Lachenal and Maurice Herzog scaled the 26,545-foot mountain in what Herzog described as "a story of terrible adventure."
Other countries given permission to send climbing teams were South Korea, Britain, Italy, West Germany, Poland and Austria.

Requiem for the chub?

For those many thousands of persons in this neighborhood and elsewhere in the Great Lakes area there was an ominous tone to the recent discussion among members of the Board of Natural Resources on the condition of the chub fishery in Lake Michigan. For the first time, the board has ordered a closed season for a month late next year, with a tone strongly suggesting that this is merely a kind of prelude and that more drastic conservation measures are probably required.

As many of our neighbors will agree, the chub is fare for the most fastidious epicure. The golden sheen of the smoked fish in the market commands a stiff price, but the true devotee has not been deterred. This remote little cousin of the more prestigious whitefish has for generations been the delight of thousands who will surely be concerned about the official warnings that it may be lost to him forever. The evidence is gloomy. Of the half dozen principal species of the lake chub that our ancestors knew, only that with the unfortunately plebian name of "bloater" remains in numbers that make it economically harvestable. Now the men of the fish management division in Madison are worrying publicly that it may be doomed too.

The hope is that the state of Michigan, which shares jurisdiction with Wisconsin over the principal remnant of the chub fishery, will join in a closed season compact for its protection.

The administrative officers at Madison whose duties include supervision of the commercial fishery appeared reluctant to make their recommendation for more cautious regulations, doubtless with an understanding of the abundant troubles of the shrinking numbers of the commercial fishing community and the comparatively small return for its labors.

But their data told the story, nevertheless. During the last five years, chub production in the Wisconsin waters of Lake Michigan declined from 6.2 millions of pounds to 2.2 millions. Moreover, the true decline is not measured by the harvest, because of steadily increasing efficiency of fishing gear and a higher intensity of fishing effort.

That the men responsible for the management of the fisheries, members of the staff of the Natural Resources Department, have moved with reluctant caution is suggested by the introductory paragraphs of a report on the problem of the commercial fishery that remains.

"Time is running out for the tradition-bound concepts of managing commercial fisheries," said a staff report. "Many fish stocks are now either fully exploited or over-exploited. Many fishermen now find themselves on the brink of disaster, entirely dependent on the success of a few year classes of a single species."

The future of the snomo

The current energy crisis has brought some added complaints against — and hasty defenses for — the snowmobile. On the one hand, there are claims that the industry is dying, on the other that the amount of gas used is negligible. What's the story?

In the first place it was becoming obvious before the petroleum problems that the industry had overexpanded. This was natural enough due to the initial early demand. In the winter of 1962-63, only 10,000 snowmobiles were sold. By the beginning of 1973 there were 2,167,552 registered in the United States — and there are probably quite a few unregistered. The winter before, almost 600,000 new snowmobiles had been sold. The snowmobile became a billion dollar a year business including sales, accessories and the resort industry. It was transferring some parts of the country such as Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan from deserted poverty areas in the winter to tourist centers all year round.

But everything did not stay rosy. There were about 60 companies making and selling snowmobiles in 1972 but there are less than 20 now. Estimates are that the number will dwindle down to about 12. In the same way every little community had its dozens of dealers. But last year the industry had estimated that some 850,000 units would be sold and actually the number was closer to 500,000. Obviously efforts to get rid of last year's inventory hampers sales of this year's models. The industry has predicted the manufacturing of only 400,000 or less in the coming year — and that was before the energy crisis hit.

Meanwhile the opposition has grown. Ecologists were pointing to wildlife damage. Cross-country skiers objected to the noise and the confusion. Fatalities and injuries alarmed others. The usual abuse by the machine by probably a small minority of owners brought howls of protest and demands for restrictive legislation.

Industry spokesmen point hopefully to changes. Machines are being made smaller, they point out, and the emphasis is changing. "We see snowmobiling in the future as a safe, family sport with speed and racing confined to regulated tracks and highly skillful drivers," says one. One company insists that the decibel level to be reached by 1980 "is two decibels quieter than the inside of a Mercedes Benz sports car."

Since most snowmobile owners seldom drive more than 100 miles a week, promoters argue that gas usage is minor. Nevertheless, for Canada and the United States that adds up to about 180 million gallons of gas and 37 million quarts of oil for one winter, according to figures given by the Christian Science Monitor.

In retrospect the industry might have done better not to have promoted speed and to have encouraged the development of recreational trails as removed as possible from where the noise and exhaust would disturb others. Now that things are tight, snomo people need all the friends they can get.

Potomac fever

The Watergate panel will not call Mrs. Dita Beard on the ITT matter. They have enough data without Dita.

Senator Bentsen predicts a Democratic gain of 40 House seats and three in the Senate. And that's not counting paper shredders and tape recorders.

The General Accounting Office disclosed a $100,000 expenditure for Agnew's aides, offices, etc. And that's only because he confessed.

Considering the public cost of San Clemente, then offering it as a gift, makes Nixon an Indian and Scotch giver.

The General Accounting Office accused CREEP of hiding a $35,000 payment to spies on McGovern. Tape recorders would have been cheaper and more silent.

Agnew asked the Maryland judiciary to suspend rather than disbar him. That's like Jesse James settling for the sheriff's job instead of the marshal's.

Nixon has been unfairly criticized on his tax returns. He didn't deduct his dog's chauffeur.

Things are so bad at the White House Nixon won't talk to the old or new Nixon.

John Wyngaard

Lucey likes idea of special sessions

MADISON — Nobody in the legislature was persuaded that Gov. Patrick Lucey's special session call produced anything meaningful with respect to assurance of fuel supplies in the state, but the record can be regarded as a minor victory for the governor and his administration.

If it is assumed that the fuel crisis is real and legitimate and that it is likely to continue, or even worsen, the conservation of resources intended in the new highway vehicle speed limits enacted willingly by the lawmakers without regard to partisan persuasion will be the most fruitful.

Indeed, the visible and voluntary compliance of great numbers of drivers with suggestions for lower speeds in the interest of conservation indicate that this is the kind of response that is regarded as practicable. Not the least of the considerations is that of safety.

Dividend in lives

John Radcliffe, head of the state highway safety service, suggests that the dividend may include several hundreds of lives, not only through safer speeds but as a result of restraint in highway travel that is being visibly demonstrated everywhere.

The impact of state action on the issue of heating and power fuel supplies is quite different and probably speculative in the most optimistic interpretation. As the governor has himself acknowledged, it is a kind of gesture, a propaganda instrument, rather than a practicable solution of a problem or a means to put his constituents' worries to rest. This is not an oil producing state. The issue, most optimistically defined, is one of distribution of supplies to the areas of most critical need.

The governor has now won for his energy coordinator the right to summon reports from suppliers on reserves and prospective receipts for such value as the data may have in arranging for relief in critical areas. But in a real crisis, rationing would be implied or required.

Is the state a suitable vehicle? Can the state, indeed, undertake such a task? This is the business of the nation — the federal government — as the governor knows and as he knows the people know. Yet he is entitled to credit for the initiative, if it is only a gesture and serves to put pressure upon the apparently uncertain and demoralized government in Washington.

Picks Republican czar

A degree of petty partisan byplay is inevitable in such situations. Thus the Republicans laboriously contrived to modify the details of the governor's authorization for an energy coordinating services by putting it directly under his office — thus to identify and presumably to compromise the persons involved in the event of failure if a true emergency should come.

Yet the bemused bystander is unlikely to regard that as more offensive, or even remarkable, than the Lucey effort to cloak the whole emergency fuel office with a Republican coloring by ostentatiously summoning prominent Republican Stanley York to run it. That some Republican legislators were annoyed by the maneuver was shown beyond much doubt in the crude and almost insulting treatment shown York when he was summoned before the Senate in what was euphemistically called a "hearing," but barely escaped qualifying as a lynching.

The special legislative session call, one of a governor's major privileges, is a double-edged tool. Yet the governor is evidently intrigued with its positive aspects also, as he shows in hinting that he will ask the legislature to return again, before it resumes its session under its own calendar in late January, for other special requests not so directly related to the emergency as to his own political program.

It is a bold idea. But Mr. Lucey likes bold ideas. Sometimes, indeed, he appears to be as much enamored of the name as the game.

ALL FAIGAL AND THE FORTY THIEVES

Sydney J. Harris

Harris does research for lazy students

"Mr. Harris—Is it true that 'Henry Stanley' was not the real name of the man who found Livingstone in Africa, and immortalized the phrase, 'Dr. Livingstone, I presume?'"—G.C., Kansas.

Yes, his real name was John Rowlands; a Welsh orphan, he emigrated to the U.S. and in his youth took the name of the New Orleans merchant who befriended him. Rowlands also fought on both sides in our Civil War.

"Mr. Harris—From what single cause do more people in the world today die than from any other?"—L.B., Florida.

Surprisingly enough, in this age, the greatest single cause of death throughout the world is still from mosquito-borne diseases.

"Mr. Harris—I read somewhere that a country in Europe has two capitals instead of one. Do you know which country this is?"—A.N., Ohio.

Holland (the Netherlands, if you will) designates Amsterdam as its constitutional seat, and The Hague as its political capital.

"Mr. Harris—Is it true that a Pope once wrote the libretti for comic operas? If so, who was he, and when was this?"—R.T., Vermont.

Not quite: Pope Clement IX, who reigned 1667-69, wrote the libretti for the earliest comic operas, but years before he ascended the Papacy.

"Mr. Harris—Some people insist that Bonnie Prince Charlie, the Scottish hero of song and story, could not speak a word of English, and I say this is impossible. Who is right?"—N.O.N., Vancouver, B.C.

Bonnie Prince Charlie was half Polish, born in Italy, spoke English with a pronounced Italian accent, and died a bankrupt drunkard in Rome, attended only by his bastard daughter.

"Mr. Harris—Can you help me with an 8th-grade problem: Are all parasites insects, or are there other kinds?"—D.T., Louisiana.

The cuckoo bird is a parasite throughout Europe (the American species are not), and a few other non-insects are parasites by nature.

"Mr. Harris—My teacher laughed at me when I described a woman as a 'Titaness.' Does a 'Titan' always have to be a male figure?"—O.P., New Mexico.

No; actually there were 12 Titans in ancient Greek religion, six of whom were sons and six of whom were daughters of the gods.

"Mr. Harris—Do you believe that a Supreme Court judge should be appointed if he has not had previous judicial experience?"—B.B., Iowa.

Some would point to John Marshall, perhaps the greatest of the Chief Justices of the U.S. Supreme Court, who served brilliantly for 30 years, without ever having spent a day on any judicial bench until he was appointed Chief Justice.

Nation responds to energy crisis

A heartening development in this somber holiday period is the country's response to the energy crisis. During the two weeks that I was abroad, the spirit of business as usual was cast away.

There was dramatic improvement in such matters as conserving energy, developing new sources, amassing data on the oil shortage and holding down prices—even at the expense of those sacred cows, the oil companies. The remaining worry—and it is a big one—has to do with curtailing unemployment.

Energy conservation represents the big breakthrough. It is not only that speed limits are being enforced, or that gas stations are closed down on Sundays, or that millions of us are turning down thermostats.

What is truly impressive is the sudden emphasis on the energy-saving features of the goods hawked on the TV commercials. Those plugs mean that the habit of saving has entered the national culture. It is only a matter of time before the gas-guzzling autos and the poorly insulated buildings go completely out of style.

Launch crash program

On the production side, the pinch-penny attitude is now gone. The Congress will be passing in the next two months a bill providing about $2 billion annually for a crash program to develop new sources of energy. Since there is an abundance of quick possibilities, especially in coal, a couple of years should see this country truly turning on the energy spigot.

Perhaps the most significant development comes in the matter of data on the oil shortage. Government officials I have been talking to, here and in Europe, acknowledge that they really don't know the precise extent of the energy crisis because the basic data on oil reserves and production and costs are not available. The oil companies insist that such information represents a proprietary right, and they refuse to give it out on the ground it will help competitors. That is an argument with merit.

But the Congress, rightly in my judgment, has concluded that the proprietary right of the companies is vastly outweighed by the need of the country to have the information required to frame an energy policy. The Emergency Petroleum Act, which was blocked by Senate filibuster last week, contains provisions which require the companies to divulge basic data to the Federal Energy Administrator. Those provisions, which have been approved by both houses, are bound to come into law soon, and the Energy Administrator, William Simon, has shown a disposition to use the information vigorously.

On prices, the picture is not so bright. The administration still approaches economic problems with the free market mystique so dear to Treasury Secretary George Shultz and the President. It has been bearish on rationing to hold down prices, and it teamed up with the companies to block in the Senate a provision of the energy act which would have applied serious taxes to the windfall profits accruing to the oil industry.

But that position is very weak. The decision of the oil-producing countries, taken arbitrarily and unilaterally in Iran over last weekend, to double prices shows how little the market counts these days. Company profits for the last quarter of this year are probably going to be double the profits for the last quarter of 1972. So there is a very sharp question as to who pays for the energy shortage.

The House of Representatives, despite tremendous pressure to do something before adjournment, refused by a large majority to pass an energy bill that did not have a tough tax bite on the companies. The most powerful Democrat in the Congress, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, is vowing to paste the oil companies publicly if they continue to hold up the development of a national energy policy in the interests of unreasonable profits.

Perhaps the only genuinely sour note in the picture is manpower. There is scant provision for improved unemployment compensation for those thrown out of work by the energy crisis. There seems to be no plan for adjustment assistance, whereby workers forced from their jobs in industries dependent on oil and gas might be retrained for jobs associated with other kinds of transport and energy. This failure is particularly serious because unemployment raises the awful specter of serious recession.

Still, the outlook is not all that grim. In this country, at least, the dark cloud of the energy crisis seems to be almost nullified by the silver lining of the public response.

Looking back New Year's day bright with callers

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Crescent, Jan. 3, 1874.

New Year's Day was one of those warm, bright, balmy days, so seldom enjoyed in this northern latitude at this time of the season. It was especially propitious for the army of happy, gay and cheery callers, who extended their hearty congratulations to the large number of ladies who were so pleasantly "at home."

The receptions were eminently social, the ladies being in the best of spirits, in happy accord with the universal spirit of enjoyment prevailing. We remark all (male callers) acquitted themselves with honor in the genuineness of their welcomes extended to the gentlemen, many of the younger of whom must have lost a portion of their hearts.

Socially, the day in Appleton was one to be remembered by the many participants in the festivities of the day. The "Silver grays" appeared to enjoy the New Year's social about as well as the younger gentlemen. We noticed that Col. Conkey, Messrs. C. Donkersley, Benjamin Rogers and others "tripped the light fantastic" with as much apparent zeal as any of them.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Dec. 29, 1948.

Appleton was digging out of the first winter snow of any consequence. A 9-inch snowfall came down during the night to bring the total up to 11 inches for the last 24-hour period.

Eugene Broeren was elected president of the Country Wizards 4-H Club, Town of Holland. Other new officers were Phyllis Hopfensperger, secretary; Donald Weyers, treasurer; Marie Mickle, reporter.

Janice Page, Bear Creek, was editor-in-chief of the Bear Creek High School newspaper. Members of her staff included Lyle Suprise, route 1, Bear Creek, reporter; Rose Mares, route 1, Bear Creek, reporter; David Sullivan, route 1, Sugar Bush, reporter; Ellen Malliet, Bear Creek, reporter; Dick Bechard, Bear Creek, sports editor, and Frances Lorge, feature editor.

Monterey pine, imported to Chile from its native California, thrives so successfully that it now accounts for more than 60 per cent of Chile's lumber.

Hoover Dam can hold back two years' flow of the Colorado River, a storage capacity nearly half the total of all the river's dams, National Geographic says.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

No specific treatment for neurofibromatosis

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have bunches nearly all over my body, some big, some small and some in clusters. A neurologist told me they are caused by neurofibromatosis. They are just under the skin. I would like more information on what this is. —Mrs. M.W.

This is a peculiar disorder featured by small tumors on nerve trunks — hence the name, “neuro” for nerves and the rest of the term indicates small fibroid tumors.

There is no specific treatment that will help or is necessary except that if a particular tumor affects any bodily function, it is removed surgically.

It is not a particularly uncommon disorder. The cause is not known but it is a hereditary type of thing. One of the signs is the appearance of coffee colored spots on the skin that may be seen at an early age.

Dear Dr. Thosteson. After a blood test I was told that my cholesterol was okay but the triglycerides were over 300, twice as high as they should be. Could you elaborate a little on the two? —I.I.

Both triglycerides and cholesterol are discussed quite fully in my booklet, “Control Cholesterol Sensibly.” Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Post-Crescent for the booklet. I think it will answer all your questions; if not, write again on whatever still seems puzzling to you

Dear Dr. Thosteson. I’m 18 and want to go into meat cutting as my work but am concerned about one thing. I have to work in a 32-degree temperature. Would this give me arthritis or other trouble as I become older? I am also a diabetic —F.M.

No, you would be clothed appropriately and become accustomed to the temperature.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A young friend has skin that is sandpaper-rough. Her mother and grandmother also have it. What is the name for this affliction? Would it be infectious for someone who has highly sensitive skin? —J.J.

It is probably ichthyosis or “fish skin disease.” It is not contagious.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a pregnancy test to be positive a few days after conception? —A.T.

Not a great many days. It is impossible after the first missed period, or about two weeks after actual conception.

surgical procedure, the essential difference being that, instead of removing tissue with a sharp blade, the tissue is destroyed by quick freezing, after which the destroyed tissues are gradually sloughed or absorbed. I’m sorry, but I cannot keep lists in all localities of doctors using particular techniques. Your personal physician can answer that for you.

Hemorrhoids can be cured. If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, requesting a copy of his booklet, “The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids,” enclosing a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Now is the time for all good homemakers to come to the aid of their family food budgets. Christmas and New Year's are behind them with only a few days of the holiday season left. Besides, food prices are like the weather — they have become the major topic of conversation these days. The trick, of course, is to keep food nutrition high, yet cut the corners on the spiraling prices. What with taxes just ahead, it's important for the cook to economize in the kitchen department. But not at the cost of either meal quality nor attractiveness. How a dish looks when it comes to the table often stimulates family appetites; the economy comes in preparation of ingredients, in the use of cooking energy as well as the choice of foods in the particular dish. It has become quite a complicated muddle for the alert homemaker with the goal to feed her family well in spite of all the crises descending upon her. That's the why of this collection of nourishing, low-cost recipes for well-balanced menus. They include peanut patties, peppers stuffed with leftover chicken, meatballs combined with spaghetti in the Italian manner and using only one-half pound meat for 16 meatballs, a unique recipe for baked beans and two recipes from one head of cabbage, both very good. Here they are for the making.

Super-Baked Beans

PEANUT PATTIES

4 cups soft whole wheat bread crumbs
2 cups cocktail peanuts, finely chopped
2 cups shredded process cheese
1/2 cup onion, minced
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon ground coriander, optional
1/2 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
1-1/2 cups soft whole wheat bread crumbs
Butter or cooking oil

1-1/4 cups milk
1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 clove garlic, crushed
Dash cayenne pepper

In a bowl, toss together 4 cups bread crumbs, peanuts, cheese, onion, parsley, paprika and coriander. Combine milk and eggs, stir into bread mixture. Divide mixture into 6 portions, shape into patties. Dip patties in 1-1/2 cups bread crumbs to coat. In a skillet over medium low heat brown patties in butter or cooking oil until heated through.

SAUCE: Combine milk, peanut butter, soy sauce, garlic and cayenne in small saucepan. Place over medium heat and bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve sauce over burgers. Recipe makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN-STUFFED PEPPERS

6 medium-sized green peppers
3 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 cup hot chicken broth or water
1/4 cup water for baking
Pimiento strips

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Cut peppers in half; remove stems and seeds. Partially cook in boiling salted water, about 5 minutes. Drain; rinse with cold water; drain again. Combine chicken, celery, onion, pimiento, mayonnaise, salt and curry powder. Stir corn meal into broth; add to chicken mixture; toss lightly. Fill peppers and place in greased 13x9-inch baking pan. Pour 1/4 cup water around peppers. Cover; bake in preheated 400-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Garnish with pimiento strips. Recipe makes 6 servings.

MEATBALLS DA VINCI

1/2 pound lean ground beef
2 cups soft bread crumbs
3/4 cup finely chopped, roasted peanuts
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs
1/4 cup non-fat dry milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with onions
Cooking oil
1 (14-1/2-oz.) can whole tomatoes
1 (8-oz.) can tomato paste
1-1/3 cups water
1 teaspoon oregano
1 clove garlic, crushed
Hot, cooked spaghetti

Combine first 8 ingredients with 1/4 cup tomato sauce. Shape into 16 meatballs. Brown in oil in large skillet; pour off fat. Stir in remaining ingredients, except spaghetti; simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Serve over hot, cooked spaghetti. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SUPER-BAKED BEANS

1 cup cubed luncheon meat or ham
1 cup cubed zucchini
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1/8 teaspoon rosemary leaves, crushed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (16 ounces) pork and beans with tomato sauce
Grated Parmesan cheese
In saucepan, brown luncheon meat and cook zucchini with garlic and rosemary in butter until tender. Add beans. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve with cheese. Recipe makes about 3 cups.

CABBAGE ROLLS

1 medium head (about 3 lb.) cabbage
Boiling salted water
1 pound ground beef
3/4 cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk
1/2 cup enriched pre-cooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1/3 cup water

Remove core and outer leaves from cabbage; cook in boiling salted water about 8 minutes or until almost tender. Drain cabbage and separate leaves, reserving about 10 large leaves. (If inner leaves are difficult to separate, return to boiling water and cook 2 or 3 minutes longer.) Meanwhile, combine ground beef, milk, rice, onion, salt and 1/4 cup of the tomato sauce; mix well. Place 1/3 cup meat mixture in center of each cabbage leaf. Fold sides and ends of leaves over meat mixture. Roll tightly and secure with wooden picks, if necessary. Arrange rolls in single layer in a large skillet. Combine remaining tomato sauce and the water and pour over rolls. Cover and cook about 1 hour, basting twice during cooking. Remove cover during last 10 minutes, if sauce seems thin. Recipe makes about 10 rolls or 5 servings. Whole milk (1/4 cup) may be used instead of nonfat dry milk in recipe.

CABBAGE-APPLE SALAD

1 pkg. (3 oz.) lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
3/4 cup cold water
1/2 cup shredded cabbage
4 teaspoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup diced red apples
1/4 cup chopped walnuts

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water. Chill until thickened. Combine cabbage, vinegar, and salt; let stand about 20 minutes. Fold cabbage, apples and nuts into gelatin. Pour into a 3-cup mold or individual molds. Chill mayonnaise, if desired. Makes 3 cups or 6 servings.

Science slows aging process

SHORT HILLS, N.J. (MW) - Forget about finding the formula for a magic elixir and cancel all expeditions in search of the Fountain of Youth. We already know how to extend our productive years, reports science writer Ruth Winter to the Information Center on Mature Women.

The author of "Ageless Aging" says researchers are on the brink of discovering how to retard, and perhaps even prevent, the aging process; there is enough information available from their data now to at least slow it down. "For example, they've found having too high a blood pressure can really damage our intellect," she relates. "Maintaining normal blood pressure can be done easily through proper medical care." Diet and exercise also play an important role in keeping us young in mind and body.

"In Germany they found that overweight people got diseases 10 years earlier than they usually would have," Miss Winter volunteers, "and there's clear evidence that exercise improves circulation and muscle tone, and brings more oxygen to the brain."

Women have the jump on men in the aging game. "They're put together better than men, right from the beginning," asserts the writer. "Boy babies are miscarried more often than girls, and three times as many males die at birth or in the first year." Then there's the hormone factor, although the experts aren't sure whether it's the female hormone that protects, or the male hormone that's destructive.

But Miss Winter says studies show that replacing female hormones after menopause, "helps protect the bones, and although it's not a youth pill, it also helps keep tissues firm."

Calling replacement "the wave of the future," she explains "someday we'll be able to compute what we had at age 25, so that as we age and begin to lose that ingredient, whatever it is, we will be able to replace it just like estrogen today."

What impressed Miss Winter most of all the findings? It was "the mental thing," a study at Duke University's Gerontology Center which confirms the importance of keeping minds involved and active.

"This study tried to predict how long a person would live, considering physical condition, job, lifestyle and life insurance actuarial tables," she reports. "They predicted one elderly man would only live another eight years. But he so enjoyed what he was doing, he lived another 15. It was his interest in life and will go on."

Duke University is working with a new drug that improves failing memory; it may prove helpful in treating retarded children. And there are new breakthroughs every day. "Since my book came out, they've found out more about "T" cells and "B" cells, which are supposed to work together and protect you against disease. But when they go out of balance, you sort of self-destruct." The key to unlocking all secrets of aging, Miss Winter says, "rests with our simplest, most basic unit, the cell."

"Once scientists understand the components of a cell and what mechanism controls it - they'll understand what aging is." And, Ruth Winter adds, "they're a lot closer than we think."

Carpet bath for coordinated look

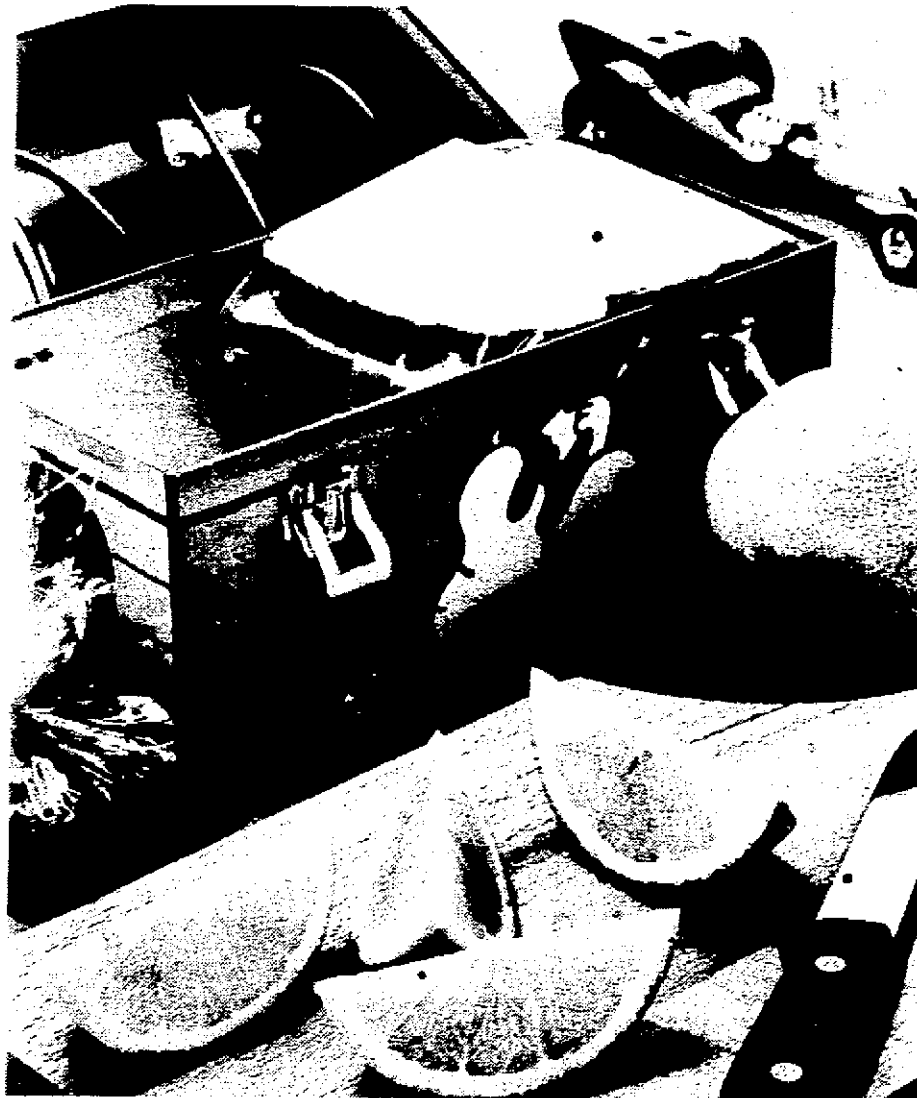

Today's woman wants a coordinated look in her home and that includes the bathroom. Women are decorating their bathrooms just as completely as the living room. More and more they are buying coordinated rugs, towels, shower curtains and related accessories, often in one purchase rather than an item at a time.

In order to serve this trend many stores are setting up complete bath departments, stocking a wide selection of bath rugs along with decorative accessories, baskets, utility ensemble.

Now, the wall-to-wall trend which is once again with us includes the bathroom. The customer can find this item in large department stores, of course, but an even larger selection is found in chain stores and from mail order catalogs.

Stylewise, we find bright fashion colorations in geometric designs, chosen by the young-at-heart and young marrieds who represent a large share of today's buying potential and basic solid color appearance not too different from what has been on the market for some time, chosen by the more mature or conservative customer.

Colors for the bathroom ensemble run toward olives, golds and pinks with blue and orange strong seconds. There is some indication that browns and other neutrals will be strong this year. Bright fashion colors combine purple and red, black and white, blue and green and orange and hot pink.

Orange smiles

There are many different ways to prepare oranges for the lunchbox, but a favorite with youngsters is called "smiles." This is an easy-to-eat variation on orange wedges. Instead of cutting lengthwise, slice orange in half crosswise. Then slice down through the center of each half into wedges. The "smiles" break apart easily into bite-size pieces. The sandwiches are filled with peanut butter, orange bits and juice mixed with honey.

Ann Landers

Calling may solve problem

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever you print a letter that puts a mother-in-law in a bad light, my daughter-in-law sends it to me. No comment—just the column. Otherwise, I never receive a line from her. She believes it's up to a son to write to his mother and his wife shouldn't "take him off the hook," as she puts it. My son hates to write so I rarely hear from them. I envy other grandmas who get pictures of the little ones and nice letters to cheer their lonely days. This boy is my only child and his children are very dear to me. What about it, Ann? Am I expecting too much?—Salinas, Kansas

Dear S.K.: If we took a poll I'll bet

we'd find that the great majority of letters written to grannies come from daughters-in-law, not sons. Since your son hates to write, he should pick up the phone—every other Sunday perhaps—and place a station-to-station call just to say hello. It would be the finest gift he could give you and it would cost very little.

Dear Ann Landers: I live next door to a teen-age girl who deserves to be complimented. I don't even know her name, but if you print my letter I am sure she will recognize herself.

All summer long and into fall and winter, this girl has had boyfriends come by to visit her. One particular fellow is especially attractive. She always entertains him on the steps. Sometimes they walk down the street a few hundred feet and sit on the wall near the bus stop. Why? Because her mother works and I presume she has been asked not to entertain boyfriends in the house unless a parent is present.

This girl always appears to be having such a good time, and so do her boyfriends. They laugh a lot and have animated conversations. She evidently loves and respects her parents and I'll bet the boys like her more because she has such good character.

I predict one day this young lady will marry well and be very happy. There will be no regrets to bug her, and no guilt.—Teen Watcher in Richmond

Dear Teen Watcher: What a refreshing letter! I've always believed that teen-agers need models more than they need critics. So there's a model for you, girls.

Dear Ann Landers: I finally know why people write to Ann Landers. For the first time in my life I have a problem I can't handle.

My husband, who makes $20,000 a year, was arrested for shoplifting $5 worth of junk. The shame I feel for him is driving me crazy. He says he doesn't know why he did it. He has never done anything dishonest in his entire life. I am completely bewildered. I am not a religious fanatic, but I now see him as a sinner—weak and foolish.

The children don't know what to make of it and I don't know what to tell them. The judge was lenient because this was his first offense and his reputation is excellent. But my confidence in him is shot. Help me put my life back together.—Denver

Dear Denver: Sounds as if the man had a sudden siege of mental illness, perhaps a small stroke. Please talk to a therapist or a counselor. It may be that he needs therapy—and you could use some also—to rid yourself of the hostility and anger.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers's booklet, "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654. (Copyright 1973)

Wohlers wed 50 years

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wohlers, 628 Higgins Ave., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a recent Open House at the Whiting Boathouse.

The Wohlers were married Dec. 5, 1923, at Manawa and have lived in Neenah most of their adult life.

They have five children: Hubert, Allan and Mrs. Arthur Schneidewend, all of Neenah; Mrs. Matthew Kuepper, Menasha, and Mrs. Arnold Cook, Ontario, Calif. They also have 17 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Before 1942, the Wohlers farmed at Iola. Mr. Wohler then worked at the Gilbert Paper Co., Menasha, until retirement in 1968.

No headache but no fun either

There is nothing more depressing than to wake up New Year's Day without a headache and with nothing to regret from the night before.

No gold wedgies scattered on the stairway, no party hats on the back of the commode, no taste in your mouth like a wet chenille tongue.

Only the memory of an evening spent in front of the television set with Father Time dozing over a warm Gatorade and you watching Ben Grauer get choked up over a little silver ball.

Ever since we arrived home last New Year's morning to find our baby sitter bombed out of her mind, my husband said, "This proves it. It must be more fun to stay at home. Why should we spend an outrageous amount of money to frantically tear from one party to another, drink too much, eat too much, and feel rotten the next day?"

Before I could answer him, he said, "It is settled. Next year we stay at home. No annoying clinking glasses, shrill voices and deafening music. We are going to enjoy a stimulating evening by ourselves."

I have had more stimulating evenings selecting Tupperware. From 7 to 8:30, I picked bubble gum out of the dog's whiskers. At 8, my husband said, "I wonder what Euell Gibbons got for Christmas?"

"Maybe a compost," I answered. At 10:30, I saw my husband sleeping in the chair and shouted at him, "Say it! I'm not getting better, I'm getting older!"

At 10:45 I went to the refrigerator for a drink. The kids had drunk all the mix and the neighbors had cleaned us out of all the ice cubes. I poured two glasses of warm Gatorade, returned to the living room and kicked my husband in the foot.

He awakened, "Did you know that at midnight all horses age one year?" "Now I've got one for you," I said. "Did you know that if tomorrow were 'Show and Tell' I wouldn't show up?" At 11:45 my husband's snooze alarm went off. He clicked his fingers while Carmen Lombardo sang, "Boo Hoo," flipped the porch light on and off twice and shouted, "Happy New Year." As he headed for bed he said, "This was fun. We must do this again sometime." "Right," I yawned. "The next time the Pope has a Sunday off." (Copyright 1973)

The ailing house

Don't paint the radiator

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Is it permissible to paint radiators while the heat is on? A friend told me that heat will cause discoloration of the paint. Is this true? I was thinking of using aluminum paint, since it has metal particles in it. —Peoria.

A: Unless you're an Eskimo, postpone your radiator painting until next May or so. Your friend is exactly right; unless the radiators are stone cold from start until final coat is thoroughly dry, paint will discolor. And don't use any type of metallic paint. It will cut down on the heating efficiency by 10 per cent at least. Use regular flat paint or enamel.

Q: Our 18-year-old ceramic tiles are now very dull and spotted, especially around water closet area. What will restore shine and remove spots? —Sheboygan.

A: Try Crew Bathroom Cleaner. It certainly does work for me, and without a lot of elbow grease. You can try white automotive compound, but you'll do a lot more rubbing. If the spots are in the tiles themselves, even fullstrength bleach may not remove them. If on the surface, first scrape with a dull blade, then use any cleaning fluid. Do this before shining up the tiles.

Q: I am redoing a terrarium. After removing all plants and dirt, I just can't get the glass clean. I've tried vinegar, kitchen cleanser, Ajax, ammonia, steel wool, finger nail polish remover, Fantastik, even baking soda. No luck. The glass seems clean until it dries, and the spots are still there. Any ideas? —Milwaukee.

A: Try crumpled newspaper dampened with kerosene. Kill kerosene odor with vinegar. Have any friends with some other workable ideas? They'll be most welcome.

Q: I would like to put a Franklin Stove Right in our existing fireplace. Catalog says to install no closer than four inches from a non-combustible wall and on a noncombustible surface which extends 20 inches in front, which ours does not. My husband doesn't think installing in the fireplace will be safe. What do you think? —Milwaukee.

A: I agree with your husband. Too much fire risk.

Q: I am planning a marine decor for our basement rec room. I would like to fasten some large navigation charts on the walls so they won't wrinkle later on. How do I go about this? —Norfolk.

A: As you glue, use pure, fresh shellac. Flatten all bumps with a print roller, working from inside toward edges. Put another coat of shellac on the surface. Those charts will stay put neatly. (Copyright, 1973)

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

Children may resent new baby

That new baby is a delight to you, but your other children may not feel the same way. Younger children, in particular, may be jealous because the baby gets so much of your attention. The fact that the baby needs more attention just doesn't register. In most cases the older child will compete, clamor for attention, and misbehave to attract notice.

It's common among toddlers to revert to earlier habits. They may openly or secretly want to go back on the bottle. Let them. Don't make a thing of it. Some children may even be hostile to the new baby, break his toys "accidentally," or even do him some damage under the guise of clumsiness. Your older child may become very possessive about his toys. Set him up with his own things in a special corner. Let him play with baby's things. Most of these problems can be prevented, guarded against, or diverted if you are aware of and sympathetic to your older child's feelings.

Bring home a new doll or other toy for other your older child when you and baby come from the hospital. Include your older child in planning for new baby brother or sister. When you feed or play with your baby, pay special attention to your older child. Let him help you as much as possible. Praise him, especially for anything he does well. Persuade Dad to pay the older child extra attention, to take him on special treats or outings while the new baby is born and during first months at home. Your older child is then assured that the advent of a brother or sister takes nothing away. And pretty soon your older child will accept baby brother or sister as part of the family, without feeling in competition.

Don't neglect to tuck your older child in bed at night and to show lots of affection. Don't shoo him off to bed by himself "because you're a big boy or girl, and not a baby like your brother or sister." There is nothing that will make your older child resent the latest addition to the family as being made to feel no longer entitled to love and snuggling, merely because there's a new baby in the house.

To have fun with your first baby, parents can now get some expert reading help from the booklet, "Your New Baby." Send 25 cents and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope to Arnold Arnold, c/o this newspaper.

Happy hostess plans ahead

Now is the time for all good hostesses to come to the aid of their party. Or, more properly, parties, because this is the season to be entertained and to entertain. It's the season for breakfasts and buffets and brunches, post-game cocoa and apres-ski quiche — all of which take planning.

To be a happy hostess when space is limited and time short, plan ahead and purchase ahead. Elroy Edson, A.I.D., vice president of interior design for Selig Mfg. Co., which makes contemporary upholstered furniture, suggests the foyer, living room and even the bedroom can be used during the holiday season.

"With space at a premium in today's houses and apartments, there isn't any reason to restrict party plans to the dining area or the recreation room. A chromium and glass hostess cart, for example, complete with punchbowl and cups or even a hot-tray and mugs," suggests Edson, "can be wheeled right into any room for post-game celebration or recreation."

Piles of inexpensive pillows which can be tossed when not in use into a carton that's been covered with gift-wrap or fabric can serve as floor-seaters for the young in age and young in spirit while the carton itself is pretty enough to deck the halls.

The mobile hostess cart is ideal for serving the first course of a meal, giving a harried hostess time to put the last touches on her casserole or table. A hearty soup can be consumed in the den or bedroom with the dirty dishes left there until the last guest has caroled "farewell."

And what about purchasing ahead. Edson suggests that furniture shoppers choose double-duty tables that can be useful all year long. A nest of tables, for example, instead of a lamp table, gives a homemaker the freedom to move her guests about from chair to chair and room to room. A long, narrow console table might fit into a foyer, while a square dining table might serve as a desk in a living or bedroom. The see-through look, slender in scale, often multiplies, rather than divides areas, letting the color and pattern of carpeting and wallpaper shine through.

For seating he suggests the holiday hostess add a little glitter with see-through folding chairs or stacking chrome and cane chairs. They're pretty enough to present to company for the holidays and durable enough for family use all year long.

Single mindedness not bridge table virtue

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It is sometimes wonderful to be single-minded, but this is no great virtue at the bridge table. It is far better to have a second idea in reserve, in case your first plan fails to work out.

Opening lead — ♠ 7

West opened the seven of spades, and South considered his resources. He could easily win six trump tricks and the three top cards in the side suits. He needed one more trick.

All would be well if he could ruff a diamond in the dummy.

The trouble with trying for a diamond ruff was that the opponents would lead trumps at every opportunity. By the time South had cleared the two small diamonds out of the dummy, the opponents would have cleared the trumps out of dummy also.

The best line of play is to try for a club trick and for a diamond ruff at the same time. It is very easy to combine both attempts.

You win the first trick in the South hand, cash the ace of clubs and lead a small diamond. West wins and returns a trump to dummy's ten.

You cash the king of clubs, discarding a heart, and ruff a low club. Then you lead another diamond. Once more West must win and return a trump, for otherwise you will be able to ruff a diamond eventually.

You win the trump trick with dummy's king and ruff another club, thus setting up dummy's last card in that suit. Then you can get back to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the last club. Contract fulfilled.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner deals and bids one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-K 10 3 H-A 9 2 D-7 5 C-8 7 4 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. The hand is worth only one response, and your choice should be a raise in partner's major suit.

Cakes for company

You can afford to entertain with this big Banana-Spice Marble Cake that serves 16 persons or the Banana Chocolate Upside-Down Cake complete in itself without added topping.

You can still bake a cake for company

Do friends come at too high cost today? A consumer complained that he could hardly feed his own family at present prices, much less buy food for entertaining people.

If he had had the recipe for homemade Banana-Spice Marble Cake, he could have kept his friends without emptying his wallet. This is a fabulous, big cake that serves 16 persons. That takes care of quite a lot of friends, and very handsomely, for the cake is festive in looks, luxurious in taste. Fresh banana not only flavors the cake deliciously but helps to give it a delicately moist texture. Then try the second recipe, an upside-down cake.

BANANA-SPICE MARBLE CAKE

SPICE BATTER

1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
4 egg yolks
1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
2 cups sifted cake flour
1-1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
3/4 cup sour milk

In large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar. Beat in egg yolks, then molasses. Sift together cake flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg. Blend in alternately with sour milk. Set aside.

BANANA BATTER

1/2 EGG WHITES
1/2 cup soft butter margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-1/2 cups mashed ripe bananas
2-1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt

In small bowl, beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. In another bowl but with the same beaters, cream butter and sugar. Beat in vanilla and bananas.

Sift together flour, baking soda, baking powder and salt; blend into batter. Fold in beaten egg whites. Alternate spoonfuls of spice and banana batters in greased 10-inch tube pan. Gently cut through batters with knife to marble; do not mix. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour and 20 to 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Cool 5 minutes, then turn out of pan and cool completely. To serve, sift confectioners' sugar over top of cake.

BANANA CHOCOLATE UPSIDE-DOWN-CAKE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/3 cup packed light brown sugar
1/3 cup flaked coconut
2 bananas

1-1/2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
1 tablespoon water
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup mashed ripe banana
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda

To prepare topping: melt butter in 8x8x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkle brown sugar and coconut over butter. Peel bananas and cut into thick diagonal slices; arrange over butter mixture. Set aside.

To prepare cake: in small saucepan, melt chocolate with water over low heat; set aside. In mixing bowl cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg, then banana, vanilla and melted chocolate.

Mix together flour, salt and baking soda; gradually blend into batter.

Spread over banana topping in prepared pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 45 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Remove from oven and let stand 5 minutes. Turn out

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE[®]

Consumers can at least start the year laughing

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE
WASHINGTON — If 1974 turns out to be anything like 1973, consumers will need all the assurances possible as to what is going to happen so they can plan ahead.
With this need in mind, the following predictions are offered with the hope that all readers will be able to derive at least some benefit, even if just a chuckle, from the knowledge thus attained.
Based on previous performance, there is a 40 per cent chance that at least one of the predictions will come true on schedule and a 10 per cent chance that they will bring dense fog on the East Coast.
SOMETIME IN JANUARY — President Nixon announces the start of Phase V (or V 1/2 if you count last summer's price freeze), explaining that the success of the Administration's half-phased price control program proves the value of following one phase with another. The only difference is that Phase V 1/2 ends all controls on prices but not on wages.

FEB. 2 — The proverbial groundhog, one of a lucky few U.S. residents unfazed by the energy crisis, suffers a coronary occlusion when he sees his shadow one hour longer because of Daylight Saving Time.
IDES OF MARCH — The price of gasoline threatens to top $1 per gallon for the first time in history, rendering all gasoline pumps inoperative. The government immediately imposes a 99.9 cent ceiling.
APRIL 1 — The long-sought congressional bill to set up an over-all consumer agency in government is vetoed by President Ford. He says American consumers already are spoiled with special privileges.
MAY 1 — The government declares that drinking water in 40 states has dropped below acceptable standards of purity. Breweries and soft drink makers triple production to supply the thirsty residents.
JUNE 1 — The Administration announces that summer will begin ten days earlier than usual this year because of the clearer atmosphere and warmer weather brought on by the reduced use of petroleum products.

JULY 4 — For the first time in U.S. history, the holiday air was not pierced by the sound of any firecrackers or fireworks displays. They were banned, along with picnic sandwiches, because of safety hazards.
AUG. 31 — The Administration announces that it is still studying the possibility of imposing gasoline rationing. The study is in its ninth month.
SEPT. 2 — The government's Cost of Living Index is discontinued because of budget cuts.
OCT. 16 — In order to conserve fuel, three traditional holidays — Columbus Day, Veterans Day and Thanksgiving — are combined so they fall together on this date. The Wednesday date is intended to discourage travel.
NOV. 5 — General Motors, fighting to recover lost sales announces that it is converting its Cadillac assembly plant to making bicycles. GM plans to market a giant tricycle with 20 speeds for adults who want something safer than the popular 15-speed two-wheeler.
DEC. 25 — The Food and Drug Administration announces that its gift to the American people this year is finalization of rules requiring all food manufacturers to list percentages of ingredients and nutritional factors in readable type on package labels. The new labels are patterned after those used for many years on dog food products.

Man, 82, loses sight 2nd time after beating

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two robbers beat Albert Miller, 82, so severely Sunday he will lose an eye, his wife told police.
Mrs. Miller said her husband underwent cornea transplants four years ago and last year which "let him see well enough to get around, and he was so proud of his eyes."

She said the two robbers invaded their apartment at gunpoint and beat her husband with a pistol to make him hand over rent money collected from other tenants. She quoted one of the men as saying, "Make sure he can't see."

The Millers were tied in chairs and Miller was beaten into unconsciousness. They were gagged and blindfolded. The robbers found $200 in the apartment and fled.
Four years ago several men tried to rob Miller in his home but he held them with a shotgun until police arrived.

Utility hikes will hit us two ways

One thing is certain in 1974: all your utility bills are going up sharply. Another thing also is certain in this new, grim year: on your own, you can hold down those bills and even reduce them if you learn and obey the basic money-saving rules.

You and I, America's consumers, are the biggest losers in the newest round of utility rate increases to be granted in coming months to suppliers of electricity and gas.

That's because we really get hit twice. First, we must absorb the rate hikes as primary consumers of electricity and gas. Then, we must absorb them again by paying the cost of increased rates imposed on those from whom we buy goods and services.

Market boost goes to consumer
In the understandable words of Theodore E. Maynard, president of National Utility Service, an international utility rate consulting organization which serves most of the 500 top corporations in the U.S. and many smaller ones as well: "A boost in the electric bill of a supermarket or department store cannot be absorbed without having these costs passed on to the public." The upsurge in 1974 is not a new trend; it's an acceleration of an old one. For instance, according to a NUS survey, rate increases in the electric utility industry alone in 1970 totaled $430.5 million; in 1971, $802.6 million; as of year-end 1972, an estimated $1.3 billion rate increase applications were pending before various state regulatory agencies; year-end 1973 figures aren't yet in, but they're way, way up again.

There's no point whatsoever in getting into the arguments on both sides now. Our case as consumers is self-evident. The utility managements, however, present convincing evidence of soaring costs of fuel and generating equipment, of costs of pollution controls, of the need to keep pace with rising demands for power and the current drive for expansion.

What is a central point is that our bills are heading up, up and up. What moves can we make, outside of the obvious? Learn how to read your meter.

Always check meter readings with the meter reader and check them against the bill you receive.

Prevent estimated billings
Whenever possible, prevent estimated billings by arranging to be present when the meter reader calls. You can arrange appointments with your utility supplier. "Estimated billings can lead to temporary overpayment until an actual reading is obtained," says Maynard. "Make sure meter readings occur every 30 or 60 days. If you don't, you will eventually get a big bill that will be hard to verify." Utilities have a right to back-bill you with no time limitations on back billings. If you don't get a bill for six months or a year or more, you are not getting free electricity. The company eventually will catch up with you and demand payment.

If your home is electrically heated, be sure you are charged under the proper promotional rate. In winter in most areas of the U.S. (November to May), your usage will be higher but your average costs per kilowatt hour should be lower! Maynard cautions. Check whether you are doing all possible to get the benefit of cheaper rates.

Be sure your entire house and hot water tanks are correctly insulated for maximum reduction of the costs of your consumption of energy.

Limit your use of radiant electric fires and fan heaters whenever possible. These, together with water heaters, are the most expensive items to run on electricity in your home.

Efficiency will save money
Make the most efficient use of your electrical appliances. Do not keep opening and shutting refrigerator/freezer doors; turn off lights and appliances when not needed; when cooking in the oven, cook as much as possible at the same time; turn off any unnecessary lights and heating appliances.

When buying new appliances, select models which draw the least current for the identical job. "It pays to select this model even with a higher purchase price," says Maynard.

If you have any doubts concerning your electricity bills, first request your local utility to check. If you still are not satisfied, ask your utility to test the meter and make sure it is accurate. If you still wish to pursue it further, you have the right to refer the matter to the local Public Service Commission. While the commission is investigating your complaint, your service will not be shut off.

Actor Dick Van Dyke becomes grandfather

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The first child born in 1974 at Memorial Hospital here has as her grandfather a television star — actor Dick Van Dyke.

Named Jessica Lee by her parents, Christian and Caroline Van Dyke, the child was born at 1:09 a.m. Tuesday.

"I called my father and he was so excited he could hardly speak," Christian said. "It was my parent's first grandchild and my wife's parents' first. She's just a beautiful baby."

Christian is a law student at Arizona State University. Caroline's parents are Mary and William North of Shaker Heights, Ohio.

State gives workshops to explain new law on homestead credit

Homestead Credit Relief workshops have been scheduled for 1:30 and 7 p.m. Thursday at Meeting Room 2 of the Outagamie County Courthouse Annex.

The workshops, sponsored by the state Department of Revenue, are each expected to last 3 hours and are part of a series throughout the state.

The free programs are designed to let people know about changes in the last budget that have expanded the Wisconsin Home Credit Program. Last year, over 800,000 elderly residents received tax benefits of over $9 million.

Under new legislation, the age for qualification has been lowered from 62 to 58 and the income limitation has increased from $5,000 to $7,000.

The program is designed to soften the impact of property taxes and rent on those least able to pay.

Nixon in California

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon joined millions of others New Year's Day as he relaxed in front of the television set, watching football bowl games.

There was an indication Nixon's working vacation here would last the rest of the week as aides said his friend and Florida neighbor, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, was flying to California by commercial jet.

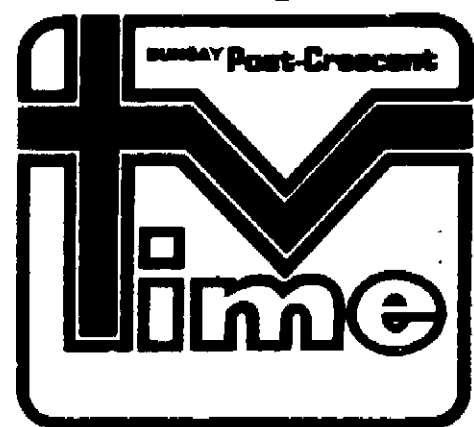

Milwaukee restaurant sued for violations

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin attorney general's office has filed suit against a Milwaukee restaurant, charging violations of employment laws applying to minors and women.

The complaint said some minor and some female employees of the Black Steer Restaurant worked in excess of eight hours per day from 1969 to 1971.

The state told Circuit Court it seeks $3,657 for the alleged civil violations. A spokesman for the restaurant said he believed the matter had been settled nearly a year ago.

Pouring coffee not quite enough

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hope Lange has just finished a TV movie in which she plays a housewife who leaves her husband and children.
It's the second time she's gone through that role. She also walked out as housewife and mother on "The New Dick Van Dyke Show."
It was her remark on leaving the CBS series, "All I ever do on 'The Dick Van Dyke Show' is pour coffee," inspired Deanne Barkley to cast her in the movie role. Miss Barkley is the vice president in charge of the ABC Movie of the Week.
The movie, "I Love You, Goodbye," will air on ABC, probably in February. "She just gets fed up," Miss Lange said, referring to the movie housewife. "She's a woman who got married very early and got so involved in playing wife and mother that she never had time to find out who she was or what she wanted."
"I think a lot of women who may not actually walk out do consider it at one time. To shake things up and say I have needs, too. I can understand that from the standpoint of being a woman."
Miss Lange served notice several months ago that she would not agree to a fourth season with the Van Dyke series.

Besides the limitation of her role to a sympathetic housewife, she said she is miffed over CBS' refusal to air a segment of the series.
The segment in question has the couple's daughter enter her parents' bedroom and find them making love. Carl Reiner, the producer, defended the segment as being tastefully handled and said he would not produce the show again unless the show is aired. CBS has said it would not show it because it is not in the "image" of Dick Van Dyke.
"They won't even air the best show we did all season," Miss Lange said. "To hell with it. That's not the reason I'm leaving, but it irks me very much."
She said, "I'm not obligated to them. I only signed for three seasons. But if they won't let us grow up why do the same things over again?"
"If a happily married couple can't make love — they have three children. Was that by immaculate conception? Is it distasteful that a couple is still in love after 18 years? Some of the commercials are more provocative."

House missing

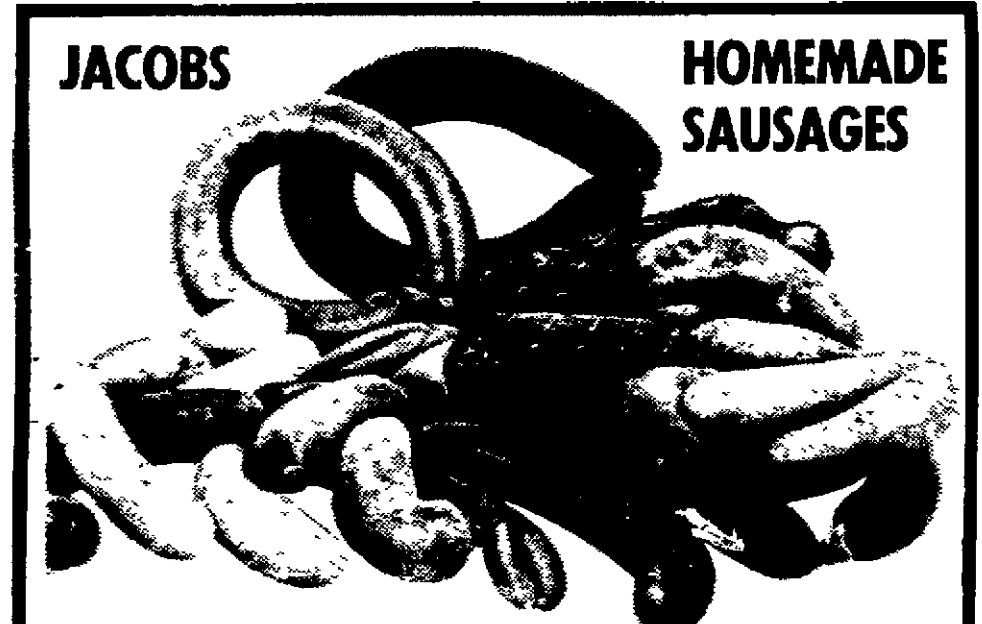

SPRINGVILLE, Calif. (AP) — James Hughes reported the vacation house he was building was missing. Authorities found the remains of it in the town dump.
"We found what's left of it, which isn't much," sheriff's deputy Frank Wittich said Tuesday. "Just a few old pipes and ends of boards. All the fixtures are gone and what with the fuel shortage, most of the good timber went pretty fast."
Hughes, who lives in Lancaster, near Los Angeles, drove to this community of 1,000 persons in the Sierra Nevada foothills to work on the home. He found it missing, along with numerous pipes and beams he had stockpiled nearby.
"There was nothing left but a couple of pegs on the ground," Wittich said. He said the three rooms and carport which Hughes had built so far were worth about $5,000.
Wittich said neighbors reported having seen workmen methodically dis-

Pregnancy at middle age

7:30 — 9 — Channels 9-11 — "Wednesday Movie of the Week" repeats "A Brand New Life," a fine look at a successful middle-aged woman and her pregnancy. Cloris Leachman is marvelous in this role and Martin Balsam matches her as her loving husband. Marge Redmond contributes a fine portrait, too, and Mildred Dunnock is memorable as Cloris' mother. (R)

7-7:30 — Channel 5 — "Adam-12" puts Martin Milner and Kent McCord on horseback as they track thieves. There is also a man with a sad story and sniper to contend with in an okay episode. (R)

7:30 — 9 — Channel 5 — "Wednesday Mystery Movie: Tenafly" has a good case, with our true-to-life hero (James McEachin) first hired to watch coats at a party. While there he finds a parking lot attendant (Sal Mineo) attempting to duplicate keys. The case also involves a successful doctor (Joe Campanella), a robbery victim and an agent (Bob Crane).

8-9 — Channels 2-7 — "Cannon" has an intriguing case with William Conrad hired by a general (Jack Cassidy) to find details of the death of his brother, dead several years. When Cannon learns who killed the man, he and viewers have a surprise and the real point of the plot emerges.

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — The final segment of "Love Story" has a story by actor Michael Anderson Jr. and it's another modern love story — meaning two kids living together, not wanting to make a commitment — but she gets pregnant. Kay Lenz and Barry Davison are the lovers and Dean Jagger is his grandfather.

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law" is involved in paying the ransom for a kidnapping as this tale starts, but it turns out to be much more involved and he winds up defending the young man erroneously accused of the kidnapping.

9-10 — Channels 2-7 — "Kojak" (Telly Savalas) is personally involved in tonight's case. A punk of an extortionist he once sent up is out, wanting to kill him. But his method involves thinly veiled threats against Kojak and his relatives and they are very much in evidence since his niece is about to get married.

Films big role in therapy

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Watching eight hardcore pornographic films at once is part of the therapy in a sex counseling program at the University of California Medical Center.

"People say 'Do you show films?' and I have to say 'Yes.' But it's a process, it's not just showing a film," says Dr. Herbert E. Vandervoort, head of the school's Human Sexuality Program.

Both commercial and documentary sex films are tools in the school's sexuality attitude restructuring course. The course is for couples in counseling and for training health professionals.

"The course is to make people less uncomfortable in the general area of sexuality," said the Vandervoort.

The weekend program opens with a four-hour Friday night session that includes eight sex films at once to "desensitize," he said.

"But commercial films aren't very accurate in terms of what people really do," Vandervoort said. Nine hours of a Saturday session therefore include a number of medical documentary films on sex.

He said that studies indicate the program is about 96 per cent successful in helping people overcome sexual difficulties.

The program staff has just completed what he calls "our first explicit sex film," an instructional documentary for women with sexual problems. It is the product of the year-and-a-half old program's stated goal of making sex counseling less expensive, less dependent on professionals and more oriented to the individual.

"We're emphasizing more and more a self-help approach to solving sex problems," Vandervoort said. "A couple in counseling can go home and do homework."

The counseling continues once a week for up to 12 weeks.

"If we haven't helped them in 12 weeks, they need another kind of therapy. That's long enough to reach their goals or to realize they really didn't want to reach them," Vandervoort said.

The counseling is not just for married couples, individuals also are accepted, mostly in groups. Group therapy is a new trend for the sexuality program.

Groups are used increasingly at UC because of the number of demands for help. The staff has doubled in six months and more than 500 people have received counseling. But there is a waiting list of about 75 people.

The program, which grew out of a course for medical students in 1967, also deals with the barriers to successful sexual activity which confront some handicapped persons.

Government sees more bankruptcies

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — American businesses and households are in a less than satisfactory financial position as the economic downturn begins.

Statistics show that liabilities are high in relation to assets in both sectors, thus weakening their ability to withstand the stresses of lost sales and wages.

While it is too early to predict the consequences of this illiquidity, government officials, businessmen and others will be watching closely for any indication of rising bankruptcies.

Some businessmen already are complaining about slow payments of bills, and attribute it to the reluctance of customers to finance inventories with high cost loans. Instead, they borrow from their suppliers.

Lionel Edie & Co., the economic research and consulting arm of Merrill Lynch, the brokerage house, comments that the situation "shows an alarming resemblance to the 1969-1970 period."

It was during that time that many companies found it increasingly difficult to finance their operations, none more so than the Penn Central, which was forced into reorganization.

Edie notes that corporations have sharply increased their short-term borrowings and that now their cash assets are only 18.6 per cent of current liabilities, compared with a ratio near 40 per cent in the early 1960s.

Another measure, the ratio of cash and securities to current liabilities, shows corporations in almost the same position as they were in the dangerously illiquid 1969-1970 period.

"The deterioration in these measures of corporate liquidity is once again a cause for concern to the financial community," it said, adding that conditions are no better in the household sector of the economy.

One sign of household strain is the high percentage of installment credit extended in relation to disposable personal income. This figure has risen sharply.

Economists who use this measure first compute the amount of new installment debts being assumed by consumers and subtract from it the amount of credit being repaid. Then they match that figure against income.

Historically, the percentage of debt to disposable income is below 1.5 per cent. In the 1960s, Edie notes, the percentage exceeded 1.5 only in 1965, when it reached 1.82 per cent.

Lately the ratio has jumped sharply higher again. In 1972, Edie told its corporate clients this week, it was over 2 per cent and indicated that this year's ratio might turn out to be about 2.25 per cent.

While terming the increase alarming, Edie noted in its report that the situation for households is even worse when non-installment credit and mortgage payments are added in.

New mortgage debt for the household sector has been rising at an annual rate of $40 billion during the past two years, compared to only $24 billion in 1971. In addition, real estate taxes have risen considerably.

Nevertheless, Edie remains confident that "while current liquidity appears to be dangerously low, the likelihood of a more severe recession because of illiquidity is small."

It lists as reasons for optimism its belief that the Federal Reserve will permit more money to flow into the economy, the sophistication of corporate treasurers and the common sense of consumers in declining to take on additional debt.

New Year's Eve finds blind couple on welfare without heating fuel

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. James Payne are blind, and on welfare. On New Year's Eve, with outside temperatures near zero, they were also out of heating oil.

"I called my regular oil company on Saturday and they wanted $1 a gallon to deliver it on overtime," Payne said. He said he told them not to make a delivery because he had already spent $80 on oil since mid-September.

Then on Monday, when the temperature inside the house began to drop, Payne discovered his storage tank had run completely dry.

He began telephoning fuel oil companies, but "all refused to deliver on New Year's Eve," he said. Police and the welfare department were asked to help, but were unable to locate a source.

Finally, a major oil company agreed to deliver 25 gallons of oil for a $15 service fee.

Newspeople at the Milwaukee Sentinel, who had joined in the oil search, contributed the $15 so the two-day supply of oil could be delivered.

New York City gets 1st Jewish mayor

NEW YORK (AP) — With a promise to "give the people a real voice in their own destiny," Abraham D. Beame became this city's 104th mayor.

The 67-year-old Brooklyn Democrat, the city's first Jewish mayor, succeeds John V. Lindsay. Beame took his oath privately Monday night and publicly Tuesday in front of City Hall as some 1,500 persons looked on in cold, drizzly weather. "We intend to be open in our dealings; we intend to honor our promises and give the people a real voice in their own destiny," Beame pledged in his inaugural address.

Lindsay, 52, described his emotions on leaving office as mixed.

"It's been a long eight years," he said. He did not seek re-election and has not announced future plans.

Lennon doesn't say no to a Beatles reunion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Lennon, long opposed to a reunion of the Beatles, says it now is possible he could join with Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr for one album.

"Well, it's possible," said the 33-year-old Lennon in an interview published Sunday by The Los Angeles Times.

"If you had asked me last year, I would have said, 'No. No way. I'm not going back one step.' ... But I just think anything is possible now."

The Beatles, the biggest rock music group of the 1960s, broke up in 1970.

Industrialist optimistic about energy problems

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Multimillionaire industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton, who turns 80 today, says he thinks the world's energy problems will be solved.

"We will harness the sun and the power of the tides," Eaton predicted. "We will find out how to use the forces of nature. With man's ingenuity, we're not going to let the world stand still because of a lack of energy."

At a reception given by Mayor Ralph J. Perk at City Hall on Wednesday, Eaton received several congratulatory telegrams, including a wire from Soviet leaders Leonid I. Brezhnev, Alexei N. Kosygin and Nikolai V. Podgorny. They conveyed the "best wishes and warmest regards" of the Soviet people.

French police arrest pro-Palestinian group

PARIS (AP) — Police today announced the arrest of 10 Turks and three Palestinians and said they seized a quantity of explosives, arms and books hollowed out for use as letter bombs.

The police said the arrests were made Dec. 20 after an automobile loaded with the arms was stopped at the Italian frontier.

The announcement continued: A Palestinian driving the car and two others with him were taken into custody. The men had collected the arms from a villa in the Paris region, and at the villa police arrested 10 Turkish citizens who said they were members of the Turkish Popular Liberation Front.

Pollution law of little danger to dairymen

Natural Resources Department's secretary, L. P. Voigt, said only about 100 of the 108,000 farms in the Dairy State would have to obtain permits.

The EPA insists its rules would apply only to feedlots having at least 1,000 head of cattle. Some farm lobbyists contend the rules could affect even the smallest livestock farm.

The USDA report estimates 40 per cent of the nation's dairy farms would have to install pollution controls, predicting it would increase a typical farmer's cost of milk production by 54 cents per hundredweight.

Even without controls, the report said, the United States will have 306,000 dairy farms remaining out of 650,000 in 1969 and 1.8 million in 1989.

Police & fire beat

Slight smoke and fire damage resulted from a small fire at the Daniel N. Depner residence, 526 N. Meade St., about 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Firemen said an electric can opener left on top of a stove burner caught fire when the burner was turned on. The fire was out when they arrived.

KAUKAUNA — Daniel G. Deering, 19, route 2, Kaukauna, received a head bump when his car struck road and railroad crossing signs while going through two ditches after his car left the northbound lane of Outagamie County Trunk J near the intersection with County Trunk OO about 3:15 a.m. Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin says relatively few of its dairy farmers would have to obtain permits under antipollution rules which the Agriculture Department says could drive many farms out of business.

The USDA has predicted the dairy industry will have to spend $312 million to comply with the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed pollution guidelines.
In a report to the House Government

Operations Committee, the department said Tuesday the EPA requirements would increase the rate at which farms are being abandoned.

"Pollution controls place an additional economic burden on dairy producers," sometimes "as much as $200 per cow," the report said.

The EPA rules are designed to keep farmyard pollution from flowing into rivers.

Dechant

skeptical of farm policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite predictions by the Agriculture Department that farmers will boost production next year and still get favorable prices, the National Farmers Union is skeptical.

"The farmers of the United States are simply scared to death that the Nixon-Buz agricultural policies are heading straight into a flammethrust in farm prices," union President Tony Dechant said Thursday.

"That's what's holding farmers back," Dechant said. "Farming resources are already stretched about as thin as they can go."

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced earlier this year that there will be no federal acreage restraints in 1974 and urged all-out production.

U.S. guards against cattle tick fever

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although cattle tick fever currently does not exist in the United States, the introduction of the disease from Mexico remains a possibility unless animals imported from there are attended closely, the Agriculture Department says.

Consequently, the department has proposed a regulation aimed at tightening controls on cattle coming from areas in Mexico known to have the fever. The new rule, open for public comment, would bar exposed Mexican cattle from areas in Texas that are now under federal quarantine for ticks that carry the disease.

Officials said Mexican cattle can carry the disease but not show symptoms. There is a chance the disease could be transmitted to the ticks which then could spread fever to other animals.

What are air traveler's rights?

With the airlines sharply cutting back on schedules to conserve fuel, it is only natural that air passengers are concerned with getting "bumped" from an over-booked flight.

The Air Transport Association assures travelers that even the elimination of hundreds of flights will still leave a widespread national system of scheduled air service operating.

But even with the airlines' assurance that they can accommodate air travel commands, any airline passenger still can run into long preflight delays, suffer damaged or even lost luggage.

The American Automobile Association says that such an incident does not have to ruin your vacation. Travelers should know that they are protected by a set of rules and regulations set and enforced by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

If you get "bumped" or refused seating on a plane, even while holding confirmed reservations, the airline is obliged to try to book you on the next available flight of any airline to the same destination. According to AAA, The CAB rules allow overbooking with no penalty to the airlines, so long as a passenger's schedule is not delayed more than two hours on domestic flights, or four hours on overseas flights. Otherwise, you are entitled to a full refund on the ticket price (up to $200) and free passage on the next available flight.

The airlines call it Denied Boarding Compensation, but in order to receive it you must obtain a written statement from the airline personnel immediately after being denied boarding. You are entitled to your refund within 24 hours, or you can file a complaint with the CAB which will corroborate your claim through airline records.

Of course, as the CAB points out, the best way to avoid getting "bumped" is to arrive at the airport early, allowing plenty of time for heavy traffic and anti-hijack screening.

Norman Phillion, senior vice-president of traffic of ATA, urges air travelers to make reservations as early as possible and to allow for a more flexible time departure.

"With this planning, fuel resources will be conserved and maximum numbers of people will get where they want to go," Phillion said.

Perhaps even more vexing than being delayed is getting to your destination only to learn that your luggage is missing. Though the airlines reports that only a small percentage of the luggage is mislaid, that's no consolation for the traveler arriving in a strange city with nothing but the clothes on his back.

AAA advises that lost baggage be reported immediately and that your should make certain that airline personnel fill out the loss or damage form for your baggage. If your luggage is not found within three days, your claim will be evaluated and compensation made. Hang on to your claim check as it is the only proof that you actually had luggage. If your luggage is damaged, you should also notify airline personnel immediately. The damaged item will be repaired, replaced, or you will be compensated in cash.

However, the most common problem that passengers encounter is delay caused by bad weather or mechanical difficulties.

To learn more about your rights as an airline passenger, write to CAB, Office of Consumer Affairs, 1825 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20428 for a free booklet, "Air Travelers' Fly Rights."

QB switch saves Nebraska

DALLAS (AP) — Nebraska, humiliated in its Big Eight Conference showdown with Oklahoma, was the champion of the "Pride Bowl" today and the Cornhuskers can thank forgotten senior quarterback Steve Runty.

Nebraska, runners up in the Big Eight to the Sooners, ripped Texas 19-3 New Year's Day in the 38th Cotton Bowl classic.

The game featured a sudden decision by new Cornhusker Coach Tom Osborne to change quarterbacks at the start of the second half.

The eighth-ranked Longhorns, kings of the Southwest Conference, apparently had the second half momentum following a brilliant goal line stand in which linebacker Wade Johnston made four straight tackles at the Texas one-yard line.

The 12th-ranked Huskers beat off a Longhorn offensive flurry following the second half kickoff as Bob Thornton intercepted a Marty Akins' pass in the Nebraska end zone.

Then Runty, who came off the bench to replace junior David Humm, took charge. He led Nebraska on two touchdown drives in the third quarter and it was all over for the offensively listless "Horns."

"I wasn't expecting to play the second half," Runty said. "Coach told me just before the second half started."

Humm is primarily a passing quarterback while Runty, who started the season as the No. 1 signal caller, is run-oriented.

"I put Runty in because he runs well and throws fairly well...we wanted to get back to our running game," Osborne said.

Runty took Nebraska 59 yards for the go-ahead touchdown, hitting a key 17-yard pass on third and four to the Texas 14. Two plays later, wingback Ritch Bahe dashed 12 yards for the touchdown.

On Nebraska's next possession set up by noseguard John Bell's fumble recovery, sophomore Tony Davis ran three yards for a touchdown.

"Runty made things click," said Davis.

Rich Sanger added a 43-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for Nebraska. He had kicked a 24-yarder earlier.

Texas' only points came on a first quarter 22-yard field goal by Billy Scott. The "Horns" never could get their feared ground game untracked, gaining only 106 yards compared with an average of 350 steps during the season.

All-American fullback Roosevelt Leaks of Texas made only 48 yards rushing. He had averaged 141 steps per contest going into the game.

"Nebraska has a great defensive team," said Akins.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal visited the Nebraska dressing room after the game and stood on a table, saying "It was a good clean football game and a well-deserved victory. It was a one-sided game and I just hope that we can get another shot at you."

The Nebraska squad gave out a big roar.

Texas also was humiliated by Oklahoma during the season and both squads hoped to ease the sting with a victory.

"I wanted to go out as a winner, especially after Oklahoma," said Husker tackle Daryl White.

"Like I said before, we wanted to be champions of something," said wide receiver Frosty Anderson.

Hayes in good spirits after Buckeyes win

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Woody Hayes, bitter and explosive in defeat last year, was a picture of joy this time.

"I love you all," he told sports writers following his Ohio State squad's 42-21 thumping of Southern California in the 1974 Rose Bowl Tuesday.

"Listen, you've treated me a lot better the last two weeks. I've treated you better, too. It's been a two-way street," said Hayes, often terse with writers in the past.

A year ago in the Rose Bowl, the crusty Ohio State mentor had a pregame run-in with a photographer and slammed over a microphone when asked about the incident after a 42-17 defeat by the Trojans.

This time, though, Hayes was cooperative. He even broke a long-standing rule of his by bringing five of his players to a postgame interview.

"I'm in such good humor today," he explained.

Hayes' diplomacy might be tied to the final Associated Press poll of writers and broadcasters. The AP will declare its 1973 national college football champion Thursday and Hayes thinks it should be the 10-0-1 Buckeyes.

"We were first eight straight weeks and you sports writers can't be that far wrong. And we tied the team that was

LSU stymies Cappelletti, but Penn takes 'Orange'

MIAMI (AP) — It was supposed to be another Heisman Trophy showcase. The only problem was, John Cappelletti didn't go very far—and neither did Joe Paterno's flimsy dreams of a national championship.

Cappelletti, Penn State's bulldozer of a halfback who shouldered his way for 1,522 yards in 11 games and ran away with the award as collegiate football's premiere player of the season, did score a touchdown Tuesday night—the one which, as it turned out, proved to be the margin of victory in the Nittany Lions' 16-9 Orange Bowl victory over Louisiana State.

But with the exception of that soaring one-yard drive, it was a night of frustration for the 6-foot-1, 210-pound senior. LSU's hungry Tigers were looking for him—and all night long, he proved to be Cappelletti carried the ball 26 times for just 50 yards.

"LSU was determined to make us throw," said Paterno, who no doubt had been hoping for a roll-up-the-score victory which might have strengthened his argument that his sixth-ranked Lions deserved healthy consideration—along with Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Ohio State and the rest of the leaders—as a contender for the honor of being No. 1 in The Associated Press' final poll.

Despite the narrow victory, Paterno said he was still convinced Penn State belonged at the top of the heap. "This is the best team I've ever coached," he said of the squad that finished at 12-0, the best in the school's history, "and someone will have to beat us head-on to prove they're better."

And the coach had some balloting of his own to prove that nobody's better. "I held the 'Paterno Poll' in the locker room after the game," he kidded, "and the players voted unanimously for Penn State as No. 1."

If Coach Charlie McClendon's underdog Tigers were, in fact, determined to make Penn State throw, as Paterno insisted, the scheme blew up in his face in one grand moment.

LSU had taken the opening kickoff and, after to a 46-yard runback by Robert Dow that put the ball at midfield, moved almost effortlessly the rest of the way with Brad Davis munching up large chunks of yardage at a time. Steve Rogers charged up the middle for the final three yards and the touchdown that made it 7-0 with less than four minutes gone in the game.

That was it, offensively, for LSU. The Tigers piled up 205 yards rushing—Davis led the way with 70—but, except for a drive that died on Penn State's five-yard line when time ran out at the half, LSU never seriously threatened again.

The Tigers' only other points came on a safety at the start of the second half when punter Brian Masella had to fall on a badly snapped ball in his own end zone to prevent an LSU recovery.

Still, LSU was playing Penn State on even terms—brutal defense and sputtering offense—until that one grand moment. Until then, the Lions had gotten only a 44-yard Chris Bahr field goal to cut the lead to 7-0 late in the first quarter.

With about half of the second period gone, Paterno finally decided he'd waited long enough. "We weren't moving the ball and we wanted to try and get something going," he said.

So, on second down and nine on their own 28-yard line, the Lions played into McClendon's hands. Quarterback Tom Shuman passed the ball—as far as he could. And flanker Chuck Herd ran as far as he could—about a yard behind cornerback Dale Cangelosi.

The ball and Herd met beautifully at LSU's 35-yard line. "I was as surprised as anyone that I caught the ball," said Herd. "I thought it was out of reach. It hit my left hand and I cradled it." He pulled it in with the left hand and, without breaking stride, galloped into the end zone.

"That was a perfect pass and Herd must have had glue on his hands," said McClendon. "It was my fault for not having our people prepared on the pass play."

That put Penn State on top 10-7—but it didn't stay that way for long. The Lions held LSU and Gary Hayman ran the ensuing punt back 36 yards to the Tigers' 26. If LSU was thinking about lightning striking twice, Penn State wasn't. Shuman directed a ground game that ended when Cappelletti plunged in for the Lions' second touchdown.

OSU sustains Big 10 'vote of confidence'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — John Hicks, the nation's best college lineman, breathed a sigh of relief and declared "it's about time we won one, don't you think?"

The All-American offensive tackle for the Ohio State Buckeyes spoke of revenge which his coach, Woody Hayes, said wasn't evident in Ohio State's 42-21 Rose Bowl victory over Southern California Tuesday.

"We knew within our hearts that they couldn't stop us up front. That 42-17 defeat last year was burning inside of us. We knew we weren't that bad," Hicks said.

The Buckeyes atoned for the 1973 Rose Bowl defeat to these same Trojans and broke a four-game Big Ten losing streak before 105,267 fans in the 60th Rose Bowl.

Wayne Duke, Big Ten commissioner, hugged Archie Griffin, OSU's sophomore tailback who ran for 149 yards, setting a big ten season mark of 1,577.

"I think there was a question about keeping the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl," said Griffin, "but I think this game proves we can handle the Pac-8."

The victory by the fourth-ranked Buckeyes, 10-0-1, over the seventh-ranked Trojans, 9-2-1, sustained the Big Ten's "vote of confidence" given after the Buckeyes and Michigan tied 10-10 to share the league title. "The athletic directors thought we were good enough to come out here and win and we did," said Griffin. "Pressure? There was plenty."

Hayes, 60-year-old coach of the Buckeyes for 23 seasons, said it was his sweetest triumph ever and the best game ever played by an Ohio State team.

"We didn't go into it with a lot of hate and spitefulness. We went in thinking we had one coming to us and we got it," said Hayes, now 4-2 as a coach in the Rose Bowl.

"I told my players I'd be smart to retire after this because I'd never have another game that good, but I enjoy the game too much."

Will Hayes be back for another Rose Bowl next year?

"Oh, I wouldn't be surprised," he said.

Hayes said he was "biased" when asked if he thought his team should rank No. 1 in the country. His players chanted, "We're number one."

Southern Cal's John McKay, now 4-3 as a Rose Bowl coach, said, "Ohio State is the best team we've played..."

The Trojans lost to Notre Dame, 23-14, and were tied by Oklahoma, 7-7. Still, a chorus of Trojans, including Pat Haden, Anthony Davis and Lynn Swann, felt Oklahoma is the country's best team, followed by Ohio State.

"And they can pass," said McKay, after Greene, a sophomore more noted for his running, hit six of eight throws for 129 yards.

"He didn't have a sore thumb," explained Hayes.

Greene didn't attempt a pass against Michigan because he couldn't grip the ball well enough.

Haden completed 21 passes, tying a school record, in 39 attempts, breaking a USC mark, for 229 yards.

Both teams moved the football for a 14-14 half-time tie.

A third-quarter punt return that wasn't supposed to happen was the play of which Hayes said, "When we got that, we knew the horses were on the way."

"I was supposed to fair catch the ball because I didn't have blockers," said Neal Colzie. "All our men were going in to block the punt. I saw a hole open up so I took it."

He ran 56 yards and a few plays later Greene scored on a one-yard run to put OSU ahead to stay, 27-21.

Hayes unleashed a relatively new weapon against the Trojans—238-pound freshman fullback Pete Johnson, who gained 94 yards in 21 carries and scored three touchdowns.

Johnson had carried the ball only 34 times during the regular season. "I

900 passengers on 4 trains are stranded

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 900 passengers aboard four Amtrak passenger trains found themselves at unscheduled stops as part of the New Year's holiday.

A Chicago-to-Denver streamliner carrying 400 passengers was delayed for more than 13 hours Monday night and Tuesday at Galesburg, Ill., after water was mistakenly poured into a diesel fuel tank.

The water froze in the fuel lines in near-zero weather.

The extra stop for an Amtrak turboliner Tuesday was five miles north of Normal, also in central Illinois.

A dispatcher at Bloomington, Ill., the train's last scheduled stop as it headed from St. Louis to Chicago with 90 aboard, said the train apparently ran out of fuel because the engines had been left running Monday night to keep them from freezing.

In Missouri, 120 passengers aboard an Amtrak train en route from Kansas City to New York were stalled for more than 12 hours when the Missouri Pacific locomotives pulling it stopped.

A railroad spokesman said the locomotives ran out of fuel, apparently because of a leak. Two switch engines were sent to rescue the train and pull it into Jefferson City to await replacement engines, but not before the passengers spent several hours in unheated cars in near-zero weather.

On the West Coast, an Amtrak train en route from Sacramento, Calif., to Vancouver, Wash., with 313 aboard braked to an unscheduled stop Tuesday at Klamath Falls, Ore., after a freight train jumped the tracks ahead.

The Chicago-to-Denver streamliner, operating on the Burlington Northern tracks, arrived in Galesburg at 7:05 p.m. Monday and pulled out at 8:20 a.m. Tuesday.

During the wait for two locomotive replacements from Aurora, about 140 miles away, the Red Cross and Salvation Army served hot drinks and rolls to 200 passengers at the Galesburg depot.

The other passengers remained in Pullman cars, with the temperature hovering near zero.

An Amtrak spokesman said the passengers were served complimentary meals for the remainder of the trip, but Capt. Raymond Briggs of the Salvation Army said the passengers' "main complaint was that no one seemed to be in authority and they were not told what happened or how long they would be stranded."

The Chicago-to-St. Louis turboliner, operating on Illinois Central Gulf tracks, was running behind schedule when it ground to a halt.

The Bloomington dispatcher said it took about two hours to refuel the train, which arrived in Chicago five hours late.

The stalled passengers eventually were sent on their way by bus or air.

JEFFERSON, Wis. (AP) — A State Highway Patrol spokesman said Tuesday a routine investigation was being conducted concerning the temporary roadside abandonment of a bus containing 41 passengers.

The Greyhound bus was parked beside Interstate 94 for about an hour Monday while a patrolman escorted the driver 10 miles to Lake Mills to post bond on a speeding ticket.

Sheriff Roger Reinelt of Jefferson County had complained about the incident, saying any deputy sheriff leaving a bus "unattended had better have an explanation."

Sgt. Ed Taylor of the state patrol said the bus driver had received a warning, and was stopped later by another patrolman who issued the predawn speeding citation.

Because the driver was from out of state, he had to post bond, Taylor said.

Taylor related: "The trooper said he asked the driver if he would want to follow in the bus. But instead he chose to leave the bus. The trooper made sure it was parked off the road and its lights were operating. He couldn't force the driver to take the bus along."

California congressman Teague dies

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon and Vice President Gerald R. Ford have eulogized veteran California congressman Charles M. Teague, dead of a heart attack at 64.

Teague was found dead in his bed here Tuesday by his son Alan, mayor of Santa Paula.

Nixon said Teague, who was born here and represented this city as part of his Southern California district, "will be remembered most especially for his interest in American agriculture and for his many years of devoted service on the House Agriculture Committee."

In Washington, a spokesman for Ford said that American agriculture owes a great deal to Teague "for his dedication to the best interests of the American farmer."

The son of this area's largest citrus grower, Teague was the ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee and also was on the Veterans Affairs Committee.

He had served nearly 20 years in Congress and planned to seek re-election in November. Gov. Ronald Reagan said he would call a special election to fill Teague's seat for the remainder of the year.

Teague was a lawyer. He specialized in business law prior to his election to the House in 1954.

Ara rates current ND team his best

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Would you like to have a team with Terry Hanratty throwing to Jim Seymour and Nick Eddy and Larry Conjar running behind the blocking of George Goeddeke, Paul Seiler and Tom Regner?

Would you like to have Alan Page, Kevin Hardy and Pete Duranko on the defensive line, Jim Lynch at linebacker and Tom Schoen in the secondary?

So would Ara Parseghian, but he still rates his current team over the 1966 bunch, the last Notre Dame club to capture college football's national championship.

"This is the finest team I've had in 10 years at Notre Dame," Parseghian said Tuesday as he savored the 24-23 Sugar Bowl triumph over top-rated Alabama on New Year's Eve which made the Fighting Irish odds-on favorites to be No. 1 when The Associated Press final poll is announced Thursday.

"This team had the enthusiasm of the 1964 club, my first at Notre Dame, and the skill and ability of the 1966 team, my only national champion, even though this was a young club," Parseghian said. "And we had immense leadership. No team gave us better leadership. Of all the teams I've coached, this is the best all-around team."

And the Fighting Irish apparently are on the verge of writing another chapter in the continuing best-seller that is Notre Dame's football history. This latest triumph must rank alongside any of those concocted by Knute Rockne, Frank Leahy, the Four Horsemen or George Gipp.

"I've been watching Notre Dame for 43 years," said Ed "Moose" Krause, the school's athletic director, "and this is one of our greatest victories. The only other one that compares with it is the 18-13 upset of Ohio State in 1935."

The scoreboard will show that this

Vike veterans matured since '69 Super

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Fullback Oscar Reed and cornerback Bobby Bryant were both with the Minnesota Vikings when they made their first trip to the Super Bowl in 1969.

But both players say they are smarter and more confident going into their second Super Bowl game Jan. 13 against the Miami Dolphins.

Reed was an infrequently used substitute in 1969 when the Vikings lost to the Kansas City Chiefs 23-7 in the Super Bowl, and said he went along to the big game that season "just for the ride." He carried the ball four times for 17 yards.

Bryant didn't see any action in that game. He had a good start that season, but was sidelined the last half of the season with a knee injury and only got to watch the game against Kansas City.

Today it's different. Both Reed and Bryant are regulars on the team and helped bring the Vikings back to the Super Bowl after a four-year absence.

"It's so drastic, it's hard to believe," Reed said of his improvement in the past four years. "Then I was just running on ability and guts, with no experience. Now, with four years under my belt, I know what I'm doing. I do the things I want to do. I feel more a part of it. I belong. I have more confidence in myself."

Reed's blocking may be his biggest improvement and he credits Bill Brown for that.

"I try to pattern myself after Bill," Reed said of the veteran he beat out of the No. 1 fullback job. "He's such a great blocker. And we're both sort of built close to the ground with bowlegs. I try to stick my head in there the way he does, and root a guy out."

Reed has perhaps been at his best in the playoffs. He had two long-gainers to set up the first 10 points against Washington, and made a total of 83 yards against Dallas.

Unlike Reed, Bryant probably never lacked belief in his ability to play in the National Football League, even though at some 170 pounds he is one of the smallest cornerbacks in the league.

Bryant intercepted a Roger Staubach pass Sunday and ran for a long touchdown against the Dallas Cowboys to help the Vikings win the National Conference crown 27-10.

The Vikings are relaxing for a few days before resuming drills Saturday in preparation for the Miami game. And the rest may be part of Coach Bud Grant's plan to avoid a case of "battle fatigue."

After the Vikings beat Dallas, Grant said the Cowboys may have been a tired team because of too many tough games in a row.

"There is such a thing as battle fatigue in football. You can just go to the well so many times," Grant said.

The Vikings leave for Houston Sunday evening and will have a week to practice there before the big game.

Sellout string ends

DALLAS (AP) — The 67,500 attendance figure announced at the 38th Cotton Bowl football game between Nebraska and Texas New Year's Day ended a string of 12 consecutive sellouts beginning with the 1962 Texas-Mississippi game.

There were some 2,500 unsold tickets for Tuesday's game.

classic first-ever gridiron confrontation between Notre Dame and Alabama was decided by a missed extra point. Alabama's Bill Davis blew it with 9:39 left in the game and Notre Dame won it five minutes later on Bob Thomas' 19-yard field goal.

But Notre Dame won it primarily because of a sturdy defensive unit—smaller but faster than past Notre Dame defenses—which limited Alabama's dynamic Wishbone attack to 190 yards rushing and 317 overall, compared to regular-season marks of 366 and 481.

"In spring and fall practice, we taught the basic concept of defending against option football," Parseghian said. "But we didn't play a Wishbone team all year so we never really practiced defending against it because we had no way of knowing we'd be facing a Wishbone team in a bowl game."

The Irish used defensive fronts of 4, 5 and 6 men in the first half. After the intermission, they had as many as seven men up front—everyone except the four secondary people—and even turned to the famed Mirror defense with which they snapped Texas' 30-game winning streak in the 1971 Cotton Bowl.

They also shut down the effective sweeps Alabama had been running to the strong side by making some adjustments at halftime.

"We were afraid to use the Mirror because Alabama passes so much better than Texas did," Parseghian said, "but it worked better than I thought it would."

Notre Dame will return home with less money than a return trip to the Orange Bowl would have produced, but with a priceless victory instead.

"It wasn't a matter of the site," Parseghian said of Notre Dame's first Sugar Bowl venture. "Competition always comes first with us and the site is of secondary importance.

"The way we got to the Sugar Bowl is very simple. We'd heard rumors that Bear Bryant wanted to play us and then his seniors voted for the Sugar Bowl. At the time, we were ranked fifth behind Ohio State, Alabama, Oklahoma and Michigan. We couldn't play Ohio State or Michigan because of their Rose Bowl commitment and Oklahoma was ineligible for a bowl. So Alabama was the highest ranking team we could play.

"Finally, Bryant called and told me they were leaning toward the Sugar Bowl and that's the way it came off."

McKay rates OSU as toughest foe

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Ohio State's crusade to the West Coast to avenge last year's Rose Bowl defeat produced the greatest victory in Coach Woody Hayes' career.

"This is the greatest, greatest victory we've ever had," said a beaming Hayes. He said the triumph proved correct a Big Ten vote for the Buckeyes to play in this classic after a 10-10 tie with Michigan.

While the Buckeyes were basking in the glory of their 42-21 thumping of Southern California in the 60th Rose Bowl Tuesday, USC players said Ohio State could stake a legitimate claim to the national crown with a 10-0-1 record.

But some said Oklahoma, with an identical record, might be a bit better than the Buckeyes.

Meanwhile, Penn State completed a 12-victory unbeaten, untied season and Notre Dame wound up 10-0 with a one-point victory over previously unbeaten Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

"They are the best team we've played this year," said USC Coach John McKay, whose team tied Oklahoma and lost by nine to the Irish. "They didn't fool us, they just played a better game."

"Do I feel we're No. 1?" Hayes repeated a question. "Well, you know I'm a little biased, but, yes, today I'd say we were No. 1."

USC's players felt their game plan—to pass—was sound but admitted that the rugged Ohio State defense made the big plays and that, along with the running of OSU freshman Pete Johnson and the passing of quarterback Cornelius Greene, was the difference.

"They're just a darned good team," said USC passer Pat Haden, who hit on 21 of 39 for 229 yards.

"They have great ball players and we were prepared for them. They didn't fool us," said linebacker Richard Wood, "but they got the big third-down plays."

Greene, named the game's outstanding player, said his six completions were his most in a single game this season and "We figured we had to pass to beat them. We're similar to Oklahoma, who ran a lot and tied them."

McKay said Greene's passing "helped set up their running game."

McKay refused to praise the Buckeyes by name but backhandedly said OSU center Steve Myers played a big factor in the Ohio State running attack, which netted 320 yards.

"I assume their center plays very well. They ran there a lot and Coach Hayes did recruit him..."

Archie Griffin gained 149 yards for the winners, many of them straight up the middle as Myers cleared a path.

"I just ran for the open holes today and there was a lot of them," said Griffin.

"This was definitely the most emotional game of the year for me—I was really up for it."

Johnson, a freshman who didn't know where he'd be going to school one year ago, said, "This was really a thrill for me to run behind guys like (John) Hicks, (Kurt) Schumacher and the others. I was ready to play today. Three touchdowns—wow, that's great."

Johnson scored his touchdowns on runs of 1, 1 and 4 yards and bolted for crucial first downs on three key, third-down situations.

Anthony Davis, who carried the ball only 16 times, far less than usual, said he didn't mind the game plan of going to the air.

"Sure, I would have liked to carry the ball more, but they had to respect guys like Johnny McKay and Lynn Swann. I can't sulk, thought you have to learn from games like this. We really didn't expect to get this far earlier in the year anyway. We were stumbling and bumbling back then."

Then Davis gave another perspective about No. 1. "I don't think Notre Dame played the teams Oklahoma or we did. 'I think if they (Ohio State) played Oklahoma, it'd be a heck of a game and I think Oklahoma might have an edge.'"

Quarterback Pat Haden of Southern California made a head-first landing as he was upended in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena. Haden had picked up 20 yards on a keeper on the play before being upended. (AP Wirephoto)

Trimmed tour to open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The 1974 pro golf tour opens Thursday beset by a multitude of challenges and changes but anchored by one solid, unshaken, constant factor — the dominance of Jack Nicklaus.

The trimmed-down tour begins Thursday with the $215,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, for three decades a fixture on the schedule but serving as the kickoff tournament for the first time in many years.

And, for the first time, there's the chance that the old groaner will miss his own tournament. Crosby was hospitalized Monday suffering from pneumonia.

Among the challenges and changes: —The energy crisis that threatens to produce considerable complications in the travel plans of the touring pros and the as yet undetermined effect the shortage of gasoline may have on this event 125 miles south of San Francisco.

—A reduced schedule for the $8.5-million dollar tour, one which ends in early November as opposed to the 12-month schedule that has prevailed in recent years.

—Reduced playing schedules for such stars as Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and possibly Tom Weiskopf. Palmer is skipping this old event for one of the few times in his storied career. Casper also plans a reduction in appearances and Weiskopf is planning no more than 20 starts this season.

—The naming of former player Deane Beman to succeed Joe Day as golf's commissioner.

But with the changes, there's still the formidable figure of Nicklaus as the game's dominant factor.

The Golden Bear has won this tournament for the last two years and closed out another banner season in 1973 with victories in his last two starts.

That gave him seven titles for the season, a leading $308,362 in money winnings, PGA Player of the Year honors for the third time and made him the first player in the game's history to go past $2 million in career earnings.

Naturally, he's the favorite in the 72-hole test scheduled for three courses on the picturesque — but water-soaked — Monterey Peninsula.

Hayes. . .

No. 4 all year (Michigan) on their field," he said.

Hayes, who has been Ohio State's coach for 23 seasons, said it was his greatest coaching victory. "The way we were beaten so badly last year and the way these players came back."

The triumph snapped the Big Ten's four-game losing streak to the Pacific 8 and ended a two-game winless spell for Hayes in the Rose Bowl. He is now 4-2 in the postseason classic.

The Buckeyes won uncharacteristically—with the pass.

Cornelius Greene hit six of eight passes for 129 yards, more than half his entire regular season total.

"We felt we could pass on them," said Hayes. "We worked, worked, worked on our passing for the last 15 days."

Ironically, it was a tip from Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, Ohio State's chief rival for the national title, that helped whip the Trojans.

"Ara said if we wanted to beat them, we had to control the ball," said Hayes. "We didn't do the best job of that (USC ran 82 plays to 67 for Ohio State)."

Woody Hayes

Hayes, 60, gave no indications he was ready to retire.

"Oh, I wouldn't be surprised we came out here next year," he said.

Royal cites 'Husker superiority

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Coach Darrell Royal, assessing the wreckage of his Longhorns' Cotton Bowl thrashing by Nebraska, said simply, "We were soundly defeated. There's no question about that."

The Cornhuskers stripped the momentum from the favored Steers in the second half of the nationally televised classic Tuesday and reserve quarterback Steve Runty directed two scoring drives en route to a 19-3 triumph.

"It was so one-sided it's hard to go back and 'what if' this one," said Royal, whose Southwest Conference kings ranked No. 8 in the nation and were riding the crest of a six-game winning streak.

"If I had to pick a turning point, it would be the interception right after the half. We had a chance to take the lead before that but after that happened we never could get in close," Royal mused.

"There was the wild lateral, roughing the kicker, hitting the upright (on a go-ahead field goal attempt). But any way you slice it, we lost to a superior team."

The 12th-ranked Cornhuskers of the Big Eight choked off the dangerous Texas running attack, holding All-American fullback Roosevelt Leaks to 88 yards and the Longhorns overall to 106 yards rushing.

Nebraska offset a great Texas goal line stand in the fading moments of the first half with safety Bob Thornton's end zone interception early in the third period and Texas suddenly turned as cold as the frosty temperatures.

"We made a few adjustments at the half," said Nebraska's rookie Coach Tom Osborne, not the least of which was substituting Runty for starter Dave Humm.

"We thought we could run and throw. I put Runty in because he runs well and throws fairly well, and besides he deserved a chance to play."

However, Osborne added, nothing was going to stop his Cornhusker from winning anyway.

"We were playing too aggressive not to win the game," he said.

Tony Davis, the fleet Nebraska back who won offensive player honors with 106 yards rushing, said, it was Runty "who made things click for us."

He said Humm did a good job "but we just didn't get it in the end zone."

Osborne agreed with Royal that the interception opening the second half was the turning point and Texas quarterback Marty Akins concurred.

"We should have scored and I thought we were going to," he said. "I thought I threw it hard enough but I guess the wind got it."

Thornton said the underthrown pass "saved my life." He said Bennett "had a step on me but I came back for the ball when it came in short."

Most of the Texas players were at a loss to explain their second half collapse and linebacker Wade Johnston, voted the outstanding defensive player, was no exception.

"I don't think we were flat at all," he said. "I thought we were really fired up...But things just started going badly and we couldn't stop them."

Ernie D. dazzling with 25 assists

Dolphins return to camp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It's the best game Ernie has ever played," said Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsey. "He has the ability to count the house and make the play."

Braves' rookie Ernie DiGregorio made enough plays Tuesday night to record 25 assists—the third highest total in National Basketball Association history—as Buffalo edged the Portland Trail Blazers 120-119.

The little guard with the quick hands whipped the ball inside often enough for the Buffalo front line to combine for 75 points. Garfield Heard poured in 31 points, Bob McAdoo had 23 and Jim McMillan added 21. DiGregorio chipped in 20 points himself in a sensational all-around effort.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks topped the Atlanta Hawks 98-89 and the Chicago Bulls beat the Golden State Warriors 91-80.

There were no games played in the American Basketball Association.

insure the win. McMillan's shot put Buffalo on top 120-117 before Sidney Wicks scored at the buzzer for the Blazers.

Geoff Petrie pumped in 39 points and Wicks added 26 for Portland.

Knicks 98, Hawks 89

Phil Jackson scored 23 points and Bill Bradley had 19 as New York ran its winning streak to four games. The Knicks took a three-point lead in the first period and were never headed despite losing the services of forward Dave DeBusschere early in the game due to a flu attack. Pete Maravich paced the Hawks with 30 points.

Bulls 91, Warriors 80

Chicago's Bob Love outscored the entire Golden State team 28-25 in the first half. The Warriors hit only 21 per cent of their shots from the floor over the first two periods. Love finished with 39 points. The staggering Warriors have lost nine of their last 10 games.

MIAMI (AP) —The Miami Dolphins were to return to their Biscayne College training camp today to begin preparations for their Jan. 13 Super Bowl clash with Minnesota for the National Football League title.

The Dolphins, who beat Washington 14-7 in last year's Super Bowl, were given two days off by Coach Don Shula after Sunday's 27-10 American Conference championship victory over Oakland. Shula said the team will hold short, noncontact drills and look at films of the Oakland game today.

"We'll get as much work done here as we can...the idea is to keep things in perspective, to realize that after this week we still have a full week to prepare in Houston," explained Shula of his relatively light workout schedule this week.

Shula said he plans to reactivate Henry Stuckey, a reserve cornerback, for the Super Bowl as a replacement for Charlie Leigh.

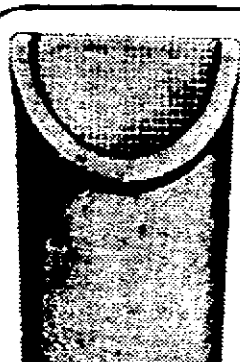

Leigh, a reserve running back, suffered a shoulder separation when he returned a kickoff 52 yards against Oakland. He is scheduled to undergo surgery this week.

Lions' Paterno not conceding No. 1

MIAMI (AP) — Penn State's Joe Paterno isn't conceding the national collegiate football championship to Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma or any other contender to the throne.

Paterno spoke his piece after Penn State beat Louisiana State 16-9 New Year's night in the Orange Bowl to complete a 12-0 season for the sixth ranked Nittany Lions.

Paterno was greeted in the sweltering Penn State locker room with a chorus of "now who's No. 1 Joe?"

While the Lions' successful coach—he's the winningest in the nation over the past eight years—refused to concede the title, he didn't claim it either.

He said the championship wasn't decided in the Sugar Bowl, where third ranked Notre Dame edged top-rated Alabama 24-23 in a game billed as a national title confrontation.

"I don't know who is No. 1," Paterno declared. "I don't know where they (sports writers) will put us. I do know that we have as much right as anybody to be No. 1."

Paterno continued: "All I know is that we're 12-0. We've been under great pressure and we bore up. Also, this is the best team I've ever coached. I'm not going to say we're better than anybody else. That's silly. But if anyone is better they'll have to prove it by beating us."

The Penn State coach concluded the ranking discussion by saying he held "the Paterno Poll" in the locker room after the LSU game. "My players voted unanimously for Penn State for No. 1."

Penn State wound up with a net yardage rushing of 28 yards, but Paterno chose to give LSU's swarming defense the credit, rather than use the wet Poly Turf as an excuse for his usually effective runners, including Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti's poor showing. Cappelletti gained only 50-yards on 26 carries.

Both Paterno and Cappelletti, however, said the turf was a problem. Cappelletti, who slid and slipped several times, described the surface as the worst he had ever played on.

"Look, we both played on the same field, so it's no excuse, "but if they wanted to install turf at our place it would be over my dead body. I don't like it. I don't think the players like it."

What happened to Cappelletti, who averaged 5.1 yards per game?

"I thought Cappelletti played a hell of a fine game," Paterno insisted even in the face of the statistics. "He had very little running room, but when he got room he gained yardage. LSU's linebackers played very tight and they read all Cappy's good plays so well."

Cappelletti agreed with his coach on the work of the LSU linebackers.

"They were always coming and they plugged the holes very quickly. They were tough to run on."

Cappelletti sprained an ankle in practice last Saturday and hadn't engaged in any contact work since. He refused to use the ankle as an excuse, saying, "if I favored it I wasn't conscious of it. Maybe it affected my cutting a little."

Louisiana State drove 51 yards for a touchdown the first time the Tigers got the ball. They ripped through the Penn State defense with such ease it appeared the Lions were in for a long night. But Penn State adjusted and contained the LSU offense most of the game.

"The kids made their own adjustment," Paterno explained. "They just weren't coming off the ball fast enough. I had warned them about quickness in practice but they didn't believe me until they got in there. When you come from cold weather to a warm situation you lose your tempo."

The big play for Penn State was a 72-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Tom Shuman to flanker Chuck Herd. It came in the second period and put the Lions ahead to stay. Herd made a spectacular one-hand grab of the ball at the LSU 35 and ran into the end zone.

"Frankly, I thought the ball was out of reach," Herd said. "It hit my left hand and I cradled it. I ran straight down and tried to get inside. The defensive man (Dale Cangelosi) was close. When that ball hit, it felt good, especially when I knew it meant a score."

Greenfield is Tri-State king

MADISON — Greenfield became the first Wisconsin high school to win the "Tri-State" wrestling tournament last weekend by amassing 80 points.

The Hawks edged Wisconsin Rapids, which posted 77 points, and Ellsworth, which posted 70.5. Defending WIAA champion Monroe was next with 64.5 points, while Illinois champion Fenton took 11th in the 14-team field. The two Iowa entries didn't participate because of a ruling by that state's athletic board prohibiting interscholastic competition during the holidays because of the energy crisis.

Champions:

proved in practice I could do the job," said Johnson.

"He's so big," said USC All-American linebacker Richard Wood, "That two and three guys hit him and can't bring him down. But I hit him a few times. I think he remembers."

Lynn Swann, USC's All-American flanker who caught five passes, was impressed with Greene's throwing ability.

"People said he couldn't pass but Greene threw two or three passes that just couldn't be stopped."

Swann said the OSU defense was a rotating zone and "They didn't want to get hurt deep."

Haden's longest completion was 25 yards. USC's lone touchdown pass was a 10-yard throw from tailback Anthony Davis to split end Jake McKay in the second quarter.

Hayes paid tribute to the USC team. "We scored 42 points on a doggone good football team and held them to 21," he said.

Dr. John Hubbard, 54, the USC President, congratulated Hayes, and added, "Your offensive line is something else—I could run behind it."

HISTORY MAKING OFFER

FREE SILVER DOLLARS FOR SAVING AT FIRST FEDERAL.

Minted in San Francisco or New Orleans between 1883 and 1885, each coin weighs 412½ grams and is 90% pure silver. George T. Morgan of the Royal Mint in London is credited with the design, which was produced from 1878 to 1904.

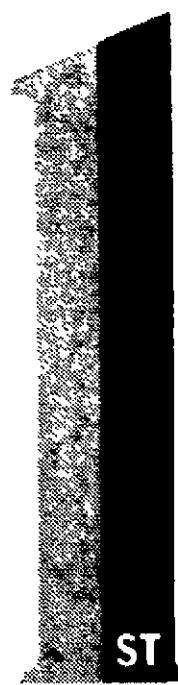

In 1918 a law was passed directing that 270 million of these silver dollars be melted. However, a limited number escaped and have been stored at the U.S. Mint for more than 50 years.

Meanwhile, the coins have steadily appreciated in value due to their historical worth and increases in the price of silver.

Now one of these uncirculated silver dollars can be yours free with a $2,500 deposit. Or two with a $5,000 deposit-made as a lump sum, or accumulated through smaller amounts. Move your savings to First Federal. And take home a little history.

Pair cities, states to win "Rebound" game

BY CAPPY DICK

An exciting "Rebound" game is the national grand prize. Five boys and girls will win for being the ones to send in the five neatest and most original correct solutions to today's puzzle.

"Rebound" is the two cushion table game manufactured for boys and girls by the Ideal Toy Corporation. It comes in a carton 34 inches long, 12 1/2 inches wide and 2 1/2 inches deep. The game resembles billiards, bocci and shuffleboard, yet is not a duplicate of any of them. The players slide a puck up an alley, careening it off cushions to land in a scoring area. There can be bank shots, angle shots, trick shots, all of them exciting to execute. The game is fun for adults as well as for boys and girls.

Five "Rebound" games will be awarded in this contest. To be considered in the national competition, a contest entry must first win a local qualifying prize, five of which will be awarded in each city, including the Fox Cities. The entries which win these local prizes will be those that are the neatest and most original correct ones received locally. Entries thus qualified will be reviewed at the national level to determine the five grand prize winners.

The puzzle to be solved appears on the picture above. Clip out the names of the cities and states. Paste them on a piece of paper, teaming them up so that the cities (which are state capitals) are adjoining the names of the proper states.

Print your name, age, address and Zip Code number beneath the paired-up capitals and states, then decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts. Finally mail the entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek Rebound Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

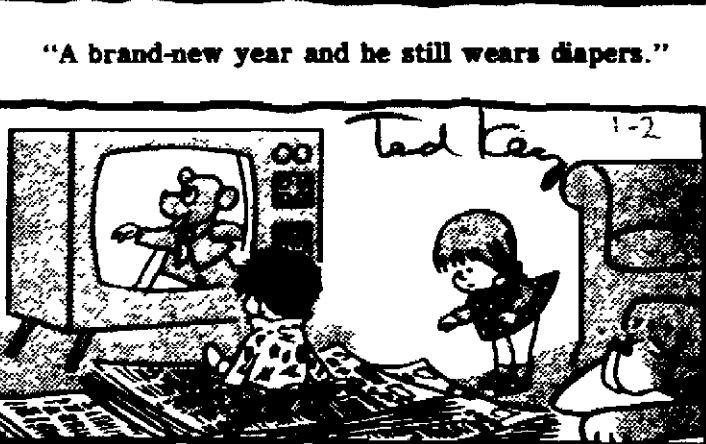

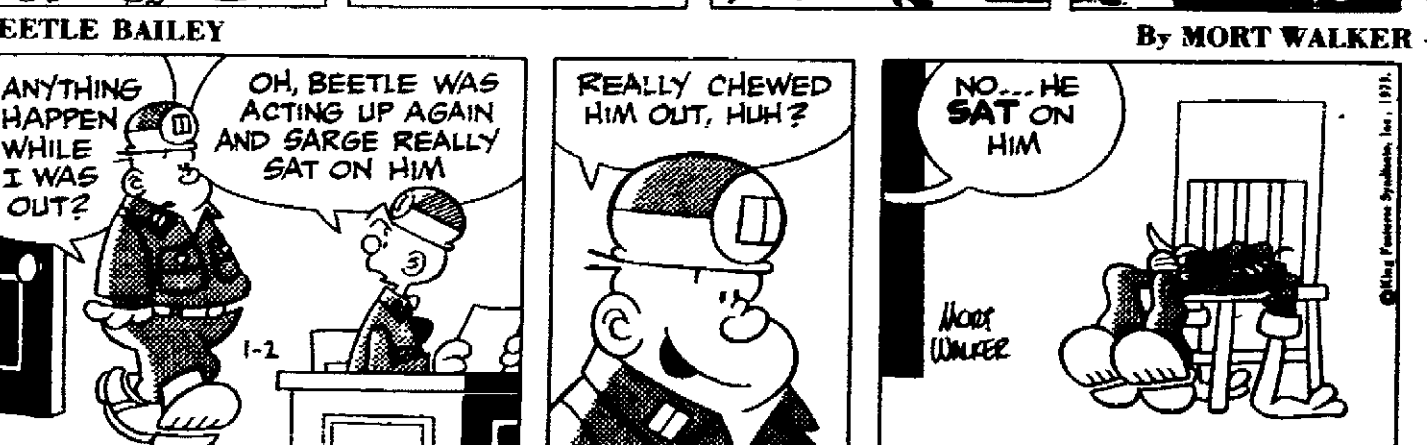

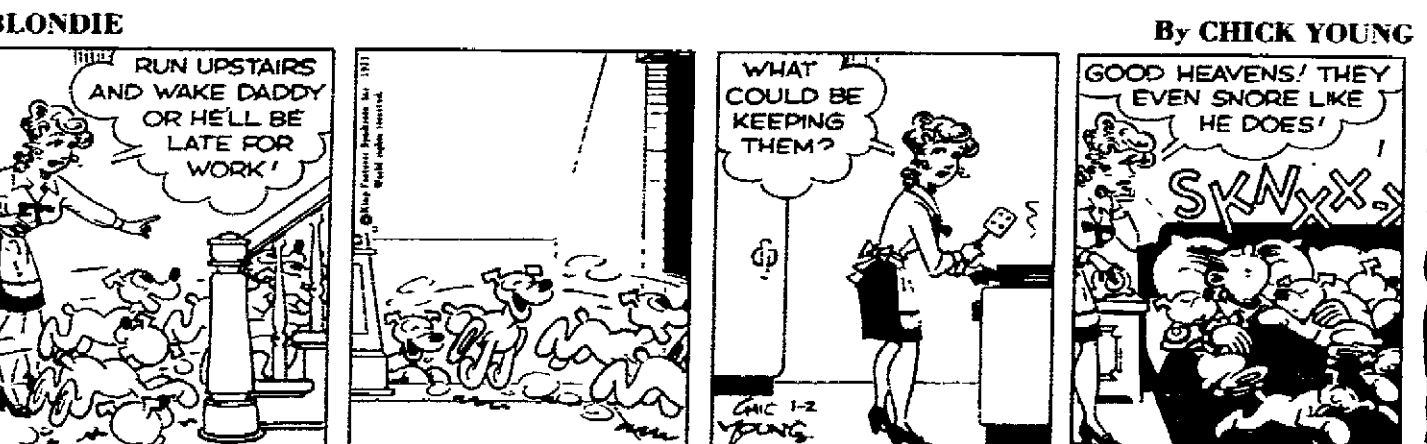

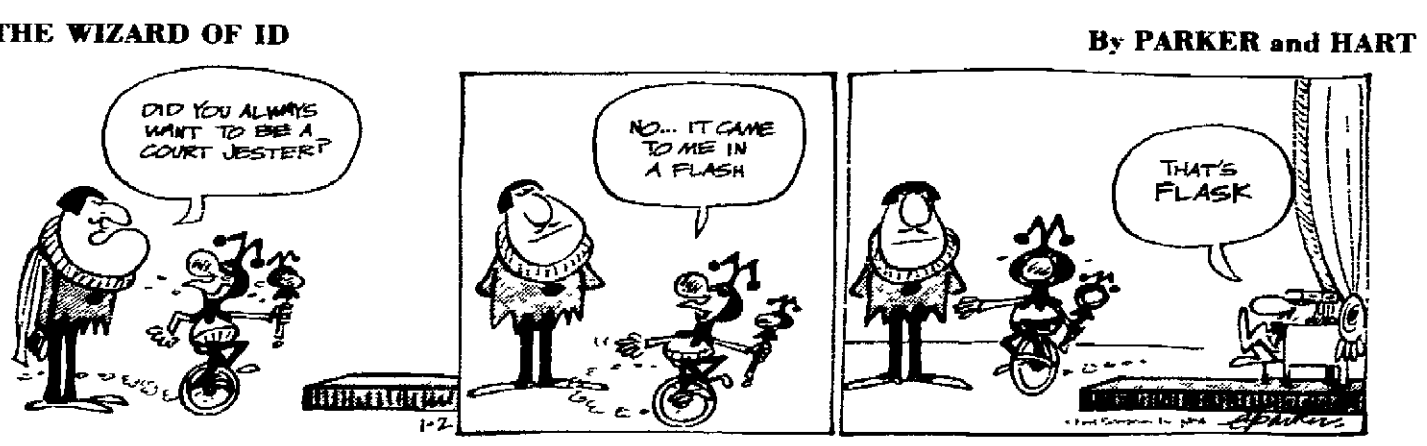

Winners' names will be published here and their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none returned.

Britain cut to 3-day work week during crisis

LONDON (AP) — Britain entered the new year with unemployment more than doubled because of the electric power crisis and the three-day work week the government has ordered to cope with it. The Department of Trade and Industry said 640,000 persons applied for unemployment benefits this week in addition to the 400,000 jobless already on the rolls.

Beginning this week, the government put all nonessential industries on a three-day week to spread the supply of electricity. It also ordered such round-the-clock operations as steel mills to curtail their power consumption drastically.

Firms were divided into two groups, those allowed to operate from Monday through Wednesday, and those permitted to open Thursday through Saturday. In the industrial midlands of England, half the factories were closed until Thursday. British Leyland's Rover division was the only auto plant operating, and it shut down its two main assembly lines.

The power shortage is due to a 30 per cent drop in coal production caused by the refusal of the miners to work weekends and overtime unless they are granted pay raises in excess of the anti-inflation ceilings set by Prime Minister Edward Heath. A slowdown by railwaymen also demanding more pay has reduced coal deliveries further. Leaders of the miners were to resume negotiations today with the National Coal Board, and leaders of the railmen were to meet with officials of British Railways.

Tom Boardman, Heath's trade and industry minister, reported that the power stations have enough coal on hand to supply their present reduced service until late March. He claimed that if the three-day week and other austerity measures had not been ordered, all industry and essential services would have stopped in February.

Anthony Wedgwood Benn, the Labor party's spokesman on trade and industry affairs in Parliament, charged that the three-day week was just a way of cutting wages to ease inflation without an unpopular tax increase.

The government says the miners earn an average of $98.40 a week, and it is willing to let them have $14.40 more. The miners want additional pay for "waiting time," the time they spend getting down to the coal face, returning from it, showering and changing clothes. They say a $14.40 increase will leave them making less than other workers who do much safer, cleaner and less important jobs.

The railway engineers, who average about $120 a week, have rejected an increase of $9.46 in their base pay and demanded $16.80. They contend the latter figure is needed to preserve their traditional margin over the wages of other railway employees.

'Small plant for Jackie,' is best lie

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — "Aristotle O'Connell is planning to get Jackie a small plant for Christmas," the winning tale in the 1973 World Champion Liar contest starts out innocently enough.

But it concludes: "The name of the plant is General Motors."

The Burlington Liars Club said the winning story was entered by Melvin Cohen of Milwaukee.

One of the lies given honorable mention concerned the effects of heat.

"Boy it was dry last summer," said E. R. McNair of Ortonville, Wis. "Everyone carried moisture tablets to add to the drinking water."

The weather also was the subject of another Wisconsin tale among the runners-up.

"Two Rivers is famous as 'the coldest spot in Wisconsin,'" said Bob Murphy, who lives there. "In fact, it was so cold here last summer we had to add antifreeze to our sun tan lotion, and take electric blankets on picnics."

A comment about "born losers" was also among the near winners.

"I just seem to be one of those born losers, but the crux of it all came when my contact lenses developed cataracts," said Arnold Simila of Olympia, Wash.

Schermerhorn, Miss Neblett are married

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kenneth Schermerhorn, conductor of the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, and Carol Neblett, New York opera soprano, were married New Year's Eve.

Miss Neblett gained national attention in 1973 when she sang part of the title role of the opera "Thais" in the nude during a performance in New Orleans.

Getting to the Monday evening ceremony proved to be a struggle for the couple.

Schermerhorn and Miss Neblett first had to see a county court judge. They needed a waiver of the five-day waiting period usually required before a marriage license is issued in Wisconsin.

"I had been out of town," Miss Neblett explained. "I was singing in Spain, so we couldn't get the marriage license before today."

Then it was discovered that Miss Neblett's blood test was invalid because she used her professional name instead of her legal name, Carol Davis, on the forms.

"The Wisconsin law is very strict," Miss Neblett acknowledged.

Another form was obtained, and the couple's wedding plans proceeded on schedule.

Top diplomat Charles Bohlen dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles E. "Chip" Bohlen, a top-level diplomat and recognized expert on Russia who came in for some disfavor during the McCarthy era, is dead.

Bohlen, who was 69, died of cancer Tuesday evening at Washington Hospital Center, his doctor said.

Bohlen served four stints in Moscow and was ambassador from 1953 to 1957. He was so fluent in Russian that he was able to explain the rules of baseball to Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin.

However, his contention that Russia and the United States could learn to live in the same world brought attacks by conservatives.

When President Dwight D. Eisenhower nominated him for the Moscow post, the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., led the opposition.

policies during the Truman administration. Eventually, the nomination was confirmed 74 to 13.

Among his friends, the lanky Bohlen was known for his great charm, ready wit and remarkable memory.

Bohlen began his 40-year diplomatic career in 1929, serving first in Prague. He first joined the Moscow embassy staff in 1934, shortly after the United States recognized the Communist regime.

His first important assignment came when he was chosen President Franklin D. Roosevelt's top interpreter at the wartime Tehran conference.

Transferred from Moscow to be ambassador to the Philippines in 1957, Bohlen's embassy office in Manila was still adorned with books on Communism.

Some regarded his move to Manila as an exile. It was known that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles disagreed with Bohlen's views on Soviet affairs.

However, two years later, President Eisenhower ignored new Republican opposition in the Senate to bring Bohlen back to Washington as a top Soviet expert in the State Department.

In 1962, fellow Harvard graduate President John F. Kennedy appointed Bohlen ambassador to France. He served six years in Paris, an unusually long term in that prestigious post.

Before retiring in 1969, Bohlen served as deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, considered the highest post a career diplomat can reach.

Bohlen leaves his wife, the former Avis Thayer, whom he met while she was visiting her brother, then also a foreign service officer in Moscow, and three children.

Legislature may study fee cut for elderly at parks

MADISON — The legislature probably will commission a study of admissions without charge to state parks and related recreational properties for elderly persons.

The suggestion was made by Rep. Lewis Mittness of Janesville, chairman of the Assembly committee on natural resources, after pondering the measure to exempt persons 65 years and older from the usual park admissions fee, a measure that Department of Natural Resources officials said would seriously weaken its parks and recreation budget.

A pending bill to provide free admission rights to the elderly would cause a 13 per cent loss in park fee income, and an additional forfeiture of other revenues budgeted for parks and forests that are contingent upon fee receipts, officials said.

Legislators acknowledged that many elderly persons find great enjoyment in park visits, and they were reminded by some witnesses that the U.S. Park Service now issues a "Golden Passport" without charge to all persons 62 years old and older who request it.

Under the Wisconsin park admissions charge system, the fee is levied against the automobile carrying park visitors to the recreational properties. Legislators and DNR officials noted that because many of the elderly who would use a proposed free admissions privilege do not drive, the effect would be to permit admission without charge for younger members of their families as well.

Similar concessions for hunting and fishing enthusiasts among the elderly have been advanced, and testimony of state officials indicates that they find it difficult to oppose them, but are concerned about the financial losses implied, nevertheless.

ESCAPE . . . to the Caribbean

7 sun-filled days and balmy nights with exotic ports of call such as Kingston and Montego Bay, Jamaica, and Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

WLUK-TV and Norwegian Caribbean Lines have arranged a once-in-a-lifetime cruise celebrating TV-11's 20th anniversary in broadcasting.

Your cruise includes round trip airfare to Miami, luxury liner and services, all meals and four island ports of call.

Food of the tropics and a sample of what is to come will be featured at a gala poolside cruise party starting at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12 in the International Forum — Midway Motor Lodge, Green Bay.

Enjoy champagne, hors d'oeuvres and entertainment at poolside: an 8 p.m. island buffet dinner: cruise presentation and an evening of music and dancing.

Cost: $4.50 per person. Attire: casual. Date: Jan. 12-6:30 p.m. Place: The Forum, Green Bay.

Sign for the cruise and your party fee will be deducted from the total cruise price.

Clip and send in the party reservation coupon today along with your check. We'll send you a full informational brochure and cruise price information.

NEVER A FEE!

How Can That Be?

We NEVER charge our applicants a fee! ALL of our client companies assume our agency fee. We act as screening agents in "matching" the right individual to the right job. We save both client companies and applicants valuable time in finding each other!

Why does the company pay the fee?

Because the really sharp ones come to us to work in confidence for them. They don't answer ads or pound the pavement looking for jobs.

We save both company and applicant valuable time in finding each other! Let us help you find the right position. Remember—NO AGENCY FEE—EVER!

Courtroom action on Watergate to intensify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Courtroom activity connected to the Watergate scandal is expected to quicken during the first months of the New Year.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has indicated that the Watergate grand juries are ready to consider indictments "in a substantial number of major involvements" this month and next.

The conspiracy-perjury trial of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and two others in the Vesco campaign contribution case is scheduled to begin this month in New York.

The sentencing of Egil Krogh Jr., head of the White House plumbers, is expected in a number of weeks. Krogh has pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The two Watergate grand juries in Washington — soon to be joined by a third — have been probing the break-in of Democratic party headquarters and the subsequent cover-up, as well as illegal campaign contributions, the ITT and milk-fund cases, the Howard Hughes $100,000 contribution and dirty campaign tactics.

Jaworski said in a statement Monday: "Although investigations in various areas within the special prosecutor's jurisdiction are continuing, including the review of White House files, the presentation of evidence to the grand juries has progressed to the point that in January and February these bodies will be prepared to consider the matter of returning indictments in a substantial number of major involvements."

It is known that targets of the grand juries in their various probes include such former Nixon aides and intimates as Mitchell, Maurice H. Stans, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Herbert W. Kalmbach and Charles W. Colson.

Ehrlichman, David R. Young and convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy also have pleaded innocent to state indictments in Los Angeles in connection with the rifling of files of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

In addition to Krogh, sentencing also is pending in the cases of three former White House or re-election committee aides who pleaded guilty to one count each of obstructing justice in return for giving testimony against others.

They are John W. Dean III, the former presidential counsel who said Nixon knew of the cover-up; Jeb S. Magruder, deputy director of the re-election committee who admitted knowing of break-in plans and committing perjury; and Frederick C. LaRue, a go-between in payoffs to the Watergate defendants.

Appeals are pending in the cases of all seven men who either were convicted of the Watergate break-in after trial or who pleaded guilty and then tried to withdraw the plea.

The U.S. Court of Appeals has ordered that E. Howard Hunt Jr., sentenced to a minimum of 2½ years, and Bernard L. Barker, sentenced to 1½ years, be freed pending outcome of their appeal. Three other men will have hearings by the parole board next Monday.

To date, eight corporations and one officer in each have pleaded guilty to making illegal campaign contributions. One other firm and its chairman have pleaded innocent and will go to trial.

Polar Bears take a dip

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Swimmers and water skiers frolicked Tuesday in Lake Michigan beach, marking Milwaukee's especially rugged method of welcoming the new year.

The air temperature was one degree below zero, the water temperature about 34 degrees, and the estimated wind-chill factor dipping to 30 degrees below zero.

The beach outing, witnessed by several hundred persons wearing thick winter garments, involved about 12 swimmers under auspices of the Polar Bear Club.

Saying they were inspired by the lightly-clad club bathers, Darryl Rindall and Glen Tomczyk donned somewhat-insulating wetsuits and went water skiing.

"I figured if I waited until warmer weather, there might not be any gasoline left to operate my boat," Rindall said.

The club outing began in Milwaukee about 40 years ago, and is duplicated at other Lake Michigan cities, notably Sheboygan.

Newcomers to the Milwaukee dip were as young as 15. Veterans include Dean Seitz and Garth Gaskey, who said they have been at it for 20 years and come equipped with stories almost as old.

"It is good for you," Seitz said. "I've had colds and hangovers, and this has always cured it."

"One time Garth went in with a 102 fever, and it broke the fever," he added.

Joey Sutter, credited with having initiated the tradition, expressed delight with the sharp, 15 mile-an-hour wind.

"We fell in and got real wet, and when we stood up it felt like we were cut in half. Terrific," he said.

Asked how he warms up after the icy dip, Sutter said his doctor advised him to "add some brandy to the water in my blood."

About a dozen persons also participated in Sheboygan, with hundreds of spectators watching.

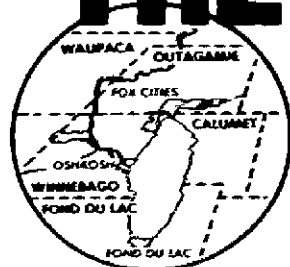

A Sheboygan participant completed his swim with a dash of heresy: "Next year we're going to do it in August."

Strike closes schools

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. (AP) — Post-holiday resumption of school today was postponed after teachers announced late Tuesday they would strike in the absence of a contract settlement.

Bargainers met for about three hours Tuesday in hope of avoiding a walkout by the Wisconsin Rapids Education Association, which last conducted a work stoppage in 1971.

Storms, cold numb nation's midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A growing winter storm surged into the central Plains and mid Mississippi Valley today where zero and subzero temperatures numbed residents for a third straight day.

Appleton's temperatures ranged Tuesday from minus 12 to zero.

Heavy-snow warnings were issued from Arizona to Kansas and heavy-snow watches extended into Missouri and Iowa. As much as 4 inches of snow was expected today and tonight.

The cold wave over the midcontinent lingered at record-breaking lows in many places. It was 25 below at Eau Claire, Wis., before dawn and below freezing at Dallas.

Up to 16 inches of snow blanketed the southern Rockies in Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado on Tuesday. An avalanche warning was extended to all mountain areas in the northern two-thirds of Colorado above 9,500 feet. More than 180 avalanches have been reported since Friday.

Rain and drizzle dampened areas of the Gulf coast and the central Atlantic coastal states.

Wichita, Kan., police found the frozen body of a man in the back seat of a car Tuesday. Authorities said the victim apparently was placed there by companions who had been drinking with him at a New Year's Eve party and could not get him home. Temperature readings in Wichita dipped to -2 early Tuesday.

Most Kansas City schools were closed today because of transportation and heating problems.

Members of the Bald Eagle Water Ski Club of the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., area were forced to give up an honored New Year's Day tradition. They were unable to water ski on the Mississippi River because they couldn't find any open water.

A Jan. 1 record low of -30 was registered at Minneapolis-St. Paul early Tuesday, and today's "warming trend" was expected to fall between -12 and 4 above zero.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -25 at Eau Claire, Wis., to 75 at Homestead Air Force Base in Florida.

Some other reports: Anchorage 16 cloudy, Atlanta 37 cloudy, Boston 34 partly cloudy, Chicago 1 clear, Cincinnati 9 clear, Cleveland 6 cloudy, Dallas 31 cloudy, Denver 1 light snow, Detroit 2 clear, Honolulu 76 clear, Indianapolis 3 cloudy, Kansas City 3 light snow, Los Angeles 46 clear, Louisville 16 partly cloudy, Miami 73 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul -19 clear, Nashville 22 clear, New York 29 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 30 clear, Phoenix 49 cloudy, Pittsburgh 19 light snow.

Sergeant fires into tearoom

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A South Korean army sergeant shot up a tearoom in Taegu Tuesday night, seized about 30 hostages and still was holding off 200 police and military policemen Wednesday afternoon, the Defense Ministry said.

Two men were killed and two others wounded in the initial outburst of shooting, the ministry said. Taegu is 150 miles southeast of Seoul.

Police said the sergeant was Cho Hyo-suk of the 6th Military Police Battalion in Taegu and that he was armed with a carbine and about 120 rounds of ammunition.

His brother and sister and his superior officers were at the scene trying to persuade him to release his hostages.

Bridge pursuit

New York City police cautiously edge close to a man identified as Jim Weber on the suspension cables of New York's Brooklyn bridge. Police said the man evaded them for more than an hour, clambering about on the bridge shouting, "You can't help me." Police finally persuaded the man to allow himself to be helped to the ground. He was then hospitalized for a mental examination. (AP Wirephoto)

Nixon owes big debt to oil firms, Aspin says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials and major stockholders of 178 oil companies gave nearly $5 million to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, according to a study by Rep. Les Aspin.

The Wisconsin Democrat said Tuesday that the contributions make it impossible for Nixon to deal effectively with the energy crisis.

The 58-page study lists contributions to Nixon's campaign totaling $4,981,840 from 413 oil company directors, senior officials and principal stockholders.

Aspin said this does not include contributions of $268,700 from the Rockefeller family — which he said owns 1 per cent of Exxon stock — or $505,000 from executives of 10 major petrochemical firms. These donations would bring the total to about $5.7 million, or roughly 10 per cent of the total contributions to the Nixon campaign, said Aspin.

"It is now clear why the administration attitude has been so consistently anticonsumer and pro-big oil — the oil companies financed a big chunk of the President's last campaign," Aspin said in a statement accompanying the study.

Three large oil companies on the list —

Gulf, Phillips and Ashland — have admitted illegally donating a total of $300,000 in corporate funds to the campaign, Aspin noted. These donations were later returned.

"The big oil companies have Mr. Nixon in a double hammerlock," said Aspin. "After their massive contributions, there is little he can do to control them."

Spray deodorant may be link in girl's death

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Spray deodorant was being considered Tuesday by investigators seeking the cause of the death of a teen-age girl.

Amy Holt, 14, was found dead Monday in her bedroom where her family said she had been preparing to go to a cousin's party.

A can of spray deodorant was found near the girl's body. The Milwaukee County medical examiner's office said cause of death was not immediately known, and that tests were underway to determine if the victim had inhaled spray.

A career Navy officer before settling with his family in the Seattle area in 1960, Edward Nixon held a staff supervisory position with Pacific Northwest Bell.

When his brother was elected President in 1968, Edward Nixon was offered a post as head of the Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska, but he turned down the $30,000 post. He said he wanted to avoid charges of nepotism.

A year later he assumed a more active role in public affairs, winning election as Republican state committeeman for Snohomish County. Later he was named a trustee of the Nixon foundation.

The President's brother recently became a partner in the Seattle Kings, a group contesting for rights to an National Hockey League franchise in Seattle.

The payments to Edward Nixon came to light in a foundation report to the California state registry of charitable trusts, which scrutinizes the finances of tax-exempt foundations.

IRS to look at Nixon's tax returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday it is re-examining President Nixon's income tax returns for the past several years.

The IRS said representatives of President Nixon are cooperating fully in the probe and had authorized disclosure of the action.

The IRS did not disclose the reason for its probe.

The agency said it has arranged to exchange information on the President's tax returns with the congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which has agreed, at Nixon's request, to review the chief executive's tax returns for the years since he entered the White House in 1969.

The President's attorneys have estimated Nixon could owe as much as $267,000 in back taxes if the deductions he claimed are disallowed.

The IRS did not say for what years would be covered by the review. But there has been controversy over the President's returns for 1970, 1971 and 1972.

The President paid total taxes for these three years of less than $6,000.

Nixon's brother paid for 'doing nothing,' his wife says

ALDERWOOD MANOR, Wash. (AP) — President Nixon's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Nixon, says while her husband is "off being paid to do nothing" she has to teach school and raise two children.

"While he's off being paid to do nothing, I'm here alone. I'm trying to teach school and I've got two kids and let me tell you, it's tough," she told newsmen checking reports her husband was paid a $21,000 consultant's fee to find out where the Nixon family wants a presidential library built.

Leonard Firestone, head of a tax-exempt foundation formed by friends of the President to build the library, confirmed Monday in Los Angeles that Edward Nixon was a paid consultant.

Edward Nixon, 42, lives in Alderwood Manor, a Seattle suburb. He could not be reached for comment.

"An invasion of privacy" is how Mrs. Nixon described the story of her husband's consultant fee. She held out a hammer and said she felt "like taking this thing and knocking down our newspaper boxes so I won't have to read some of the things they write."

She said the foundation paid her husband $1,500 a month for 14 months beginning in December 1970. She said the foundation, of which her husband is a trustee, "folded in August."

But Firestone, the tire and rubber magnate, said the foundation still exists. Firestone said that Edward Nixon viewed six potential library sites and recommended that the final choice come from three in Orange County, Calif.

Health surveys are due in Calumet County

Saturday is the deadline for mailing the Calumet County survey of health needs, according to Mrs. Paul Ecker, Stockbridge, survey chairman.

The survey prepared by the Calumet County Health Resource Council was sent to 25 per cent of the county households several weeks ago. The information is important to the council in planning for future health needs in the county. Calumet was the first in the area to undertake the survey, supported by $250 voted for the project by the board of supervisors.

Returns from 33 per cent of the households receiving the survey have been sent to the Lake Winnebago area planning organization at Oshkosh, but more returns are necessary to get a clearer picture of the county's needs, Mrs. Ecker said.

Residents are not asked to identify themselves for the survey but to give candid answers to questions which deal mainly with the type of health care facilities they used during the last two years, whether in Calumet or another county. The questions seek to determine whether the facilities were satisfactory or how they can be improved and the frequency at which household members visited doctors, dentists and specialists during the last two years.

A total of 1,935 surveys were mailed, Mrs. Ecker said. Of these, the Town of Harrison returned 70 of it 187; the cities of Appleton, 96 out of 271; Chilton, 85 out of 233; Brillion, 65 out of 206; Kiel, 5 out of 31; New Holstein, 75 out of 219; the towns of New Holstein, 14 out of 88;

Brothertown, 30 out of 103; Rantoul, 17 out of 76; Stockbridge, 24 out of 88; Woodville, 20 out of 65, and Brillion, 29 out of 94.

Other returns show Village of Stockbridge residents returned 13 of 40; Hilbert 27 of 73 and Sherwood 10 of 25.

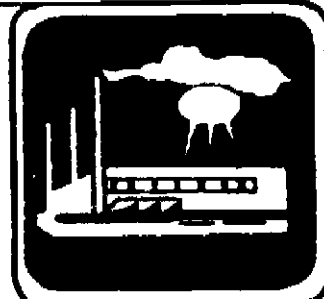

A postage paid envelope was included with the survey. Information will be computerized by students at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

Other members of the survey committee are Mrs. Ezra Keuer and Mrs. Anton Rank, Brillion; Elmer Whitby, Brothertown; Robert Hipke, Mrs. Marcella Michels, Howard Schuch, Joseph Schumacher and Florence Woelfel, Chilton; Fred Middendorf, New Holstein, and Mrs. Vincent Gerner, Stockbridge.

Decorating winners listed for Chilton

CHILTON — Several decorations were judged as winners in the local Christmas decorating contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Winners in the professional division were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Meier, 527 Water St., who depicted the nativity scene. John Groeschel, 148 School St., was second place; Mr. and Mrs. G.G. Bloomer, 216 Manhattan St., third; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Geiser, 109 Brooklyn St., fourth. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Ronk, 57 W. Washington St. and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Seipel, route 1.

In the amateur class, first-place winner was Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mathes, 320 Saratoga St., who displayed a large snowman with holiday greetings. Second place winner was Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jodar, 502 S. State St.; third place, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weber, 67 E. Main St., and fourth place, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jaekels, 521 Water St. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zacharius, 805 S. Madison St.

Over 50 homes were decorated with Christmas tidings. This year was the first year the judging was done in the daytime because of the energy crisis.

First-place winners received $10, second place, $7.50, third place, $5, and fourth place, $2.50.

$500 fine, two year's probation given to Capt. Victor Juno

BY BILL KNUTSON

Post-Crescent staff writer

CHILTON — Retired Calumet County Police Capt. Victor Juno of Brillion was fined $500 and costs and was placed on two years' probation to the state Department of Health and Social Services this morning after he pleaded no contest to one felony count of misconduct in public office.

Grant C. Johnson, a state assistant attorney general and acting Calumet County district attorney in the Juno case, was unsuccessful in getting Green Lake County Judge David C. Willis to impose a 30-day jail sentence on Juno.

Juno, 56, took $500 of parking fine money from his traffic department for his own use, according to the state Department of Justice.

"He knew it was a crime when he converted that first dollar to his own use," Johnson remarked. Juno violated his public trust as a police officer, Johnson continued.

But Juno felt he had suffered enough, he told the court.

Over the last 15 months, Juno explained, he has been subjected to harassment, threatening telephone calls, ridicule and a barrage of publicity.

Besides, he lost the industrial security job he had been assured. He began work on an assembly line in a Brillion plant about two weeks ago.

Juno, who had been with the traffic patrol 28 years, retired last Nov. 9, about a week after he was charged.

He knew he did wrong, Juno told Judge Willis, and he was "glad it's over." He also told Willis he was happy to be away from law enforcement.

His attorney, Don R. Herrling of Appleton, in arguing against imposition of a jail term, observed that Juno has been penalized severely by the publicity given his case.

He also told of having received letters from several Calumet County board members praising Juno's service to the county.

Juno also has done a good job as county highway safety coordinator, Herrling explained. Juno still holds that nonpaying position.

And, Herrling continued, Juno is married and the father of four children, one of them still at home.

Nine start '74 seeking Outagamie board seats

Eight incumbent Outagamie County supervisors and one newcomer have started out the new year by taking out nomination papers to seek election to the county board in April.

Today is the first day candidates may circulate nomination papers for the spring election. Deadline for filing papers is 5 p.m. Jan. 29. Supervisory candidates need between 100 and 200 signatures on their papers.

The newcomer is Mrs. Diane Cusatis, 40, 1908 N. Racine St., Appleton, who will be seeking election from District 14. The incumbent supervisor from that district, Richard Jahnke, does not plan to seek re-election.

Mrs. Cusatis will be making her first try for public office. She has five children and is chairman of the Information and Referral Center of Outagamie County and is active in the Volunteers in Probation program. She also is president of Church Women United of Outagamie County.

Incumbents taking out papers include Rose Schroeder, District 1; Barbara Steger, District 5; Harold Miller, District 9; George Driessen, District 10; Alphonse Lewandowski, District 11; George Kroes, 31; Marvin Babbitt, District 40, and Joseph Kasperek, District 41.

Mrs. Schroeder, 224 E. Washington St., Appleton, who has been retired for a number of years, will be seeking her fourth term on the board.

Mrs. Steger, 55, 744 W. Spencer St., Appleton, a housewife, will be seeking her fifth term on the board.

Harold Miller, 74, retired construction superintendent for the Wisconsin Telephone Company, also will be seeking his fifth term.

George Driessen, 312 E. Calumet St., Appleton, a retired city street employee, will be seeking his third term.

Al Lewandowski, 74, 34 Johnson Court, retired, will be seeking his second full term on the board. He was appointed to the board in 1969, lost in the 1970 election and then won election in 1972.

George Kroes, 63, route 1, Kaukauna, a farmer, will be seeking his tenth term on the board.

Marvin Babbitt, 71, 520 W. Main St., Seymour, a retired plumbing contractor, is seeking his ninth term on the board.

Joseph Kasperek, 60, route 1, Black Creek, will be seeking his third term on the board.

County politics can warm new year

The weather may be cold, but the political wars in the county will start warming up today, the first day nomination papers may be circulated for local elections.

All 42 Outagamie County Board posts will be up for election and, judging from past history, about one-half of the incumbents can expect opposition in the April election. Past history also suggests that there should be about a half-dozen primary contests.

At this point only one incumbent has declared his intentions to retire. He is Supv. Richard Jahnke of Appleton Dist. 14. Jahnke announced early this fall that he would not seek re-election and has not given any indication of changing his mind.

The pressure of his job was cited by Jahnke as the prime reason for his decision. But he frequently has expressed frustration over the way the county board functions. Jahnke was appointed to the county board in 1969 and was elected to a full term in 1970 and re-elected in 1972.

Several other incumbents are known to be in the "thinking" stage as to whether they will seek another term, but none have reached firm decisions yet.

While much of the county board's business between now and April will be conducted with one eye on the election, a major struggle is expected on the internal rules under which the board will operate after the election.

'Man of Year' dinner planned

CHILTON — The annual "Man of the Year" Chamber of Commerce-sponsored banquet has been set for 7 p.m. Jan. 14 at the Eagles Club.

Each year a "Man of the Year" is nominated and voted on according to good he has done for the community. Reservations for the dinner should be made by Jan. 10 with Chairman Ralph Hertel.

A faster pace of living, alcohol and just plain bad luck increased the highway death toll in Calumet and Outagamie counties during 1973 from 34 deaths in 1972 to 58 deaths in 1973.

In Waupaca County the number of highway deaths declined significantly, perhaps partly due to increased traffic patrol, according to John Penney, a captain in the Waupaca County Sheriff's Department.

Increased highway deaths in the Fox Valley compare to a state trend in 1973 that resulted in fewer lives lost on highways than during the previous year. The death toll was 1,147 last year and 1,166 a year earlier.

The biggest increase in the three-county area took place in Outagamie County where the number of traffic deaths increased from 24 to 43.

Sheriff's Lt. Robert Keating said a significant share of the accidents involved a failure to yield or excessive speed.

"You can't come up with anything (singly important)...the pace of living was the thing."

The county participated in a federally-funded Fatal Accident Reduction Enforcement program which financed excess patrols in some high-accident areas, he said, but the impact of the program is hard to assess.

In Waupaca County, Penney attributed the program and changes in enforcement procedures with causing some of the drop in the county's fatalities from 19 in 1972 to 5 in 1973.

Extra patrol work was done and education programs were carried in newspapers and radio. Warning tickets were issued as a means of slowing down motorists. "We ran a lot of radar," said Penney.

He said drinking played a significant part in the accident rate. Tests showed that four of the five fatal accident victims had some alcohol in their blood.

Penney anticipated that lower speed limits may help cut accidents in 1974.

In Calumet County, the number of fatal accidents climbed from 10 in 1972 to 15 in 1973. Donald Kossman, investigator for the sheriff's office, said the weather may have caused some of the fatal accidents but added that a part of the rise may have been due merely to luck.

Wisconsin traffic accidents during the extended New Year's holiday weekend claimed 17 lives, leaving 1973 with 1,147 deaths compared with 1,166 in record 1972.

Victims included two girls New Year's Day who were riding in a car that was struck by a train at a crossing where the teen-age driver had campaigned without success last year for installation of automatic signals.

Ann Laube, 10, of rural Owen and her sister, Joanne, 7, died Tuesday when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Soo Line freight train at a crossing near their Clark County home.

Sheriff David Bertz said their sister, Barbara, 17, who was driving the car, was active in a 4-H Club project to get illuminated signals at the crossing.

Miss Laube, another teen-age sister and a brother were hospitalized in Marshfield, the girls in critical condition.

Holiday victims included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kocaja of Milwaukee, Gerald Schansberg, 32, Whitehall, Sherry Hart, 7, Pell Lake, Everett Michalsky, 28, Oconomowoc, Emil Anderson Jr., 26, Mason.

Bloodmobile dates set

CLINTONVILLE — The 1974 bloodmobile schedule for Clintonville has been announced by the American National Red Cross. The dates for Clintonville are Jan. 14, June 17 and Sept. 23. The quota for each visit is 115 pints.

Bishop Alton returns

It was like coming home for Bishop and Mrs. Ralph Taylor Alton, center, Indianapolis. Alton, once pastor of First United Methodist Church, Appleton, returned last weekend to preach a New Year's sermon from his old

500 give their time to lead Boy Scouts

Nearly 500 people volunteer their time to Boy Scout activities in the Appleton area alone. Volunteer service comes in positions as den mothers and den dads, scoutmasters and various assistants and as district or council members. About 1,335 Cub Scouts organized into 30 cub packs and 890 Boy Scouts in 26 Scout troops as well as 186 Explorer Scouts all need the aid of volunteer adults, both male and female, to supervise, plan activities and control the quality and advancement of the programs. There is no minimum time limit asked of adult volunteers and there is no particular volunteer structure, according to Dick Newton, the district executive of Boy Scouts in this area. There is no formal screening for Boy Scout volunteer help except that the people should be interested in working with boys. The Bay Lakes Council, which is headquartered in Menasha, covers a large territory from northeastern Wisconsin to the northern edge of Milwaukee. Boy Scouting is funded 60 per cent by United Fund contributions in the various communities in which scout activities are offered and by the Council. The remaining 40 per cent comes from dues collected from sustaining memberships. Forms of service include work as den mothers or den dads for groups of 6 to 8 boys ranging in age from 8 to 10 years old. Dens meet weekly while the packs, or groups of dens, meet monthly. Scout patrols for boys 11 years and older meet weekly but have no particular adult supervision except under the scoutmaster when they gather into troops. Scoutmaster and cubmaster are the only positions restricted to men only. There are also 14 Explorer Posts in the Appleton area. Exploring involves senior high school young men and women in career exploration and special interest activities. There are 186 Explorers in this area. Other volunteers, who are all required to be over 21 years old, may find service on councils or districts. In this capacity they may plan activities, provide for the organization and extension of various programs and control program quality.

New London remains undefeated in BABA

NEW LONDON — New London remained undefeated by downing Weyauwega 121-69 in abbreviated action this weekend in the Badger Amateur Basketball Association. In other games Waupaca Bruins dumped Rosholt, 94-62; Waupaca Recreation got by Iola, 89-81, and Bon-duel beat Marion 78-65. Wittenberg at Shawano No. 1 and Shawano No. 2 at Manawa were not played. New London led all the way holding a 34-31 halftime lead. Randy Theil paced New London's win with 28 points while Roger Steingraber added 26 and Cal Manschke 21. Tom Rohde had 16 points to lead Weyauwega. Floyd Durrant paced Waupaca Bruins with 22 points and Doug Peterson added 12. Don Trzebiatowski led Rosholt with 24 points and Dennis Trzebiatowski added 18. Iola led 40-36 but couldn't hold it as Waupaca Rec took the lead and held on.

Bob Austin led Waupaca Recreation's win with 23 points followed by Rick Riddle with 20 and Dave Peterson with 17. John Opperman had 18 and Rod Popp 16 to lead Iola. Jim and John Reinke led Bonduel's balanced scoring with 14 points each. Kent Brandenburg paced Marion with 22 points followed by Mike Meyer with 18 and Vaughn James with 10. Games this weekend will have Waupaca Rec (4-1) at Marion (0-5), Rosholt (0-5) at Wittenberg (2-2), New London (5-0) at Bonduel (2-3), Waupaca Bruins (3-2) at Manawa (3-1), Iola (2-3) at Shawano No. 1 (20-2) and Shawano No. 2 (4-0) at Weyauwega (1-4).

Dairymen to get tips on exporting

Outagamie County Holstein raisers will receive information on how best to prepare their stock for sale to overseas markets at noon Jan. 8 during the annual meeting of the breed organization at the Columbus Club in Appleton. Duncan MacKenzie, a sire analyst for Carnation Genetics, will discuss how dairymen should prepare Holsteins for export at the session. Mrs. Hilmer Mueller, Seymour, will describe the history of the organization at the meeting. An annual breeder recognition award will be presented by Russell Luckow, Outagamie County agricultural agent. Members will also elect directors to fill the expired terms of Clemens Egert, route 3, Appleton; George Schaumburg, route 3, Seymour and Allyn Staley, route 1, Seymour. Mike Snyder, state Holstein association fieldman, will brief members on the activities of the state organization.

Clintonville chapter of Eastern Star installs new officers

CLINTONVILLE — Installation of officers for the new year was held at the recent meeting of the Clintonville Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. Installing officers were Cindy Drifflin, Shawano, worthy matron; Margaret McCauley, Marshall; Venita Krister, chaplain, and Pat Henschel, Marion, secretary. The new officers include Elaine Nielson, worthy matron; Owen Nielson, worthy patron; Margaret McCauley, associate matron; John Polzin, associate patron; Orlene Hughes, secretary and Helen Quall, treasurer.

Police & fire beat

CHILTON — Slippery roads were a contributing factor when a car driven by Alvin Buechel, 29, route 2, slid and struck the guard rail of the newly painted S. State Street bridge about 4:45 a.m. Wednesday. According to preliminary traffic reports, Buechel was southbound on S. State Street when his auto started to slide, hitting the rails and coming to rest on the edge of the wall. Buechel sustained a slight mouth cut. No estimate of damage to his auto or the bridge was available. CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer rescue squad was called at 12:25 p.m. Dec. 31 to the Shell Service Station on S. Main Street to assist an employee at the service station who was splashed in the face with water from a radiator. Lawrence Michaelis, Big Falls, was transported to the Clintonville Community Hospital.

Free and Accepted Masons install new officers at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Clintonville Lodge No. 197 of Free and Accepted Masons installed officers for the coming year recently. Those officers included: Edward Mitchell, worship master; Henry Stengstock, senior warden; Nathan Tribbey, junior warden; Woodrow Smith, treasurer; John Kafka, secretary; Owen William Schulz, tyler.

Keeping posted

CLINTONVILLE — The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose will be held at 8 p. m. Jan. 3 at the Moose Lodge.

4-H, FFA clubs get free shrubs, birds in project

WAUPACA — Members of Waupaca County 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America (FFA) chapters are asked to place their orders for free trees, shrubs and pheasants with their leaders this month. Total orders must be submitted to the UW-Extension Office, Waupaca County Courthouse, on or before Feb. 1.

Each youngster taking part in the statewide project can receive a maximum of 150 trees (white pine, Norway pine and white spruce) and 150 shrubs. There is no official limit on pheasant chicks, according to Dieter Harle, Waupaca County 4-H and Youth Agent. He suggests that a minimum order be 25 birds.

This past year, 268 members of 4-H and FFA throughout the county planted 56,800 free trees donated by the Department of Natural Resources.

"This year we are aiming at doubling the program which has added so much to the beautification and wildlife of the county and supported maximum land use," said Harle. "Parents and adult leaders should assist youth with the planning and ordering of these trees, shrubs, and pheasants. Whether or not they have sufficient time and adequate space to give proper care is the key."

Job's Daughters install officers

CLINTONVILLE — Job's Daughters, Bethel 26, Clintonville held installation ceremonies at its Dec. 27 meeting. Installing officers for the ceremonies were:

Judy Christensen, installing honor queen; Mary Schultz, installing guide; Vicki Kafka, installing marshal; Mary Blisset, installing chaplain; Debbie Wiese, installing recorder; Carol Bate, installing junior custodian and Terri Henschel, installing senior custodian. Adele Lutzewitz was organist and Jon Alton was soloist.

Serving on the Guardian Council were Marion Utschig, Bethel guardian; John Kafka, associate guardian; Patricia Henschel, guardian secretary;

Charlotte Bertram, guardian treasurer and Carol Fuchs, director of music. Bethel 26 officers installed for the winter and spring terms, 1974, were Linda Bertram, honored queen; Bonnie Fuchs, senior princess; Mary Henschel, junior princess; Barbara Wood, guide; Carol Nielson, marshal; Judy Christensen, chaplain; Nona Sandburg, recorder; Nancy Jo Lewis, junior custodian; Michelle Romanoff, senior custodian; Jody Zabel, treasurer; Debbie Morgan, librarian; Sara Newton, first messenger; Jean Lewis, second messenger; Jill Smith, third messenger; Lisa Mayne, fourth messenger; Claire Williamson, fifth messenger, and Mrs. June Schultz, musician.

Willis, who was appointed after local judges disqualified themselves, reprimanded Juno but refused to levy a jail term.

He conceded that "the public probably won't be satisfied with the sentence."

Before pleading no contest, Juno waived a preliminary hearing. He faced a maximum penalty of $500 or a year in prison or both.

The court might be willing to terminate probation after one year, Willis indicated.

Juno was charged by the state Department of Justice in mid November, a year after a routine state audit turned up a $1,485.31 shortage in the county traffic police parking ticket and accident report sales accounts.

On Nov. 17, 1972, Juno, whose office had charge of the funds in those accounts under an accounting and bookkeeping system that has since been revised, turned $1,485.31 over to the county treasurer.

A major portion of the payment consisted of 10 $100 bills.

The state charged that between Jan. 1, 1968, and November, 1972, Juno kept $500 of $756 in county parking violation fines for his own use.

State agents said the $500 in question had been deposited in a local bank.

Calumet County officials, including Dist. Atty. Franklin Schmieder and members of the county board's protection of persons and property committee, had insisted after the shortages were revealed that the problem was in improper bookkeeping and accounting procedures in the traffic police office. Changes were ordered a year ago, which officials said corrected the money problems.

But in early 1973, Lt. Donald Kossman of the Calumet County Sheriff's Department was ordered to make a full investigation. The traffic office is separate from the sheriff's department in Calumet County.

It was known that Kossman contacted persons who had paid traffic fines to Juno's department.

No charges resulted from the sheriff's department probe. At midyear, the justice department got involved in the investigation which continued at least through Sept. 17, when state agents took a two-page statement from Juno in the office of a Chilton attorney.

Juno offered to resign at least twice shortly after the fund shortages were revealed, but the protection of persons and property committee, to which he was responsible, refused to accept the offers.

Farmers to get conservation aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers will get scaled-down conservation assistance next year, far less than Congress appropriated, the Agriculture Department announced Wednesday.

The Department will spend $90 million for a new Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP) to help them carry out approved projects on their land.

Congress has appropriated $175 million for the conservation program, but White House budget officials have impounded nearly one-half of the money to hold down federal spending.

Officials said, however, that a $10-million water bank program, first provided in 1971 to help preserve wetlands for migratory waterfowl, will be operated at the full level set by Congress.

The new RECP venture incorporates many of the government's past conservation practices and also includes an emphasis on long-range conservation and tree planting. It succeeds the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) which was terminated a year ago.

Congress had appropriated $225.5 million for 1973 REAP operations but the administration then said it would spend only $140 million.

On Dec. 26, 1972, the Department disclosed it had suspended the 1973 program entirely, a few days before Christmas.

Police & fire beat

DALE — Michael L. Pett, 19, route 1, Fremont, received leg, face and hand cuts when his car crashed off U.S. 10, one-half mile west of Outagamie County Trunk TT about 6:10 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said Pett was driving west on 10 when his auto left the pavement, struck a highway marker post and entered the south ditch, where the vehicle traveled about 200 feet before straddling an embankment and striking a utility pole.

Pett was listed in fair condition today at Appleton's St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The Appleton Area Jaycees haven't decided yet whether to conduct a 1974 Soap Box Derby in the Fox Cities.

Chevrolet, traditional sponsor of the national contest, ended its financial aid for this year's event after the derby winner was exposed as having cheated. That resulted in formation of the All American Soap Box Derby Inc., by the Akron Area Chamber of Commerce but Dec. 28 the Derby group ended its participation because of a lack of funds.

"We have been dealing with many companies across the country in an attempt to secure a new national sponsor," said George W. Brittain, president of the group. "Although some of these firms have expressed considerable interest, they have not pledged the needed financial support."

In his announcement, Brittain said the group would retain all rights to the program and he encouraged local groups to continue contests.

The Appleton Jaycees have received only local financing in the past but collapse of the national contest puts it in jeopardy, according to James Krupka, Appleton, a director and past president of the organization.

A total of 110 youngsters participated in the contest last year, said Krupka. It was open to any youngster from Oshkosh to Green Bay.

"No funds at all came from national," he said.

The Jaycees have scheduled a board of directors meeting Tuesday at which they will decide whether to continue the program.

Jaycee President Nicholas Kraft said adequate sponsorship must be assured on the local level before the event can take place.

He speculated that an end to the national program might make local sponsors hesitant and said the organization cannot present the event without financial aid.
